Case Is Adjourned Until Tomorrow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Picture on Back Page.)

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 22.—Samuel Insull's fight to avoid extradition to the United States will be extended until late this week. The Greek Court of Appeals resumed the hearing this morning, but adjourned at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon until 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The court has a murder case scheduled for tomorrow and will, therefore, be unable to continue the Insull hearing.

Christos Ladas, the third lawyer of the former Chicago utilities magnate, who is wanted by the United States government to stand trial on charges of violation of federal bankruptcy laws in connection with the crash of some of his companies, has yet to speak and Prosecutor Anthony Reganakos has a long rebuttal to make. Court officials said today that probably two more sessions would be required and that the arguments would not be finished until Wednesday.

Court May Delay Decision.

The court also might take the case under advisement for several days before rendering a decision.

Today's hearing was devoted exclusively to the resumed speech of Attorney Pericles Rhallys in behalf of Insull. Rhallys is a member of the Popular or government party and brought that fact to the court's attention at the preliminary hearing in August when Insull's arrest was confirmed.

His speech today was frequently interrupted by questions from the court, especially from Judge Digenopoulos, who kept pouring a crossfire of corrections and queries at Rhallys. Sometimes Insull's other lawyers jumped up to aid their colleague.

Calls Insull Victim of Crisis.

Rhallys sought to show principally that Insull was merely a victim of the economic crisis in the United States and furthermore that the United States bankruptcy law under which he stands indicted is unconstitutional. He cited the deposition of John H. Wigmore, dean emeritus of the Northwestern university law school as proof.

[Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, revealed in Chicago on Saturday that he had employed Dean Wigmore to render a "considered opinion" on the law.]

This brought a sharp reminder from Presiding Judge Panegyrakis that "we are not concerned here with judging the constitutionality of American laws."

There was a running fire of quips and exchanges between the counsel and the court. Prosecutor Reganakos remarked dryly:

"Your Wigmore says that Americans do not know how to make laws to conform to their constitution. Does he want us to do it for them?"

Resents Prosecutor's Remark.

"You cannot speak ironically about a great authority like Wigmore," Rhallys replied.

Insull entered the courtroom bright and early. He wore a blue suit and looked rested. He said he felt fine and had slept well. He walked about the court asking people how they thought he would fare.

It was a bright, sunshiny day and the courtroom was crowded. On the wall was a clock which has not been in operation for weeks. Its hands registered 1:30 o'clock. The noise of the Sunday holiday crowds came through the windows. The dingy brass crystal chandeliers looked gaudy in the bright sunlight.

Lawyer Fingers Glass Beads.

Soon Ladas entered, fingering a string of black glass beads. He always carries them. Then came Rhallys in an "ice cream" suit. Finally Forrest Harness, assistant United States attorney general, appeared, accompanied by an interpreter.

Harness nodded pleasantly to Insull and inquired after his health. A representative of the American legation also appeared in court. At 10:30 o'clock President Panegyrakis and the rest of the judges entered. Panegyrakis, who looks like a Kentucky colonel, grabbed the big dinner bell on the bench before him, gave it a couple of shakes and announced the court was in session.

Attorney Rhallys contended in his opening remarks with the transfers of funds which Insull made as co-

Mrs. Georgette Winkler, widow of Gus Winkler, who was shot to death by assassins two weeks ago, tried to end her life with gas in her fifteenth floor apartment at 3300 Lake Shore drive last night. She was found unconscious and was revived half an hour later by a fire department rescue squad. On regaining consciousness she cried out that she wanted to die, "to be with Gus."

Mrs. Winkler was under subpœna to appear as a witness today at the resumption of the inquest into the murder of her husband. Whether this was a contributing factor in her suicide attempt could not be determined, but it was known that she had been despondent since Winkler's death. At the first inquest hearing she declared: "They are trying to crucify me," but she never explained the reference.

Viewed as a Key Witness.

Mrs. Winkler is considered an important witness by the coroner's jury, but it was regarded as unlikely that she would be able to appear at today's hearing. Several members of the jury, it is understood, wish to ask her if she knew whether her husband was friendly with County Commissioner Charles H. Weber. Winkler was slain in front of Weber's beer distributing agency at 1414 Roscoe street. Weber has denied knowing him.

Since Winkler's death Mrs. Winkler has brooded. Friends knew this and that knowledge operated to save her life. Last evening Mrs. Winkler telephoned Mrs. Bernice Burke, wife of Fred [Killer] Burke, who is now serving a life sentence in the Michigan prison at Marquette for the murder of a policeman. Mrs. Burke lives at 2970 Sheridan road and is known there as Miss Bonnie White. She and Burke were married at Ottumwa, Ia., in 1930, and it was while living with her on a farm near Springfield, Mo., that he was captured.

The Burkes and the Winklers had long been friends, and since her husband's conviction Mrs. Burke had lived on the north side close to the Winklers. Thus it was last night that Mrs. Winkler, contemplating suicide, called her on the telephone.

"I'm going on a long ride," she told Mrs. Burke. "Come up and see me before I leave—but not for an hour yet."

Friend Gives the Alarm.

Mrs. Burke disregarded the plea to wait an hour and hurried to 3300 Lake Shore drive. She found Mrs. Winkler's apartment locked and noticed the odor of gas, so she notified Raymond Mather, house manager. Mather went into the basement and shut off the gas connection to the Winkler suite. Police and firemen were called. Lieut. Richard Cull of Fire Rescue Squad 10 and Sergt. Martin Walsh of the Town Hall police entered the apartment with a passkey.

Dressed in a black evening gown, Mrs. Winkler was lying across the kitchen range. Six surface burners and three oven burners were open. Lieut. Cull's men worked half an hour and revived her.

"Gus, I want to die; I want to go with you," were her first words.

Tells Doctor Her Death Hope.

Later, while she was being attended by Dr. Oscar Cliff, Mrs. Winkler said: "You're not doing me a favor by letting me live. I want to die." She refused to talk with the police.

Several members of the coroner's jury, among them Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, were informed of Mrs. Winkler's act. Col. Chamberlin questioned whether Mrs. Winkler had actually tried suicide, intimating that some one who wanted her out of the way tried to kill her.

On the recommendation of Col. Chamberlin an extra police squad was placed at the Winkler apartment to keep Mrs. Winkler and Mrs. Burke as technical prisoners. The colonel announced later that he wanted Mrs. Burke to appear as a witness at the inquest today. This, if it is brought about, may reopen the entire associa-

Chicago commuters may make their farewell kisses to their wives as lingering as they wish, railroad authorities here agreed yesterday. The announcement was prompted by reports from New York that police there will stop husbands and wives from kissing in railroad stations on the ground that it is obstructing traffic.

"A kiss is part of the fascination of passenger train travel," declared John C. Rill, general manager of the Pennsylvania railroad. "We never have had any trains delayed because of farewell kisses by our patrons. We try to do everything in our power to keep our passengers happy and contented and if kissing will help accomplish this purpose, it is certainly all right with us."

The complaints in New York were that the affectionate farewells there stalled traffic and prevented some commuters from catching their trains.

SETTLE ARRIVES TODAY TO RISE TO STRATOSPHERE

Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle will arrive in Chicago over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at 8:05 a. m. today to complete preparations for his second stratosphere flight attempt, which he expects to make early tomorrow morning from the Goodyear landing field at the Fair grounds. Present weather conditions indicate that the attempt will be made some time after midnight tonight. News of the decision was given to Fair officials in a telegram sent by Commander Settle Saturday from the plant of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation at Akron, O. Maj. Chester L. Fordney of the United States marine corps will accompany the naval flyer.

BURNING PILE OF WOMEN'S GARB PUZZLES POLICE

The county highway police at Morton Grove were given a mystery to solve yesterday with the finding of a pile of women's clothing in a hole 100 feet south of Lake avenue, just west of Harms road, not far from Glenview. The clothing had been set on fire and when found was still burning. In the hole were a white sport coat, a blue coat, a reddish brown dress, a set of silk undergarments, and a pair of gilt shoes. Twenty feet away was a pair of blue shoes. The burning garments were discovered by two forest conservation workers.

Trap 'Perfect Crime' Killer; He Confesses

The "perfect crime" of Edward J. McCann, 53 years old, operator of a Detroit booze flat and student of criminology, was completely cleared up yesterday by his arrest and confession in Chicago. McCann confessed that he killed his wife, Mrs. Laurier McCann, 34 years old, in their home at Detroit on Sept. 1 and then hacked her body to pieces.

Harry Hickman, 1939 Lincoln avenue, a brother-in-law of Mrs. McCann, brought about McCann's arrest through his unceasing vigilance. McCann had been living at a relief shelter at 116 South Green street since his arrival in Chicago on Oct. 12.

Seized on Madison Street.

"Well, I never thought I would be caught," McCann said calmly when taken to the Des Plaines street police station. "I must have slipped up somewhere."

The amateur criminologist, who read murder stories avidly and often confided to friends how he would escape arrest in such cases, had slipped up on one vital point—his wife's finger prints. Some years ago she became involved in difficulty with the immigration bureau while coming from Canada to the United States, and as a result her finger prints were taken. They served to identify her body, or at least what was found of it, after her murder, and thus the search for McCann began.

Confession of McCann.

In his confession McCann said that after he lost his job in Detroit as an automobile mechanic he and his wife opened a booze flat, although he didn't drink. Mrs. McCann did, though, he added, and this led to quarrels. On Sept. 1 they had a dispute, McCann said. She tossed a glass of whisky in his face and he struck her. Then he choked her to death.

With his wife dead in his home, McCann, a few hours later, faced a trying situation. That was when Hickman and his wife, Loretto, Mrs. McCann's sister, arrived from Chicago to visit them.

"Laurier? Why, she just left for Chicago and the World's Fair," McCann told them without a trace of nervousness. "Too bad you missed her."

The Hickmans left, believing his story. Then McCann, Detroit police records reveal, tried to make his crime "perfect and detection proof." He cut his wife's body to pieces with a knife. He threw the torso in a ditch 20 miles from Detroit and the other parts elsewhere. The head is still missing.

The arms and hands were found on Labor day, however, spoiling his perfect crime. Until then the identity of the victim had not been established, but with the hands the finger prints were available, and search was begun for McCann. Hickman took an active part in the hunt.

On Oct. 12—the day McCann came to Chicago—Hickman by chance saw him in front of the relief station in the old Criminal court building, but could not get the police in time to arrest him. Yesterday afternoon Hickman saw McCann again at Madison street and Union avenue. He called the police and this time McCann was seized.

Garner Talks of Speech: "I Got Limit of Doves"

Garner, who habitually retires at 9 p. m., sat up beyond that hour long enough to hear what President Roosevelt had to say about recovery plans and accomplishments over the air tonight. Asked to comment, Garner merely smiled and said he and Ross Brumfield, an old friend, had returned from a dove hunt with the limit, 15 birds each.

ICELAND'S WETS PILE UP BIG LEAD TO WIPE OUT PROHIBITION LAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Oct. 22.—Although the weather was favorable, only 50 per cent of the population recorded votes today in a referendum on the repeal of the prohibition law. The results in Reykjavik and four towns show a majority of 4,206 in favor of repeal of the prohibition law imposed upon Iceland in 1913 by Denmark, the mother country.

Sentiment in Reykjavik was overwhelmingly wet, 6,972 voting for repeal and 2,762 against. But in the four towns the vote was almost deadlocked, 1,702 favoring repeal and 1,706 were against it.

Results from the country districts are doubtful, but it is believed Reykjavik's huge majority will turn the scale against prohibition and assure the importation of liquor by New Year's.

BOOST PRICES, THEN PEG MONEY, ROOSEVELT PLAN

PRESIDENT TELLS HIS PROGRAM TO HELP THE NATION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The following is the text of President Roosevelt's address made tonight from the White House:

"It is three months since I have talked with the people of this country about our national problems, but during this period many things have happened and I am glad to say that the major part of them have greatly helped the well-being of the average citizen.

"Because, in every step which your government is taking, we are thinking in terms of the average of you—in the old words 'the greatest good to the greatest number'—we as reasonable people cannot expect to bring definite benefits to every person or to every occupation or business or industry or agriculture.

"In the same way no reasonable person can expect that in this short space of time, during which new machinery had to be not only put to work but first set up, every locality in every one of the 48 states of the country could share equally and simultaneously in the trend to better times.

"The whole picture, however—the average of the whole territory from coast to coast—the average of the whole population of 120 million people—shows to any person willing to look facts and action of which you and I can be proud.

"In the early spring of this year there were actually and proportionately more people out of work in this country than in any other nation in the world. Fair estimates showed 12 or 13 millions unemployed last March. Among those there were, of course, several millions who could be classed as normally unemployed—people who worked occasionally when they felt like it, and others who preferred not to work at all.

"It seems, therefore, fair to say that there were about 10 millions of our citizens who earnestly, and in many cases hungrily, were seeking work and could not get it. Of these, in the short space of a few months, I am convinced that at least 4 millions have been given employment—or, saying it another way, 40 per cent of those seeking work have found it.

"We Are on the Way."

"That does not mean, my friends, that I am satisfied, or that you are satisfied that our work is ended. We have a long way to go, but we are on the way.

"How are we constructing the edifice of recovery — the temple which, when completed, will no longer be a temple of money changers or of beggars, but rather a temple dedicated to and maintained for a greater social justice, a greater welfare for America—the habitation of a sound economic life? We are building, stone by stone, the columns which will support that habitation. Those columns are many in number, and, though for a moment the progress of one column may disturb the progress on the pillar next to it, the work on all of them must proceed without let or hindrance.

"We all know that immediate re-

Government Agency Will Buy and Sell Gold.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—To the clamorous farmer demanding inflation and the insistent business world demanding a definite statement of monetary policy, President Roosevelt replied tonight with the momentous announcement that he is headed for a managed currency and a dollar of fixed value.

Speaking over the radio in his fourth talk to the people concerning "Our National Problems," the President revealed his intention to cut loose from his more conservative advisers and try even more radical means than his multifarious recovery administrations to boost commodity prices.

No Immediate Inflation.

The President said that he would not resort to immediate inflation. His program is to raise commodity prices to a satisfactory level, then diminish the gold content of the dollar and peg prices and dollars so that they will remain in a constantly balanced equation.

To inflate now would be to put the cart before the horse, the President told the critics who have deluged him with demands for immediate action to bring the dollar down and commodity prices up.

Higher prices must come first, the President declared.

But they are to be attained by a manipulation closely allied to inflation if the scheme indicated in the President's address is carried out.

Unchanging Dollar Is Goal.

The goal of his policy, the President declared, is "a dollar which will not change its purchasing and debt paying power during the succeeding generation."

As administrator of a management fund similar to those of Great Britain and Sweden, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the President revealed, has already been authorized to purchase and sell newly mined gold in the United States and to trade in it in the world market when necessary to stabilize the foreign exchange value of the dollar.

"My aim in taking this step," the President told the millions listening to him on the air, "is to establish and maintain continuous control. This is a policy, not an expedient. It is not to be used to offset a temporary fall in prices. We are thus continuing to move toward a managed currency."

May Strive for 1926 Level.

The commodity price level aimed at, as the President has previously indicated, is that of 1926.

Whether the dollar of unchanging value envisioned by the President is to be an actual "commodity dollar," the gold content of which will be altered in keeping with the fluctuations of the commodity price index, the President did not plainly state.

Many who heard the President could not see how his scheme could lead to anything but a commodity dollar in the end—or to outright inflation.

As described here, the difference between the commodity dollar, long advocated by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, and the planned currency is that the former depends entirely on the index of prices. The controlled dollar, it is expected, will take into consideration not only commodity prices but the movement of credit and business in the same manner that the federal reserve board does in fixing the discount rate.

See Gold Price Increase.

The assumption is that the plan will be put into effect through a gradual increase in the cost of gold, the price of which now lies within the authority of the treasury. It is the theory that commodity prices will follow those of gold. It is estimated by those who have long advocated such a plan that gold will have to be pushed up to $40 an ounce in order to restore the 1926 level. Last Saturday's price was $29.01, as compared with the $20.67 fixed by international agreement in 1920.

By manipulating the price of gold it is intended to accomplish for prices what manipulation of the rediscount rates does for credit.

Professors Work Out Plan.

The plan, as interpreted here, is based essentially on that of John Maynard Keynes, the British economist, and later adopted and adapted to American needs by Prof. George F. Warren of Cornell university and Prof.

Roosevelt Reviews Recovery Program and Tells of Its Goals

James Harvey Rogers of Yale university.

Profs. Warren and Rogers, who have been the President's constant advisers while they worked on their monetary scheme during the past summer, were participants in a lengthy conference at the White House this afternoon before the final draft of the speech was prepared. They arrived and departed with an attempt at utmost secrecy.

By a recent executive order the treasury was authorized to buy newly mined gold and sell it at world prices, but the law would not permit the treasury to trade in gold for the purpose of stabilizing exchange. The federal reserve for a time was considered the proper agency, but was finally ruled out because of the risk involved. The Reconstruction Finance corporation was ultimately settled upon as the proper instrumentality to handle the management fund.

Nationalistic System Is Aim.

As referred to in the President's remarks concerning the too great influence of foreign exchange and foreign events, the new policy aims at a purely nationalistic monetary system. Behind the gold embargo gold prices and commodity prices are to be juggled at will, while use of the management fund, buying and selling gold and exchange abroad, is counted on to keep the dollar in satisfactory relation to foreign currencies.

The eyes of the administration will be turned tomorrow both toward the stock exchanges and commodity markets at home and on the money markets abroad. If his statement has the effect expected of it, securities and commodities should react upward, the dollar abroad should fall in value.

Aimed at Speedier Results.

Announcement of the new plan is being generally interpreted, not as an abandonment of measures already in motion to lift prices, but as a confession that they have not worked swiftly enough.

If carried to its logical conclusion, the program means the ultimate fixation of the value of the dollar with a diminished gold content, the resumption of free trade in gold, and of gold redemptions, doubtless on a bullion basis.

The President's plan indicates a choice of the mid-ground between the two extremes—the greenbackers on the one hand, and the sound money men on the other, represented by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, Gov. Black of the federal reserve board, and Director of the Budget Douglas. It is an acceptance of the plan long advocated by the organization of business men headed by George F. Rand of Buffalo, known as the committee of the nation.

Demands for Inflation.

Since July, when commodity prices made the first dive from the peak, after four months of steady rise, there have been demands on the part of the agrarian organizations and their spokesmen in congress that the President inflate the currency.

A field day for the southern greenbackers was held in Washington during September. That immediate situation was met by the President by putting into effect the plan of loaning 10 cents per pound for cotton.

It was to these inflationists that the President spoke when he rebuked them for demanding permanent revaluation of the dollar first. But that they were well satisfied with the new policy was evidenced when Senator Elmer D. Thomas [Dem., Okla.], one of their most active leaders, declared tonight, following the address:

"If it means what I think it does, I am more than pleased."

Report Opposes Inflation.

Strongly opposing the greenback policy of the southern senators were the officials of the government concerned with its fiscal affairs. Headed by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, the chairman of the federal reserve board, the governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, they prepared a confidential report for the President frowning upon all kinds of inflation and proposing an immediate stabilizing of the dollar, in relationship to gold. Throughout the past month the indications were that this conservative plan was to be followed.

The belief that the President had definitely abandoned all attempts to lift prices by tinkering with the dollar was said by financial leaders to have been the cause for the subscription of the two billion dollars to the recent government bond issue offering of a half billion dollars.

In addition to the demands of the inflationists, there have poured in on the White House for weeks demands from business for a definite statement of monetary policy, on the ground that money and credit would not come out of hiding until the uncertainty was dispelled. For weeks the President has refused to commit himself, though many in the administration were positive that the recession in prices was due in large part to lack of confidence.

Lack of Confidence Blamed.

This argument, in fact, has been used freely in combating the obvious argument against the controlled currency plan, that though the price of gold has been raised to $29, or nearly 50 per cent above its old price, commodities have been falling. Lack of confidence, lack of assurance that the managed currency scheme would be strictly pursued, was the reason, it was argued.

In contrast to its significance the portion of the President's address dealing with his monetary policy was in length but a quarter of the total speech.

As he sat at the microphone amid the blue brocaded walls of the White House's diplomatic reception room President Roosevelt devoted the major portion of his talk to the nation to a reassertion of his intention to continue in force the recovery policies now in motion.

To the turbulent unrest among the farmers of the west, to strikes among the workers, to discontent at rising prices among the urban dwellers, and to resentment among regimented employers, he made reference only in general terms.

Promises Renewed Efforts.

He exhorted the restless to patience; reminded the discontented that better times could not come to all in equal measure or with equal speed, and promised further and renewed efforts for the future.

To reach the goal, the President said, was not a matter of a few months, but might require one, two, or three years.

There was no message, as had been expected, directed straight at the striking farmers of the west and detailing what the administration intends to do to right the present inequality between what the farmer sells and what he must buy.

There was no direct answer to the complaint that the national recovery and the agricultural adjustment programs have not been properly geared, so that the result has been rises in industrial prices before farm prices could catch up.

In the same fashion that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, has used to reply to criticisms from the farm belt, the President contented himself with replying that the NRA had nothing to do with farm prices or with public works, or—except indirectly—with rural communities.

Faults which have been found with the administration program the President was inclined to blame on speculators and chiselers.

True, he said, the prices of farm products have recently declined. But their fall, he declared, was from an artificial peak to which they were driven by speculators who did not know one farm commodity from another.

Similarly, in the case of industrial commodity prices, President Roosevelt said, the chiseler was to blame for seeking to "make undue profits on untrue statements."

Large Sums Loaned.

"Two other great agencies are in full swing. The Reconstruction Finance corporation continues to lend large sums to industry and finance with the definite objective of making easy the extending of credit to industry, commerce, and finance.

"The program of public works in three months has advanced to this point: Out of a total appropriated for public works of 3 billion 300 million, 1 billion 800 million has already been allocated to federal projects of all kinds and literally in every part of the United States and work on these is starting forward. In addition 300 millions have been allocated to public works to be carried out by states, municipalities, and private organizations, such as those undertaking slum clearance.

"The balance of the public works money, nearly all of it intended for state or local projects, waits only on the presentation of proper projects by the states and localities themselves. Washington has the money and is waiting for the proper projects to which to allot it.

Praises Farm Coöperation.

"Another pillar in the making is the agricultural adjustment administration. I have been amazed by the extraordinary degree of coöperation given to the government by the cotton farmers in the south, the wheat farmers of the west, the tobacco farmers of the southeast, and I am confident that the corn hog farmers of the middle west will come through in the same magnificent fashion. The problem we seek to solve had been steadily getting worse for twenty years, but during the last six months we have made more rapid progress than any nation has ever made in a like period of time.

"It is true that in July farm commodity prices had been pushed up higher than they are today, but that push came in part from pure speculation by people who could not tell you the difference between wheat and rye, by people who had never seen cotton growing, by people who did not know that hogs were fed on corn—people who have no real interest in the farmer and his problems.

Get More for Products.

"In spite, however, of the speculative reaction from the speculative advance, it seems to be well established that during the course of the year 1933 the farmers of the United States will receive 33 per cent more dollars for what they have produced than they received in the year 1932. Put in another way, they will receive $400 in 1933 where they received $300 the year before. That, remember, is for the average of the country, for I have reports that some sections are not any better off than they were a year ago. This applies among the major products, especially to cattle raising and the dairy industry. We are going after those problems as fast as we can.

"I do not hesitate to say in the simplest, clearest language of which I am capable, that although the prices of many products of the farm have gone up and although many farm families are better off than they were last year, I am not satisfied either with the amount or the extent of the rise, and that it is definitely a part of our policy to increase the rise and to extend it to those products which have as yet felt no benefit. If we cannot do this one way we will do it another. Do it we will.

Outlines NRA Object.

"Standing beside the pillar of the farm—the AAA—is the pillar of industry—the NRA. Its object is to put industry and business workers into employment and to increase their purchasing power through increased wages.

"It has abolished child labor. It has eliminated the sweat shop. It has ended sixty cents a week paid in some mills and eighty cents a week paid in some mines. The measure of the growth of this pillar lies in the total figures of reëmployment which I have already given you and in the fact that reëmployment is continuing and not stopping. The secret of NRA is coöperation. That coöperation has been voluntarily given through the signing of the blanket codes and through the signing of specific codes which already include all of the greater industries of the nation.

"In the vast majority of cases, in the vast majority of localities, the NRA has been given support in unstinted measure. We know that there are chiselers. At the bottom of every case of criticism and obstruction we have found some selfish interest, some private ax to grind.

Tells of Misconception.

"Ninety per cent of complaints come from misconception. For example, it has been said that NRA has failed to raise the price of wheat and corn and hogs; that NRA has not loaned enough money for local public works. Of course, NRA has nothing whatsoever to do with the price of farm products nor with public works. It has to do only with industrial organization for economic planning to wipe out unfair practices and to create reëmployment. Even in the field of business and industry NRA does not apply to the rural communities or to towns of under 2,500 population, except insofar as those towns contain factories or chain stores which come under a specific code.

"It is also true that among the chiselers to whom I have referred there are not only the big chiselers but also petty chiselers who seek to make undue profit on untrue statements.

Gives Processing Example.

"Let me cite to you the example of the salesman in a store in a large eastern city who tried to justify the increase in the price of a cotton shirt from one dollar and a half to two dollars and a half by saying to the customer that it was due to the cotton processing tax. Actually in that shirt there was about one pound of cotton and the processing tax amounted to four and a quarter cents on that pound of cotton.

"At this point it is only fair that I should give credit to the sixty or seventy million people who live in the cities and larger towns of the nation for their understanding and their willingness to go along with the payment of even these small processing taxes, though they know full well that the proportion of the processing taxes on cotton goods and on food products paid for by city dwellers goes 100 per cent towards increasing the agricultural income of the farm dwellers of the land.

Tells of Closed Bank Aid.

"The last pillar of which I speak is that of the money of the country in the banks of the country. There are two simple facts.

"First, the federal government is about to spend one billion dollars as an immediate loan on the frozen or nonliquid assets of all banks closed since Jan. 1, 1933, giving a liberal appraisal to those assets. This money will be in the hands of the depositors as quickly as it is humanly possible to get it out.

"Secondly, the government bank deposit insurance on all accounts up to $2,500 goes into effect on Jan. 1. We are now engaged in seeing to it that on or before that date the banking capital structure will be built up by the government to the point that the banks will be in sound condition when the insurance goes into effect.

"Finally, I repeat what I have said on many occasions, that ever since last March the definite policy of the government has been to restore commodity price levels. The object has been the attainment of such a level as will enable agriculture and industry once more to give work to the unemployed. It has been to make possible the payment of public and private debts more nearly at the price level at which they were incurred.

Plans to Restore Balance.

"It has been gradually to restore a balance in the price structure so that farmers may exchange their products for the products of industry on a fairer exchange basis. It has been and is also the purpose to prevent prices from rising beyond the point necessary to attain these ends. The permanent welfare and security of every class of our people ultimately depends on our attainment of these purposes.

"Obviously, and because hundreds of different kinds of crops and industrial occupations in the huge territory that makes up this nation are involved, we cannot reach the goal in only a few months. We may take one year or two years or three years.

"No one who considers the plain facts of our situation believes that commodity prices, especially agricultural prices, are high enough yet.

"Some people are putting the cart before the horse. They want a permanent revaluation of the dollar first. It is the government's policy to restore the price level first. I would not know, and no one else could tell, just what the permanent valuation of the dollar will be. To guess at a permanent gold valuation now would certainly require later changes caused by later facts.

Aims at Stable Dollar.

"When we have restored the price level we shall seek to establish and maintain a dollar which will not change its purchasing and debt paying power during the succeeding generation. I said that in my message to the American delegation in London last July. And I say it now once more.

"Because of conditions in this country and because of events beyond our control in other parts of the world it becomes increasingly important to develop and apply the further measures which may be necessary from time to time to control the gold value of our own dollar at home.

"Our dollar is now altogether too greatly influenced by the accidents of international trade, by the internal policies of other nations and by political disturbance in other continents. Therefore the United States must take firmly in its own hands the control of the gold value of our dollar. This is necessary in order to prevent dollar disturbances from swinging us away from our ultimate goal—namely: the continued recovery of our commodity prices.

Government Gold Market.

"As a further effective means to this end I am going to establish a government market for gold in the United States. Therefore, under the clearly defined authority of existing law, I am authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to buy gold newly mined in the United States at prices to be determined from time to time after consultation with the secretary of the treasury and the President. Whenever necessary to the end in view, we shall also buy or sell gold in the world market.

"My aim in taking this step is to establish and maintain continuous control.

"This is a policy and not an expedient.

"It is not to be used merely to offset a temporary fall in prices. We are thus continuing to move towards a managed currency.

"You will recall the dire predictions made last spring by those who did not agree with our common policies of raising prices by direct means. What actually happened stood out in sharp contrast with those predictions. Government credit is high, prices have risen in part. Doubtless prophets of evil still exist in our midst. But government credit will be maintained and a sound currency will accompany a rise in the American commodity price level.

Recalls His Promises.

"I have told you tonight the story of our steady but sure work in building our common recovery. In my promises to you, both before and after March 4th, I made two things plain: First, that I pledged no miracles, and, second, that I would do my best.

"I thank you for your patience and your faith. Our troubles will not be over tomorrow, but we are on our way and we are headed in the right direction."

GOLD PROGRAM IS APPROVED BY MINE INDUSTRY

Denver Mint Head Sees Revival Coming.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's gold policy announced in Washington tonight was greeted with general favor by officials and others in touch with the mining industry.

There were some predictions of mining booms. The consensus was that a price in excess of the old domestic figure of $20.67 must be assured if the treasury is to benefit.

Mark A. Skinner, superintendent of the United States mint at Denver, forecast "the greatest revival of mining in this region in 20 to 25 years."

Stimulation Held Certain.

"The policy is certain to stimulate mining," said Peter J. Haggerty, superintendent of the United States mint in San Francisco. He said that since the government recently removed some restrictions and permitted sale of gold in the world market receipts at the mint had greatly increased. Daily receipts now never drop below 6,000 ounces, he said, and on one day recently 23,800 ounces were received.

"Mr. Roosevelt's program should stimulate the gold miners of Arizona and other states to quicker action; throw more money into circulation, and relieve the small miner by creating a ready market for his product."

Favors Higher Price.

E. A. Probst, in charge of mining operation of Winston Brothers, declared that "if gold were $40 now the United States government could liquidate all its currency in gold."

C. R. Brazier, secretary of the Montana Silver association, said stabilization of the gold situation should indirectly aid silver "and might lead ultimately to the stabilization of both metals."

Spain Sends Warship to Return Remains of Ibanez

MADRID, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Minister of the Navy Pita Romero departed today aboard a warship for Menton to attend removal of the remains of Vicente Blasco Ibanez to Valencia. An order was issued for a salute of 19 guns when the remains are taken aboard and also on arrival in Valencia.

TREASURY SELLING PRICE OF NEWLY MINED GOLD FLUCTUATES

New York, Oct. 22.—Since 1879 the price of gold in the United States has been fixed at approximately $20.67 an ounce by the statutory provisions requiring the treasury to buy and sell gold at this figure.

Following the suspension of the gold standard here last April the treasury continued to purchase gold from producers at the statutory price and to sell it under license to legitimate users in the arts and industries until early in September.

Beginning on Sept. 8 provision was made for the treasury to accept newly mined gold on consignment for sale in the world market. At the same time it was arranged that sales of gold to the arts and industries should be made at prices based upon the dollar equivalent of the world price of gold.

Since then a selling price for newly mined gold has been quoted daily by the treasury. The first day's price was $29.62 an ounce. The highest price reached since this practice began was $32.28 an ounce on Sept. 20, and the lowest was $29.00 an ounce on Oct. 16. The quotation last Saturday was $29.01 an ounce.

5 BRITONS BRAVE OCEAN DANGERS IN WINDJAMMER

San Pedro, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Five young officers of the British navy arrived here today from Hongkong aboard their 54 foot ketch Tai-Mo-Shan.

They docked after a five months' round-about voyage to the "world's weather factory" among the Aleutian islands. They will continue home to England via the Galapagos islands, Panama, and the West Indies, and expect to arrive in Portsmouth next April. They obtained half-pay leave for the year's sailing jaunt.

The little windjammer's best day's run has been 195 miles, made in the Formosa channel.

Built in Hongkong of teak and Yacal wood, the ketch carries 270 gallons of water and food sufficient for 100 days. She is equipped with a short wave wireless set and direction finder.

LONDON PLEASED AT PROMISE OF DOLLAR CONTROL

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt's new pledge of "sound money" tonight will do little to reassure nervous financial observers here who believe he is being driven inevitably to currency inflation.

Fear of coming inflation has hardened into definite conviction the last month as the difficulties of the American recovery plan have multiplied in every direction. The question now being asked in London financial circles is not whether inflation is coming but when it will appear and how far it will go.

The decision to control the fluctuations of the dollar, however, will be received with universal acclaim in the financial district. London has been hoping for months that the President would take some measures to control the day to day fluctuations which were upsetting business here and sometimes almost demoralizing it. It is assumed here that the President contemplates something similar to the sterling exchange equalization fund which, by operating internationally, can prevent short term speculative fluctuations.

VIEWS OF U. S. EXPERTS.

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in the opinion of monetary experts, served notice on the world tonight that the United States plans to begin aggressive management of the value of its gold currency.

This, it was explained, will give the government a powerful lever with which to lift prices and the program will be designed to protect the dollar from buffetings in the foreign exchange markets or the possible effect of dealings of the British equalization fund.

Announcement of a government gold market with the price of the metal fixed in Washington was interpreted as indicating that the United States would in effect conduct its own equalization fund to control the dollar as the British have been controlling sterling.

Halts Sudden Price Changes.

The fixing of the price at which newly mined gold would be purchased by the R. F. C., it is understood here, would permit the fixation of a definite internal price on gold quite apart from the foreign markets, thus having the objective of preventing sudden depression of commodity prices in this country through sudden rises in the dollar in the foreign exchange market, such as that of the past three weeks.

One economist suggested that the new plan may have a definite bearing on the British war debt negotiations now in progress in Washington. Since England has a vital interest in the ratio of sterling to the dollar and has had the control situation largely in her own hands through the operations of her huge equalization fund, the British have been determined that the dollar should not decline below its old parity with sterling, fearing that it would give an intolerable advantage to American goods in world trade.

Uncertainty as to France.

Another factor in establishing a definite control over the dollar at this time, it was suggested, might well be uncertainty over the ability of France to stay on the gold standard. Fear that the crisis facing the Daladier cabinet over its efforts to balance the budget might result in dislodging France from gold is already believed to have been an important factor in the rise this month in dollars in terms of the French franc.

The United States treasury's present method of fixing the price for newly mined gold hinges chiefly on the French franc, since it is the remaining important world currency still on the gold standard.

Praised by Senator Thomas.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's announcement tonight that the government would establish its own gold market in an attempt to control the currency received at once the acclaim and approval of Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, leader of the inflationist bloc in congress.

Senator Thomas interpreted the proposal as a "promise" of the administration to the country to devalue the dollar in terms of commodities. Such has been the goal of inflationists from the start, he said.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, also saw in the move an obvious step toward devaluing the currency in its relation to gold. He did not think, however, that the proposed government purchases of gold would be sufficient.

CHICAGOANS CONFUSED.

Numerous telephone calls to THE TRIBUNE followed the radio address by President Roosevelt. Some of the callers offered to interpret the President's money plan, while others inquired its meaning. The tone of most inquiries was that of bewilderment.

Indicative of the latter group was the comment of S. O. Levinson, internationalist and author of the Levinson plan for readjustment of German reparations and the war debts. Mr. Levinson said:

"I noticed an apparent inconsistency in the President's address. At one point the President said that he would enhance the prices of commodities—that if he didn't do it one way he would do it another, but do it he would. That I think most people will take to mean inflation of the more feared kind—debasement of the dollar.

"Later on he said he was going to stick to sound money. I can't quite reconcile both of those statements."

TOKIO CHARGES U. S. SEIZES LAND OF JAP IN GUAM

TOKIO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today that representations were being prepared for Washington, D. C., concerning alleged appropriation in the island of Guam of land belonging to a Japanese, Ichiji Shimizu. The spokesman said Shimizu appealed directly to Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Dubuchi at Washington, who referred the matter to Tokio for instructions.

Shimizu, for 35 years a resident of Guam, American-owned island in the Pacific, owned 400 acres of copra plantation and several sailing ships, enjoying unlimited right of entry to Guam.

Shimizu said Gov. Alexander on Aug. 23 notified him that he must dispose of the land in 90 days in accordance with a regulation dated July 1 forbidding foreigners to own land in Guam. He said on Aug. 25 he was given 90 days notice of cancellation of his ships' rights.

M'NUTT WON'T USE TROOPS TO GUARD PRISONS

Urged After Bandit Raid on Police Stations

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Gov. Paul V. McNutt said tonight he believes there is no necessity for using Indiana National Guardsmen to guard state penal institutions against desperadoes who twice in eight days have stripped northern Indiana city police stations of their armament.

Sheriff Charles Sumner of Marion county [Indianapolis] suggested such action to the governor after gunmen had obtained machine guns, rifles, revolvers, and bullet-proof vests from the Auburn and Peru police stations. Sumner said he believed eight of the ten convicts who escaped from the state prison at Michigan City Sept. 26 were collecting arms for raids on the prison and on the state reformatory at Pendleton.

Gov. McNutt said he did not think such action likely. He said he had not received a reported request by Sheriff Sumner for National Guard protection of the Marion county jail and did not know what disposition would be made of it.

Meanwhile police authorities moved to strengthen their forces against further raids by the desperadoes. Al G. Feeney, state director of public safety, announced he will ask Gov. McNutt for permission to double the size of the state police force, now consisting of a captain, three lieutenants, six sergeants, and 58 patrolmen.

WISCONSIN BANK CASHIER POINTS OUT BANDIT HERE

John Monaco, 25 years old, 2140 West Erie street, was identified yesterday at the detective bureau by Clayton Higgs, cashier of the New Lisbon State bank, New Lisbon, Wis., as one of the robbers who took $4,950 in a robbery of the bank on July 10. He was arrested Saturday by Sergts. Matthew Quilter and Bart Walsh. Lyall Wright, former "boy sheriff" of Juneau county, in which New Lisbon is located, has been convicted of helping plot the bank robbery and is serving a sentence of 15 to 30 years in the Waupun penitentiary.

FARM STRIKERS HALTING TRUCKS AT IOWA TOWN

Milo Reno to Ask Aid of Railway Trainmen.

James, Ia., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Farm produce trucks bound for the Sioux City market were being halted by picketeers near here tonight, the first development of its kind since the declaration of the national farm strike last Saturday.

About 75 men were in the group which began its activities on the highway near the town this afternoon. Burning flares were placed along the highway and railroad ties were piled a short distance farther on.

The picketing went forward peacefully during the afternoon. Truckers of farm produce and live stock, who were halted agreed to return to their homes without attempting to run the blockade.

Visitors to the site said they were unable to learn whether the picketers were connected with the Farmers' Holiday association, which launched the farm strike last Saturday.

Reno Says Strike to Continue.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Milo Reno, president of the National Farmers' Holiday association, said the address tonight of President Roosevelt would have no effect on the farm strike his organization has called and reiterated "We're not going to stop this battle until we get what we have demanded, 'cost of production.'"

Reno announced two labor federations had offered their support to his organization. He said he will visit Chicago to confer with A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

D. R. Donovan of Chicago, national secretary of the Continental Congress of Workers and Farmers, assured Reno by letter of "full support to the farmers' holiday association in its entirely justified demands."

George A. Shaffer of Denver, chairman of the executive committee of the Technocratic Federation of the World for Industrial Democracy, wired that "the 5,000,000 members of our federation are squarely behind you."

Receipts of farm products at principal markets this week and next, farm holiday leaders assert, will be the first indication of the strike's effectiveness.

Survey of Conditions.

WISCONSIN: Southern Wisconsin dairymen began movement of produce to the Chicago market as usual, although holiday association leaders said many milk sheds in other parts of the state had closed.

IOWA: At Avoca 600 farmers and business men pledged support. Reno and other officials predicted elevator and creamery in Shelby county would be closed tomorrow. The situation will be considered at a special session of the legislature meeting Nov. 6.

NORTH DAKOTA: Plans completed for withholding crops from market without picketing. The decision to strike is expected to aid Gov. Langer's wheat embargo.

CALIFORNIA: Situation quiet in cotton field areas while governor's fact finding committee arbitrates differences between growers and 10,000 striking workers. Twelve thousand school children went into field Saturday picking crop and some today.

3 BURGLARS CAUGHT BY POLICE AFTER CHASE OF 11 MILES

Sergts. Frank Miller and Edward Hammerbach of the Kensington police captured three members of a gang of four burglars yesterday after an eleven mile chase over streets and railroad tracks on the far south side, in which the police and their quarry exchanged nearly a hundred shots.

The captives are Charles Kelly, 19 years old, 6012 South Ashland avenue; William Colopy, 17 years old, 6430 Scuth Wood street, and Oscar Nyquist, 20 years old, 6612 South Hermitage avenue. Their companion, whom they named as David Flanagan, escaped after their car, which was stolen, was brought to a stop on the Belt Line railroad tracks near 63th street by police bullets which punctured two of the tires.

In the back seat of the car were the cash register and a number of boxes of cigars and cigarets taken from a drug store at 433 West 115th street, where the chase started.

TAXICAB DRIVER NABS 2 SUSPECTS BY NOVEL TRICK

Howard Brant, 4720 Grace street, a Yellow cab driver, tried an original method this morning to save himself from what he feared to be possible robbery. His plan worked and at the same time turned over to police two men who are believed to be members of a bandit gang.

The two men boarded Brant's cab at Montrose and Crawford avenues and directed him to drive east. While he was driving Brant overheard the men discussing a robbery. He became alarmed, fearing they would rob him. He decided upon a bold, novel move.

Brant increased the speed of his cab. His plan was to apply the brakes full force after reaching a speed of 35 miles an hour. This, he figured, would jolt the two passengers so sharply against the glass partition between them and the chauffeur's seat that they would be disabled. At Central avenue Brant stepped on the brakes sharply. The two passengers lurched forward as he had expected. One of them was knocked unconscious and the other almost so. Then Brant drove the men to the Belmont hospital and called police.

STERILIZE UNFIT AS CHURCH DUTY, BISHOP PLEADS

Calls for Britain to Act to Save Race.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Sterilization of the unfit is a religious duty, Dr. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of Birmingham, declared at the annual medical service at Liverpool cathedral today.

"Under the harsh social order which prevailed almost to our own time those human beings manifestly unfitted for the struggle and responsibilities of civilized life failed to survive," Dr. Barnes said. "The unfit, defective, and degenerate were eliminated. But of late, at great cost to the community, they are not only preserved, but allowed to propagate. I ask you to assent to my own conviction that such blind humanitarianism is neither Christian nor sensible.

Flays Ignorance of Doctors.

"Obviously in the light of such knowledge as is already beyond question, we ought not to allow those people in whom serious inheritable defects are apparent to have children.

"Even today doctors in important administrative positions state that the mental defective should not be segregated and sterilized because some children of such a defective may appear normal. The ignorance underlying such arguments deserves the severe censure, 'Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil.'

"It is strange that government action in this country is so tardy. I rejoice to see that the minister of health (Sir Edward Hilton Young) has recognized the need of organized research.

"Must Be Racially Sound."

"If in the troubled years that lie ahead England is to save herself by her exertions and the world by her example, she must be racially sound. We cannot indefinitely carry the burden of a social problem class riddled with mental defects and comprising one-tenth of the community."

AL SMITH VIEWS FAIR AS CITIZEN AMID CHEERING

Total, including Oct. 21, 1893 [174 days].....	19,556,309

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Al Smith, who terms himself "just an ordinary citizen from New York," visited the World's Fair yesterday and took in the sights without fuss or flurry. He was just another visitor, but he attracted more attention than any visiting dignitary who has viewed the Fair in five months, during which high officials became so common that some of them didn't even rate a raised eyebrow from a gate lieutenant.

And Al, in agreement with the rest of his party, had the time of his life. "I don't know when I have had so much fun," he said. "I think it is all a wonderful show."

The party was escorted around the grounds by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, and routine methods of transportation were used for a majority of the trip. Mr. Smith, minus his famous brown derby, but with a cigar stuck at an angle in his mouth, disdained an automobile after luncheon and boarded a bus, tipping his hat right and left and smiling at all within his range.

Accompanied by Large Party.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kenny and their two daughters, Mary and Genevieve; James Getz, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Getz Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George F. Getz Sr., Charles C. Fitzmorris, former chief of police; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Mooney, and Mrs. Harry W. Getz.

In the morning Mr. and Mrs. Smith, escorted by a score of policemen and several thousand admirers, attended church at St. Mary's, Wabash avenue and 9th street. Then, accompanied by Maj. and Mrs. Lohr, the party visited the Fair.

Only 21 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair

Unlike the Fair visitors of most honor guests, the Smith tour was deadly earnest. In a few short hours the grounds, from the Sky Ride to the Hall of Science, had been rather thoroughly investigated. Al, in genial humor and constantly pointing with his cigar, kept the rest of the party mirthful with a running fire of witticisms.

Finds a Waxen Beer Drinker.

"Hey, Katie," he called to Mrs. Smith in the Electrical building, "look what this poor woman got from drinking 3.2 per cent beer."

The horrible example was a wax figure of a woman, built in extremely generous proportions, demonstrating an electrical massage machine. After commenting on this apparent beer drinker, Mr. Smith became interested in the television exhibit of the Hudson-Essex corporation in the same building.

There he stepped into a booth from which his image was thrown on a screen. His comments were broadcast, giving in effect a talking motion picture.

Rides in Rocket Car.

The party returned to the mainland on a rocket car over the Sky Ride cable, after visiting the Court of States and the Federal building. The Hall of Science was the next stop, with Smith taking as much interest in the crowds of visitors as he did in the exhibits.

Maj. Lohr was host at a luncheon in the Administration building, following which the entire party climbed aboard a bus and visited "The Wings of a Century."

In the evening the same party made another tour of the grounds. They saw tires made at the Firestone company exhibit, went through "The World a Million Years Ago," and chuckled over the Baby Incubator, which drew praise from Mrs. Smith. They drank beer at Old Heidelberg, where Al said he enjoyed the music.

After visiting the Streets of Paris the party rode from the island to the mainland on the Sky Ride. From the base of the west side tower Mr. Smith went directly to the Congress hotel.

Today Is His Day.

Today will be official Al Smith day at the Fair, with all wearers of brown derbies admitted free. The high light of the day will be a formal program in the court of the Hall of Science at 2:30 p. m., at which Mr. Smith will speak on a subject not yet announced.

Thousands of visitors cheered Mr. Smith wherever he appeared and he smiled good naturedly and nodded to all. The attendance, drawn by the visit of the "Happy Warrior," had reached a total of 254,394 at 11:30 p. m. The twenty-one millionth visitor was welcomed early in the evening.

Veteran of Chicago Fire Visits Fair

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Thomas Deere, 89 years old, who lives at 3611 5th avenue with his son-in-law, Whitmer Gish, made his first visit to the Fair yesterday. Mr. Deere was an engineer for a gas company on the south side at the time of the Chicago fire and helped defend the station against the flames. Yesterday Mr. Deere toured the Midway in a roller chair and said the most entertaining feature was the spiel of the barkers outside the various concessions. He visited the Columbian Exposition on Chicago day, Oct. 9, and Manhattan day, Oct. 21.

Commander Giovanni Penna, director of the Italian steamship line, and a party of Italian political leaders and industrialists departed yesterday on the Liberty limited for New York after a short stay in the city and a visit to A Century of Progress Exposition. Senator Giovanni Agnelli, president of the Fiat Motor company of Torino, Italy, who had accompanied the party, remained in the city to study recent developments in the automobile industry. He is staying at the Drake hotel.

Judge C. W. Graves of Viroqua, Wis., who was a member of the Wisconsin state board of World's Fair managers at the Columbian Exposition, visited the Fair yesterday and will remain in Chicago several days to see the Fair completely. Judge Graves is the only member of the Wisconsin state board still living.

The educational program arranged by Mrs. B. F. Langworthy for this afternoon at the Illinois Host house, will not be given on account of Gov. Horner's reception for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York. The reception was originally scheduled for Saturday, but was postponed. It will be held at 3 p. m.

An orchestra composed of students of the Alvernia conservatory, ranging in age from 11 to 12 years, will play an hour's concert tomorrow night in the court of the Hall of Science, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The orchestra is directed by Sister Bonaventure.

The Exposition Flyer of the Michigan Central railroad arrived in Chicago yesterday in eight sections, bringing 1,866 persons from New York and Boston. Twenty-three extra sections and special trains were used by the New York Central lines with a total passenger list of 10,876. Fourteen sections were from the eastern seaboard.

The Ladies of Isabella chorus will sing on the Floating theater tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. They have been scheduled to appear at the Fair on two previous occasions, but both programs were canceled on account of rain.

AUTOS SURPASS ALL ESTIMATES IN AIDING FAIR

Survey Shows Motorists Spend $67,000,000.

BY HAL FOUST.

Modern automobiles and highways were credited yesterday as an influential factor in the success of a A Century of Progress. Last spring's estimates of the importance of this means of transportation have been far exceeded. With this demonstration of America's travel habits, the administration is looking favorably toward proposals to continue the Exposition next year.

When A Century of Progress was opened last May, it was estimated that a million motor cars would bring 2,500,000 visitors to the Exposition from beyond Chicagoland before the original closing date of Oct. 31. Yesterday Maj. E. S. J. Irvine, U. S. A., director of transportation for the Fair, showed estimates, based on various surveys and studies, that 1,241,000 private automobiles with 3,195,000 passengers from outside the metropolitan area have been attracted to Chicago up to this time.

Stay Average of Three Days.

It was found that the average visiting automobile carried 2.57 persons and that the average stay in Chicago was 3.1 days. Estimates vary widely as to how much business this brought to Chicago. Many of the visitors stayed at the homes of friends or relatives and spent little outside of the Fair gates. Others, however, bought clothes, automobiles, and other merchandise while here.

A questionnaire issued by the Chicago Motor club to those who called for information at the touring bureau revealed that the average expenditure of a visiting motorist was $6.77 a day. This is lower than figures obtained from other sources. Using this low figure, however, indicates that the automobile visitors brought $67,053,465 to Chicago business.

"When the Fair opened," said Maj. Irvine, an engineer officer loaned to A Century of Progress by the war department, "the automobile as a transportation agency for an exposition of this size was a little known factor. We knew in a general way that long distance travel by motor car was becoming more popular each year. This growth in popularity, however, has been so rapid that there was no precedent to use as a measuring stick.

"Our experience has established the fact that Chicago is within convenient driving distance for large numbers of car owners from all parts of the country. Through the summer our boulevards and parking lots have been crowded with vehicles bearing licenses from New York, Florida, Texas, California, and every other state in the union. Next year, if the Fair remains open and there is any upturn in economic conditions to place more gasoline money in the pockets of the masses, A Century of Progress should draw even larger numbers.

"Early this summer many automobile owners were restrained from driving to Chicago by false reports of traffic and parking conditions in the city. These reports, spread throughout the country, included stories that a special fee was charged to enter Chicago with a plate from any state other than Illinois and that these foreign licensed cars were entirely prohibited from the city. Some of these rumors were based on unauthorized verbal comments by overzealous ticket agents for other forms of transportation; others were merely irresponsible gossip.

Voices Gratitude to Tribune.

"THE TRIBUNE roadster, in touring the country this summer as A Century of Progress official car, performed a valuable service in quashing these reports. The Fair administration and the concessionaires appreciate this service, and I believe it was appreciated by all who benefited from the stimulus to Chicago's business either through increased employment or increased sales."

A detailed analysis of the Fair attendance up to Oct. 1 shows that 8,360,000 of the 17,312,791 paid admissions were tickets bought by 2,699,000 out of town visitors who arrived in Chicago in private automobiles. The motor visitors represented 61.3 per cent of the 4,405,000 who came to Chicago by all transportation agencies, including trains, buses, planes, and boats as well as automobiles.

Illinois, outside of the metropolitan area, on Oct. 1, had sent 755,000 persons to the Fair, 559,000 of them, or 74 per cent, coming in 321,500 private motor cars. Of 3,650,000 out of state visitors, 2,140,000, or 58.6 per cent, arrived in 328,000 automobiles.

Kathryn Hadley, 12 years old, 760 Jackson street, Gary, was the twenty-one millionth visitor to the Fair. Accompanied by her parents, she entered the 18th street gate shortly after 6:15 p. m. last evening, to be met by Fair officials, who presented her with a World's Fair medal, tickets to concessions, and escorted her and her parents to the German-American building where they were given dinner.

With the 21,000,000 mark passed yesterday, officials predicted that the total attendance of the Fair some time this week would exceed that of the Fair of 1893, 21,480,141, which would make the 1933 Fair the largest Exposition ever held in America. Total attendance at other expositions follows: Panama-Pacific International exposition in San Francisco, 1915, 13,127,103; the St. Louis exposition of 1904, 12,804,616; Philadelphia's 1876 Centennial, 7,085,309, and the Buffalo Pan-American exposition og 1901, 5,306,853.

School Savings Banks Withdrawals Decrease

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—W. Espey Albig, deputy manager of the American Bankers association, said today that American school children deposited $10,332,569 in school savings banks during the year ended June 30, 1933. However, withdrawals exceeded deposits for the second successive year, he said. He added that the excess of withdrawals over deposits was less by $600,000 this year than last year.

ZEPPELIN DUE IN MIAMI TODAY ON TRIP TO CHICAGO

Miami, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Soaring high over a route that lay along the West Indies and the Bahamas, the giant Graf Zeppelin approached the American shore for the fifth time tonight, headed for Chicago and A Century of Progress Exposition.

With Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran globe trotter of the skies, in command, and with 17 passengers and a crew of 47 aboard, the dirigible is expected to arrive here about dawn tomorrow from Rio de Janiero.

Completing one of the last legs of its flight that originated at its home base of Friedrichshafen, Germany, the Graf will remain here all day tomorrow taking on a supply of 1,000 gallons of gasoline, 50 gallons of oil and 2,000,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas. Between 8 and 10 o'clock tomorrow night Dr. Eckener expects to head for Akron, O., from whence the last hop of the flight to Chicago will begin. Representatives of the German commander said the route would depend entirely upon weather conditions.

PARING CORNS IS A RISKY JOB, SURGEON WARNS

People who act as their own chiropodists by using knives, razor blades, and similar instruments in the treatment of corns and callouses are likely to injure themselves, Dr. Irving Sward declared yesterday in an address before the third annual Mid-Western Surgical congress at the Morrison hotel.

"Much of our work," said Dr. Sward, "is in the relief of injuries which patients have done to themselves. Many of them might save themselves pain, trouble, and expense by a single visit to a foot surgeon or chiropodist."

Yesterday's session of the congress, which is being sponsored by the Illinois Association of Chiropodists and Foot Specialists, was given over largely to demonstrations of foot surgery under direction of Dr. Emanuel W. Demeur. Dr. L. L. Spanabel, Kewanee, Ill., who was reelected president of the association, assisted. Dr. William P. Koppe and J. S. Femedas will speak today.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE CHARTS Are Up-to-Date and Original

The charts which appear daily and Sunday on the first financial page of the Chicago Tribune have attracted wide attention and comment because of their timeliness and originality.

These charts are not second-hand reproductions or re-hashes of syndicate graphs put out by the various financial services, banks and brokerage houses. They are original charts, produced each day shortly before press time under the direction of Reuben D. Cahn, Tribune writer on business and economic topics.

Mr. Cahn has been a full-time staff member of the Chicago Tribune for seven years. He was formerly a member of the economics faculty at Northwestern University. As an industrial engineer he served some of the best known American firms and industries.

In the preparation of the Tribune charts, Mr. Cahn combines the knowledge of the economist with the news-sense of the newspaper man. That's why Tribune charts are always timely, interesting, and authoritative.

WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

GERMANY WANTS PEACE AND BREAD, HITLER DECLARES

"March to Gods" Greets Leader's Arrival.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—With the blare of trumpets announcing the arrival of "the leader" and bands playing Wagner's "Entrance of the Gods Into Valhalla," Chancellor Adolf Hitler marched into the Hall of Liberation near Kelheim, Bavaria, today. He announced to a Nazi massmeeting that Germany wants peace and equality with nations and happiness and daily bread for the German people.

The hall, in classic Greek style, dedicated to the heroes of the wars against Napoleon, is near the Bavarian mountain Temple of Fame, the German Valhalla, built by mad King Ludwig I. of Bavaria. The scene surpassed even the pomp accorded the last kaiser. Hitler's speech launched the campaign for the Nov. 12 elections under the slogan, "Peace with honor and bread."

Storm Troops Guard Unity.

"There is no better guarantee for peace than the fanatic unity of the German nation," the leader declared. Then to the storm troops assembled for the celebration he said. "It is our life work to create an organization that will forever guarantee German unity. In so doing we best insure the cause of peace on earth."

He reaffirmed Germany's determination to participate in no international conference until it is granted equality.

"We want peace, but not dishonor. We tell the world frankly: 'If you want us in international conferences, if you want to have us in your league of nations, we will participate only when you recognize us as a nation: we are ready at any time to sign treaties if these can be fulfilled and if they are just, but pacts that neither can be fulfilled nor are honorable we will not sign.'

Task to Supply Bread.

"Our goal," said Hitler, "is to make the nation happy again by getting it its daily bread—a tremendous job—and in pursuit of that job the world is to let us alone."

Hitler emphasized that the German people are not warlike and said, "the time when Germans were fighting Germans is over and will never return." He concluded with this admonition and appeal:

"One of the things which is clear, however, is that a life like that of the last 15 years is as intolerable for the German people as it would be for any other people. If you storm troopers follow me as faithfully and as well disciplined as formerly, our struggle for freedom in the world will be successful. The conviction will come to the world that ours is a people that wants nothing other than freedom and justice."

Jews Corrupted Peasants.

WEIMAR, Germany, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Walter Darre, federal administator of foods, in a speech loaded with anti-Semitic remarks, urged Thuringian peasants today to turn out in full force to vote for Hitler Nov. 12.

"The German peasants," said Darre, "know Hitler is the only guarantee that the German peasantry will be freed from the system of Jewish trade and boerse profiteers."

He blamed the peasant war, 400 years ago, on Jews' efforts to give commerce a preferred place over agriculture. He said the 1918 republic which he described as "a product of Jewish legal conception," had to face "international Jewish capital," and therefore never gave the peasants security. He charged the Jews made the peasants subservient by inculcating in them the desire to make a profit at which they themselves were far superior.

"This profit making," said Darre, "was the means of befogging the clarity of thinking in economics." The agricultural league building was renamed in Darre's honor.

Track Down Hitler Foes.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Relentlessly tracking down enemies of Chancellor Hitler, police arrested more than 100 persons in various parts of the reich in an intensive week-end campaign.

Twenty-three were arrested at Bottrop, seven at Buer, and 10 at Gelsenkirchen as police closed their nets on cities of the Ruhr district.

5 BOMB BLASTS CRIPPLE CUBAN RAILWAY SERVICE

Strikers Tie Up Lines in 3 Provinces.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 22.—Five bombs exploded at strategic points along Cuban railroad lines today and effectively crippled train service in three provinces. The explosions, an hour apart, occurred at considerable distances from each other and presumably were caused by railway strikers. No casualties were reported.

The first blast took place between Ciego de Avila and Moron in Camaguey province, blowing up rails for 500 yards. Between Santiago and Holguin in Oriente province bombs cut rail traffic at two points fifteen miles apart. Two blasts between Jovellanos and Santa Clara city severed rail communication between Matanzas and Santa Clara province.

Strikers Place Bombs.

Two other bombs placed yesterday by strikers between Empalme and Mocha in Matanzas derailed two baggage cars and a locomotive, ripping up rails and causing considerable damage. Travelers came to Havana today over the highways.

The strike, which began with the walkout of 200 workers on the Cardenas-Matanzas division, threatened today to assume more serious proportions. Track workers and operators of Pinar del Rio electric cars and employés of the United railways are slated to halt work tomorrow in sympathy with other strikers. The strike is understood not to be against the companies, but against the promotional scale maintained by the union.

All trains from Havana to the Matanzas border have been discontinued, Lightly Simpson, manager of the United railways, announced today.

Troops to Colon.

The government ordered army troops moved into Colon, Matanzas province, following serious disorders this morning. Public school teachers and students are on a strike while a large part of the population demonstrated against the new mayor. Troops from Matanzas city and Dos Rios moved into the town of Cabezas to quell similar disturbances.

Two infantry battalions left here for Oriente to maintain order. A large group of rebels have taken to the hills around Gibara, according to reliable information today.

The government today ordered a censorship of all broadcasting stations, instructing police to set guards over the microphones. The arrest of those attempting to transmit anti-government propaganda has been ordered in an effort to halt the campaign against President Ramon Grau San Martin.

GIRL STABS TAXI DRIVER TO DEATH IN RESTAURANT

Emanuel Buxbaum, 33 years old, 5054 Winthrop avenue, a taxicab driver, was stabbed to death by a young woman in the Washington restaurant at 1007 Argyle street early this morning.

The girl, known only as "Hilda" in the vicinity, ran away after the stabbing. Witnesses described her as young and good looking.

The young woman entered the restaurant alone, and was joined at a table a few minutes later by Buxbaum. They became involved in a dispute, and the girl, witnesses said, ran into the restaurant kitchen. She returned a few seconds later, armed with a butcher knife, and plunged it into Buxbaum's leg. He died shortly afterward at Lakeview hospital from loss of blood.

DOGS RUN WILD IN CASTLE; HUNT ARRESTED PRINCE

Captive Princess Soothes Nerves by Sewing.

KLAGENFURT, Carinthia, Austria, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Bedlam has broken loose at Castle Pitzelstaetten, where Princess Margot von Sachsen-Meiningen remains a virtual captive by order of Chancellor Dollfuss.

Her princely husband is in jail, where he was placed yesterday, charged with being a participant in a Nazi conspiracy.

The castle's five dogs are dismayed at the absence of their master. They are running wildly about the castle howling, barking, upsetting suits of armor in their excited search for the prince, and their mistress is unable to quiet them.

Dachshunds Dislike Guards.

Complicating the matter is the fact that dogs, especially dachshunds, don't like the idea of a garrison of detectives watching the movements of the castle personnel.

The Princess Margot, a tall, slender brunette, is spending most of her time in a tower room soothing her nerves with needlework, in which she is an expert. She is also a talented wood carver. One of the most interesting pieces of furniture in the castle is the little chair she carved for her daughter, now aged 18 months. The child is visiting her grandparents in Germany.

Knights to the Rescue?

Both the prince and the princess are enthusiastic motorists and expert ski runners. In this connection it may be recalled that several of Austria's best skiers had been arrested recently as Nazis.

Through the countryside circulate rumors that several Knights of Carinthia, believed to be adherents of the Nazi party, may attempt to rescue the Nazi princess from her castle.

A perusal of correspondence, files and documents confiscated yesterday in the castle revealed to the police a long list of names and addresses indicating a nation-wide organization of Prince Sachsen-Meiningen's Nazi activities.

Meanwhile, in Vienna, the Reichspost reported that "a Prince Koburg" arrested in Schladming, eastern Styria, was expelled from Austria.

Neighbor of Kaiser's Relative.

The castle where the princess is cooped up is scarcely two miles from Klagenhurt, amidst an aristocratic castle colony of Germans and former residents of Germany.

Perhaps the most interesting neighbor in this connection is the Princess Marie Agnes of Reusse, sister-in-law of former Kaiser Wilhelm. The Princess Marie Agnes married Baron von Gnagnoni and lives in the castle Emersdorf, a half hour's walk from Prince Sachsen-Meiningen's castle.

Sachsen-Meiningen himself is a distant relative of the former kaiser. The prince is 32 years old, his wife only 21.

FLIGHT OF GOLD DELAYS FATE OF FRENCH CABINET

Chamber Adjourns in Finance Crisis.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The fate of the French cabinet was postponed at least another day by an agreement of the chamber of deputies to adjourn today.

Premier Daladier's revelation that gold already is flowing from the Bank of France and his warning that inflation threatens the country gained the delay.

The premier indicated he expected an overthrow by saying he had not asked a night session of the chamber because President Lebrun was absent from Paris. Deladier said he stood firmly on a program which would stand or fall on the complete balance of the budget.

France's Danger Emphasized.

The Socialists hesitated to overthrow the government until the last hope for a compromise was exhausted and adjournment of the chamber came after a four-hour session.

The franc's jeopardy was emphasized by Daladier yesterday evening when he told the radical Socialists: "Only yesterday 200,000,000 gold francs were withdrawn from the Bank of France."

He said foreigners were already speculating against the franc.

"Is there a single Frenchman, whatever his politics," asked the premier, "who wishes to relive the days of 1926?"—when the franc sank to a value of 50 to the dollar.

Calls for Sound Finances.

Bonnet said it was an exaggeration to assert that the fall of the dollar caused the treasury's troubles, but added:

"Suppose the dollar and the pound are stabilized soon. There would be no doubt what would happen if the French budget were unbalanced. The pound and the dollar then would appear stable compared with the franc and the foreign capital that sought refuge here would cross the frontier.

"In any case the stabilization of these moneys will cause us difficulty. We will succeed only if our finances are sound."

League May Name U. S. Banker to Danzig Post

GENEVA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Jerome Davis Greene, New York banker, best known among Harvard men as secretary to former President Eliot and as an overseer of the university, is being considered for the delicate post of high commissioner to the former German city now known as the Free City of Danzig. Poland recently blocked the candidacy of Sean Lester permanent Irish delegate to the league of nations, on the ground he was the choice of the British empire.

GERMANS GATHER AT TOMB OF KAISERIN TO PAY HER TRIBUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—The antique temple in Sans Souci park, Potsdam, where the Empress Augusta Victoria, former Kaiser Wilhelm's first wife lies buried, was visited by thousands of pilgrims today on the 75th anniversary of her birth.

At dawn former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and his family arrived to lay wreaths. They were followed by other Hohenzollern princes.

Gen von Dommes, in behalf of former Kaiser Wilhelm and his present wife, Princess Hermine, deposited a wreath of laurels and white chrysanthemums brought by special courier from Doorn, Holland. Other wreaths and flowers came from army regiments and military and patriotic associations.

Hearing Is Adjourned Until Tomorrow.

lateral for loans from New York banks and on which four counts of the indictment against him were based. He argued that these transfers were just good business administration and were not intended to conceal assets with a view to bankruptcy.

President Panegyrakis questioned him closely on whether these transfers had not endangered the financial position of the Corporation Securities company.

Rhallys proceeded to a discussion of Insull's transfers of 100 shares of Commonwealth Edison stock as collateral in the name of Insull to the National City Bank of New York. Here he ran into several sharp clashes with Judge Digenopoulos, who pointed out several errors in the presentment of the facts.

"Insull was not personally responsible for these acts," argued Rhallys. "The fact is he negotiated the loans using the securities of his company as collateral. Insull personally endorsed the checks concerned in these operations so as to safeguard his companies."

Judge Calls Action "Criminal."

"Seeking to avoid liabilities in that way is criminal," said the president of the court.

Then the subject of Insull's negotiation of a $1,000,000 loan from the General Electric company came up. As is known, Insull secured $1,000,000 from the General Electric company by pledging $1,000,000 worth of securities held by the Corporation Securities company as collateral. An endorsed check for $1,000,000 realized as the proceeds of this loan was turned over to the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company as payment on principal of a $5,000,000 note owed the bank.

"It looks suspicious, this transferring of $1,000,000 worth of stock to get $1,000,000 to pay off another note," said Judge Stavropoulos.

Insists Operation Was Bonafide.

"No, it was just a transfer of paper," replied Rhallys. "It was a bona fide operation and a safeguard."

"Is not the fact that Insull endorsed the check in this case against him since, because of his personal prestige, he was able fraudulently to transfer securities and funds from one corporation to another?" asked President Panegyrakis.

"Insull came out of these deals a poor man and cannot be charged with acting in bad faith," replied Rhallys.

Rhallys then read Dean Wigmore's statement contending that part of the American bankruptcy law is unconstitutional. He also contended that transferring the assets of a bankrupt company is punishable only if the transfer is made after the receivership has been declared.

"Don't get off the track now," said the president.

"Concealing the assets of a bankrupt company is a crime, no matter when it is done," said Judge Digenopoulos.

Insull's Face Flushes.

Throughout this give and take, Samuel sat frowning, a growing flush coming to his cheeks. He did not understand what was being said or going on, but once in a while one of his many lawyers would whisper in his ear and then Insull would smile.

Rhallys was saying that concealing assets meant concealing them merely from the receiver and not from others when one of the judges yawned, pulled out his watch and said it was time to recess. The court recessed for half an hour.

When it resumed President Panegyrakis said to Rhallys:

Cites Paying of Dividends.

Concluding his remarks Rhallys dealt with the first count of the indictment—namely: that Insull paid out $558,000 in dividends on Corporation Securities stock when that company had been bankrupt for several months. He sought to show that this is not a crime under Greek bankruptcy law.

"Transferring of funds that way is only fraudulent under the Greek commercial law, article 685, section 3, if a fraudulent intention is established," said Rhallys.

"Isn't the act of transferring funds in contemplation of bankruptcy in itself enough to show intention?" said Prosecutor Reganakos.

Rhallys then contended that Insull had stayed in the United States until June, 1932, and asserted that Insull had spent all his fortune to pay his creditors.

Rhallys ended with an attack on the sufficiency of the documentary proofs submitted by Harness.

"They are very bulky in size but empty in meaning," he said. "The United States spent a whole year trying to find something to accuse Insull with and found only petty charges."

He painted a tearful picture of a tragic figure of an old man of 73 being accused as a swindler when all he wanted to do is live peacefully under the blue skies of Greece.

"Insull spent $10,000,000 of his own money and now they accuse him of taking $24,000 in dividends from the Corporation Securities company fraudulently," concluded Rhallys, declaring that Insull was a benefactor to humanity and that the Greek court ought to remove the stain from his name.

Mannheim Road Viaduct Still Far from Completion

View looking south across the Des Plaines valley at the viaduct which will connect Archer avenue, 96th street and 79th street. Both ends still "hang" in the air despite the fact that construction was started in the spring of 1932.

[Copyright: Chicago Aerial Survey Co.]

May Open in Spring

The Mannheim road viaduct across the Des Plaines river valley to connect with Archer avenue, 96th avenue and 79th street, is still far from completed, although work was started in the spring of 1932. The project today consists of half of a mile of viaduct with both ends hanging in the air.

State Highway Engineer Lieberman said that the $856,000 job, originally estimated at 1 million dollars, was due to be finished this December, but that it probably would not be opened to traffic before next spring. When finished, the span will form a link in a route around the city from northern Indiana to the north shore suburbs. Traffic now crosses the valley on a narrow and dangerous series of bridges on the Willow Springs road.

The existing viaduct crosses the Des Plaines river and the Santa Fé railroad. Under contract is a continuation of this viaduct southward to cross the sanitary canal, the I. & M. canal and the Chicago and Alton railroad. A grade separation at Archer and 96th avenues was completed about a year ago.

Australia Fears Invasion by Japan; Cries for More Arms

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 22.—Australia's "little Napoleon," the diminutive war-time prime minister, W. M. [Billy] Hughes, has again leaped into the political spotlight in the commonwealth by his shouting evangelism of "peace with preparation for war."

What Australia's meager population of 6,700,000 can do to defend an island continent as large as the United States remains to be seen, but Hughes is doing more to arouse all Australia—and the British empire—to a tense consciousness of defense than any other factor, excepting possibly the recent disquieting news from London that "the British navy is no longer in a position to assist dominions effectively."

In fear of Asiatic invasion in case of a Pacific war, all Australia is rallying membership to the Australian National Defense league, founded by Hughes. Practically every city and town has sprung into action in organizing the league and the press throughout the length and breadth of the land is giving wide prominence to its purpose.

Australia has suffered for years from a potential "Japanese invasion" complex, but the hue and cry now going through the land for a more adequate defense of Australia's 12,000 mile coast line is more tense than this correspondent has seen it in ten years.

Australian Navy a Joke.

There is no bold mention or outright utterance of fear of the Japanese, as Australia's trade with Japan is too great to jeopardize that commerce. Nevertheless, the leaders of the National Defense league, prominent themselves in business, political, navy and army life, shout a warning cry that "Australia is sliding to war." They do not say against whom, but the rapidly growing naval fleet of Japan is regarded as a spectre of fear and menace to Australia.

Australia's navy right now is a joke in the annals of sea defense. It boasts of the following: Four cruisers [two of which are in reserve], 6 destroyers, 2 fleet bases, no battle cruisers, no submarines, and 3,000 officers and men. The army has a personnel of 27,000 officers and soldiers. The air force has only 28 planes.

The foregoing is considered negligible when it is remembered that Australia threw more than 300,000 men into the world war.

It is expected that the federal government will vote an appropriation of $5,000,000 [$25,000,000 at par] for Australian defense in the forthcoming budget, though naval experts estimate that a ten year defense plan with an annual expenditure of between $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 is necessary.

Want Planes and Submarines.

Airplanes and submarines are the main fighting machines that Australia is crying for. It is pointed out by naval experts that torpedo carrying aircraft and submarines would be more effective in holding an enemy back than large battle cruisers.

Conservative estimates of an adequate defense say it would necessitate the immediate building up of a fleet of at least 12 submarines, 8 battle cruisers, 10 cruisers, 18 destroyers, 200 fighting aircraft, and an army of 250,000 men, active and reserves.

"If British trade is seriously affected by Japanese competition," Hughes declared recently, "Britain will be unable to keep up a navy adequate to the needs of the empire. Obviously she will then be unable to help us. The pressure of population in Japan is increasing rapidly. Unless she checks it, the surplus millions must find an outlet. Suppose the million elect to come to Australia, what are we going to do about it? I speak plainly: If we want to keep Australia white and free we must prepare to defend it."

Germany Assures Japan on "Colored Race" Issue

TOKIO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Foreign Minister von Neurath of Germany today assured Japanese Ambassador Nagai at Berlin that Germany had not the least intention of including Japanese among colored races discriminated against.

DE VALERA'S FOE HECKLED; TROOPS SUBDUE CROWD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 22.—Gen. Owen O'Duffy, leader of the United Ireland party, which is opposed to President Eamon de Valera's administration, was interrupted in a speech at Kilkenny today by several hundred hecklers. O'Duffy called the disturbers communists. Police summoned Free State troops, who charged the demonstrators and dispersed them.

O'Duffy replied to recent criticism by former Unionists who had asked his attitude toward remaining in the British commonwealth. He declared he favored remaining in the commonwealth as long as it was to the country's advantage to do so. He said that association with the commonwealth is not a question of loyalty but one of business.

LEAGUE SEES WAR PERIL IN ORIENT, NOT IN EUROPE

Conflict Between Russia and Japan Feared.

GENEVA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Despite the crisis caused in Europe by Germany's sensational retreat from the league of nations and the disarmament conference, opinion within the league finds the immediate international danger point not in Europe but in the far east.

Russia has been revealed to Geneva as steadfastly building up a series of nonaggression pacts and commercial agreements culminating with approach toward recognition by the United States, by which she emerges from her isolation as a powerful nation with the greatest population of all.

International circles view the European war scare as at least temporarily abated and with a more dangerous situation in Asia between Russia and Japan. Russia is deemed to be taking preventive measures against war by getting on good terms with all her neighbors and now with the United States.

Believe Germany Will Return.

The view presented in week-end discussions is that Germany, having elected a policy of isolation, must be allowed the opportunity to follow that path. It is optimistically predicted that by the exercise of patience and restraint on the part of others, Germany will gradually resume international collaboration—even perhaps freely return to the league.

The prevailing judgment is that the disarmament conference had better be adjourned for a period to permit the calming of spirits, and that in the meantime efforts should be concentrated on obtaining a settlement of grave economic problems.

The view persists that a Franco-German economic accord would smooth the path to a later agreement on disarmament.

Il Duce for "Peace with Honor."

ROME, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini told 35,000 Florentine blackshirts gathered here today that world peace no longer depends on Italy alone. The Fascist assembly at the Piazza Venezia to salute Il Duce was the largest visitation of its kind in more than a year that the Fascist revolutionary exhibition has been open.

Mussolini urged his comrades to "raise your banners and arms under the Roman sun in salute to the Fascist march, which will continue from Italy along the roads of Europe and the world."

He traced the history of Fascism, saying it was a movement not yet completed.

"We are in the midst of a period of strong daily construction," he said. "Will this also be a time of peace? This does not depend solely upon us. We have demonstrated in the firmest manner our desire for peace, but with honor and justice for all."

Russians Expect U. S. Recognition.

MOSCOW, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Regardless of the firm assurance with which Maxim Litvinov's fellow countrymen expect him to return from the United States with the long desired mandate of recognition, it became plain today that only those in the highest councils of the soviet know what actual position he will take in conversations with President Roosevelt.

The doughty little commissar of foreign affairs, whose trip to America [his first] will cap a year of diplomatic successes in Europe, definitely and finally refused to make a statement to American newspaper correspondents before he leaves.

General opinion here seems to indicate that formal diplomatic recognition is a foregone conclusion barring some unforeseen and serious disagreement, else President Roosevelt never would have initiated the discussions.

It was regarded here as beyond doubt that Litvinov will be prepared to give President Roosevelt whatever assurances and gurantees he requires for recognition in consonance with the dignity of the country he represents. At the same time Litvinov will not permit the United States to forget that his country is now one of the world powers which will not submit to any conditions it might regard as demeaning its dignity.

Rich Man Pays, Tokio "Warns."

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Oct. 23.—[Monday.]—When a rich man gets in company with a poor man, it's usually the rich man who pays, said Foreign Minister Koki Hirota today in discussing President Roosevelt's invitation to Soviet Russia to a conference regarding the resumption of diplomatic relations.

He agreed that American recognition of the Soviet Union would be a good thing, but questioned whether the highest developed capitalist country could get along comfortably with the communist state.

"Any one who thinks American recognition means pressure on Japan knows nothing of the far eastern situation," he emphasized.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 22.—Despite assurances by German postal authorities, there is accumulating evidence that postal matter transmitted through Germany to or from Scandinavia is being tampered with.

The Swedish postmaster general has complained that a letter from Gothenburg to Africa was opened while in transit through Germany. The Polish legation at Stockholm, according to the Social Demokraten, has received many complaints from Swedish and Polish business men about the slowing up of postal service between Sweden and Poland because of German censorship. The legation, it is said, has evidence to prove that some letters have even disappeared after having reached German territory.

German censorship is causing equal concern in Denmark. The official organ of the Danish postal workers reports that an increasing proportion of the public is marking letters to prevent their transit through Germany.

COTTON FARMERS BLAME THE NRA FOR LOW PRICES

Textile Men Also Insist It Hurts Them.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Who is paying the processing tax on cotton is now one of the absorbing questions in the recovery program in the south. It is collected to pay for the expenses of plowing cotton under and restricting output to raise prices for the grower.

Cotton farmers, who were compensated by the government for plowing up part of their crop, are now demurring that collection of the tax is having a depressing effect on the price of the 1933 crop. Textile manufacturers are arguing that the tax is cutting into their business as shown by the drop in monthly consumption of cotton and that it gives an advantage to cotton substitutes which are not taxed.

Consumers Kicking.

Consumers are remarking on an increase in prices, and government agents are now engaged in a study to discover how much the tax has mounted to when finally passed onto the ultimate buyer, who always pays in the long run. Retailers have complained of unjust price advances made by manufacturers on the ground that labor costs under the NRA and material cost under the processing tax have greatly increased cost of production and the matter is under investigation by NRA.

Meanwhile the cotton cooperatives are demanding 15 cent cotton with a view of bringing about pre-war parity of the farmer's dollar, and cotton growers are declaiming that the prices of things the farmer buys have risen far more than the cotton he has to sell.

Upturn Is Seen.

The general view in the south, as reflected in talks with scores of persons in various callings is that the recovery program takes time to work out and that the main thing is to keep it moving, making adjustments where necessary as fast as possible. Business leaders hold that sufficient time has not elapsed for full effects of the NRA to be felt.

Indications of an upturn are seen in a rise in clearings of Atlanta banks, as published this morning, an index of a trade gain. In July and August the growth in business was marked, but September showed a falling off, which merchants attribute to hot weather. What business is now looking for is increased buying, which appears somewhat tardy in arriving as the second phase in NRA.

Labor Problem Bobs Up.

One question of the growing interest is the new relationship of organized labor under NRA in the cotton mill towns of the south. After the war southern mill industry made rapid increases, attributed largely to the great volume of mountain labor available for factory work and to the fact that the labor was far less unionized than in New England. Under NRA textile manufacturers are wondering as to the status of organized labor under the codes and whether it will entail strife over the open shop policy. In the last few days labor troubles have closed two mills in Augusta and two others across the state line in South Carolina.

George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, says the strikes in Augusta were in protest against the dismissal of employés for joining labor unions, and the federation officials have dwelt upon the possibility of widespread industrial strikes in the south unless Washington acts to protect the labor provisions in the codes.

The strikes, now in process of settlement, are surmised by some large employers to indicate possibilites of industrial unrest over the issue of open shop versus unions.

In Atlanta reports from employers show that since June 16, when the President signed the recovery act, they have put 6,136 persons to work, adding $5,746,000 to Atlanta's pay roll. Carloadings, sales, real estate transfers, building permits, and bank clearings have increased decidedly since March, while the textile industry is going full pace. One manufacturer in a nearby town says September showed his mill in the black instead of the red for the first time in three years.

HADASSAH PLANS SANCTUARY FOR GERMAN EXILES

Palestine Hospital Drive Opened at Convention.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Under pressure of events in Germany that have caused the expulsion or flight of noted Jewish scholars and scientists a campaign to raise $200,000 in the United States toward erection of a hospital affiliated with the Hebrew university in Palestine was launched yesterday at the opening session of the Hadassah convention in the Palmer house.

The projected institution will function both as a sanctuary for the German exiles, voluntary and involuntary, and as a center for medical research. The Hadassah is a national organization of Jewish women formed to coöperate in the Zionist movement.

Inauguration of the $200,000 drive, considered the major item on the program of this nineteenth annual convention, which will continue through tomorrow, was greeted with such enthusiasm by 1,500 delegates and visitors crowding the grand ballroom of the hotel, that pledges totaling $30,000 were made before the gavel fell for adjournment. The Chicago chapter pledged $10,000, the Boston chapter an equal sum, and the lower New York and Detroit areas subscribed $5,000 each.

Additional Sums Ready.

Additional sums to be expended on the hospital and a graduate medical school are already in hand. The American Jewish physicians' committee, which is coöperating with Hadassah, has $30,000 available for the medical school building, according to Dr. Nathan Ratnoff of New York, chairman of the committee. Dr. Ratnoff has said that $25,000 more will be furnished for a maternity pavilion. There is also a smaller amount in the Hadassah treasury to go toward the project, the cost of which will approximate $300,000 in all.

Mrs. David Greenberg of New York, chairman of the Palestine committee of Hadassah, national vice president and delegate to the world Zionist congress at Prague, gave a report of all the Palestine activities preliminary to the formal action launching the campaign.

Mrs. Edward Jacobs of New York, a member of the board of governors of the Hebrew university, who has just returned from Jerusalem, also described the plan of the enterprise and the need for it. Mrs. Samuel Halprin of New York, national president, presided.

Building to Start in Spring.

A site for the hospital has not yet been selected, but will be chosen somewhere in Jeruselem where it will be convenient to the Hebrew university, Mrs. Jacobs explained. Construction is expected to start early next spring.

Each of the 254 chapters of Hadassah will be active in the fund campaign.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York will speak tonight in the Auditorium theater on "Germany and the World Crisis in Judaism" at a public mass-meeting on the convention program. The address had been scheduled for the Palmer house.

POLICEMAN'S CAR HITS WOMAN AND GIRL ON SIDEWALK

Patrolman Michael Sheehan, of the Maxwell street station, lost control of his auto yesterday and it ran over the sidewalk in Jackson boulevard near Damen avenue, knocking down Miss Mary Dapiran, 17 years old, and Miss Bernice Curtis, 30, both of 1955 Jackson boulevard. The victims were taken to the county hospital where it was found Miss Dapiran had suffered a possible skull fracture and Miss Curtis an injured ankle. Sheehan drove to the Warren avenue police station and surrendered. He was booked on a charge of reckless driving and released on bail.

James Riley Caswell, 815 Butrick street, Waukegan, a member of a civilian conservation corps company camped at Willow Springs, was found dead yesterday in a ditch between two street car tracks at 7500 Archer avenue. Police believe his body had been thrown there by a hit and run motorist who struck him on a nearby highway.

Caswell had been dead for several days. Robert Duncan, a milkman, found the body on his morning rounds. His death and two others raised the Cook county motor death toll for 1933 to 847. The other victims:

John Meckler, 60 years old, caretaker at the Niles Center dumping grounds. Fatally injured last night when he ran after his dog in Dempster street near Cicero avenue and was struck by a car driven by the Rev. Le Roy A. Jahn of Morgantown, N. C.

John Byron, 19 years old, 7141 South Chicago avenue. Died in the South Chicago hospital a few hours after an ice truck, driven by his brother, Earl, had crashed into an abuttment in the viaduct under the South Shore interurban line at 89th street and South Chicago avenue.

JAIL FOR FLOUR BOOTLEGGERS IS FEDERAL THREAT

Farmers and Dealers Both Warned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Flour bootleggers under the processing tax on wheat were threatened today with five years in jail and $10,000 in fines by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering.

Farmers and dealers both are making illegal use of certain exemptions under the processing tax to avoid it, Helvering charged. He called upon people generally to report to him practices which he admitted were tending to defeat the agricultural adjustment program.

Under the wheat tax, which has yielded almost 25 million dollars, producers are exempt on the milling of wheat they have grown if the flour is to be used in their own families. Affidavits are required stating that the grain was grown by the person applying and that the flour is to be used by him.

Falsification Widespread.

Falsification of these affidavits has become widespread, Helvering admitted today.

"Certain people are purchasing wheat from elevators and are taking such wheat to millers, having the wheat processed into flour and signing affidavits to the effect that they are the producers," Helvering said.

"This is a glaring violation of the provisions contained in the agricultural adjustment act and regulations under it which clearly provide that the producer's affidavit must be signed by the farmer who actually produced the wheat," he said.

Take Wheat to Mill.

"It has also come to the attention of the bureau of internal revenue," Helvering revealed, "that farmers who actually produce wheat are taking their wheat to the mill, having it processed into flour and then selling the flour."

This is a violation of the specific terms of the affidavits, according to the commissioner. Both farmers and dealers who thus attempt to avoid the tax of 30 cents a bushel are liable under penal sections of tax laws to $10,000 in fines, five years in prison, or both, Helvering claimed.

STEVENS HOTEL OWES $866,868 IN BACK TAXES

Reveal Lawyers' Move to Cancel Penalties.

A report by County Treasurer McDonough, made public yesterday, showed that the Stevens hotel owes a total of $866,868 in taxes and penalties for 1929 and 1930.

County Judge Jarecki was informed 10 days ago that attorneys for the hotel would make large tax payments in his court last week, but it was stated yesterday that the payments were not made. Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell, in charge of tax matters for the state's attorney's office, disclosed that attorneys for the hotel were trying to have Judge Jarecki cancel the penalties before they pay. The penalties for the two years total $153,979.

Refuses to Cancel Penalties.

Judge Jarecki has established the rule in his court that no penalties will be remitted unless the property owners have shown evidence of good faith by paying at least 50 to 60 per cent of their tax bills while their objections to the taxes are pending in the County court.

The balance due on the hotel's 1929 bill is $327,881. This includes $75,665 in penalties. On its 1930 tax bill of $460,672, the hotel has paid nothing. This bill is increased to $538,987 with the addition of $78,315 in penalties.

The hotel has paid the first installment of its 1931 realty taxes and is paying the second installment.

Threatens Hotel Receiverships.

Judge Jarecki last week threatened to throw into receivership under the Kerner-Skarda act all hotels which did not comply with their promises to pay after their financial conditions had been improved by the Fair. Where the hotels are already in receivership, as in the case of the Stevens hotel, for which a receiver has been appointed in the federal court, Judge Jarecki has said he will have the state's attorney's office intervene in the other courts to collect the taxes, which constitute a prior lien.

The county treasurer's records show that payments on delinquent taxes totaling $1,867,268 have been made within the last few weeks by Harry W. Solomon, member of the school board, on hotels he is managing. Among the large payments are those on the Allerton club, $110,745; the Belmont hotel, $93,268, and the Lake Shore Drive hotel, $68,437. These payments comply with the hotels' promises made last summer.

ORGANIZE FOR FIGHT ON HUEY LONG TAX PLAN FOR LOUISIANA

New Orleans, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The "Democratic new deal organization" today announced opposition to the seven-point taxing program championed by United States Senator Huey P. Long for the administration of Gov. O. K. Allen and declared for "no additional taxation," but "honest economy in government."

The Democratic new deal organization, meeting at Alexandria, La., to map out a state campaign in a counter move to the taxing program of Long and Allen, was described by their leader, Judge J. F. Stephens of Coushatta, as the "flower of the democracy of Louisiana."

Senator Long is engaged in a tour of the state expounding his new taxing program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Oct. 22.—Following fiery speeches against "Yankee imperialism" in Roosevelt plaza by Panama's "gray shirts," known as the National Defense league, a man in the crowd shouted: "It is ridiculous for Panamanians to think that with only 500,000 inhabitants they could convince Latin America to fight the Yankees." A demonstration followed and hundreds shouted, "Throw him out!"

Gonzalo Tapia, the league's leader, demanded that all Panamanians unite to fight for revision of the treaty with the United States. He said that the present situation is "driving Panama to agony." Tapia intimated that the league's purpose is to create a new state and combat "Yankee imperliasm."

FEDERAL RACKET INQUIRY OPENS IN CHICAGO TODAY

Senate Group Will Hear Hundreds of Witnesses.

A subcommittee of the United States senate will meet in Chicago this morning to investigate the formidable growth of racketeering and kidnaping throughout the nation and particularly in the middle west. Hundreds of witnesses will testify, and evidence, a part of which will be of a startling nature, will be presented, according to the predictions of Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, the chairman.

Crime fighters from five states will appear at the hearing. Police officials, judges, prosecuting attorneys, and criminologists from Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Illinois have announced their attention of attending the sessions.

Business men and merchants also have promised to tell the subcommittee how racketeers prey upon them, collecting tribute under threat of murder, arson, and sabotage.

Hope to Destroy Rackets.

From these hundreds of witnesses, the subcommittee hopes to learn what steps should be taken to deal with the two most menacing figures in the underworld today—the kidnaper and racketeer. Senator Copeland has expressed his confidence that these two dangerous types of crime can be checked and eventually destroyed.

The hearings will be held in the Palmer house and the public is invited to attend. Senator Copeland announced yesterday. He pointed out that an aroused public opinion can do more to check crime than a thousand new laws.

Senator Louis Murphy of Iowa and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, the two other members of the subcommittee, arrived last night. They immediately began preparations with Senator Copeland for the vast task which confronts them.

Deal with Poultry Racket.

A session will be held tonight, the chairman announced, to deal specifically with the poultry racket. Poultry dealers, forced to join "protective associations" and pay high dues to avoid damage to their trucks and stores, have determined to tell the senators just how the racketeer operates when he muscles in on a legitimate business.

One of the first witnesses today will be Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, noted ballistics expert. He will tell the committee that the disarming of the criminal is the most important problem of all. He discussed some of his opinions on the subject last night, offering some novel suggestions on this phase of the crime problem.

"The pistol is comparatively useless to the criminal unless he also has an automobile," he commented. "He cannot commit his crime and be assured of escape unless he has an automobile. If a criminal could be prohibited from riding in an automobile or taxicab for a period of years after he has first been detected of a crime, our crime statistics would show a drop of 50 per cent."

Lieut. Col. Goddard will also recommend to the subcommittee, he said, the establishment of a central firearms identification bureau.

Lyle to Give Criminal List.

The interest in the subcommittee's investigation was apparent in the eagerness of other witnesses to discuss the testimony which they are prepared to offer. Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, who received local fame two years ago for his severity in dealing with gangsters, announced that he would furnish the senators a list of well known Chicago criminals, convicted of carrying concealed weapons and other crimes in the lower courts, who are now free because of a reversal of these conventions by the state Supreme court.

"I would suggest a new understanding of the constitution by our high courts," he declared. "The judges should learn to regard the rights of the citizens more than the constitutional privileges of the known criminals."

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green, now sitting in the Felony court, announced that he would recommend to the subcommittee the drafting of a constitutional amendment withdrawing from gunmen and gangsters the immunity of the search warrant law.

Other Witnesses for Hearing.

Other witnesses today in a preliminary list offered by F. S. Hutchinson, chief investigator for the subcommittee, are Dean Emeritus John H. Wigmore of Northwestern university; W. W. Charters, criminologist, who is a professor at Ohio State university; Gov. Horner; Mayor Kelly; United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green; Chief of Detectives William H. Schoemaker, and scores of law enforcing officials from the middle western states.

When the question of summoning gangsters for questioning was brought up, Senator Copeland was dubious.

"I would be glad to listen to any gangster if he wanted to give some evidence of a useful nature," he said. "I am doubtful that any criminal would give us any information which might help to bring about the downfall of himself and his kind."

"Our investigation thus far has convinced me of one fact," said Senator Copeland. "And that is that the department of investigation of the department of justice should be enlarged. There are about 350 federal investigators now. There should be at least 1,000."

TWO LITTLE GIRLS LEFT LIFE INTEREST IN BACHELOR'S ESTATE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Two little girls who brightened the lonely hours of Edwin F. Stratton, 82 year old bachelor farmer, have been given a life interest in his estate.

Stratton, who was killed by a train last week, left title to his farm to 10 year old Elizabeth Ellen Carlson, daughter of a neighbor, and two Oklahoma City lots to Catherine Suits, 12, daughter of his attorney.

After the girls' death, the property will go to the Camp Fire Girls and to Oklahoma City for park purposes.

Stratton became attached to Elizabeth Ellen during visits to the Carlson home. Little Miss Suits made the acquaintance of the elderly bachelor when she accompanied her father, Fred Suits, to his farm.

PRISON FOR TWO WHO GAVE AID TO 'GUNNER' KELLY

Found Guilty by Jurors in Fifteen Minutes.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Langford Ramsey, young Memphis lawyer, and John Tichenor were sentenced to two and a half years imprisonment today as the men who provided the hideout for George [Machine Gun] Kelly and his wife after the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping.

It took the jury only fifteen minutes to convict them on charges of harboring and conspiracy to harbor a fugitive. They were tried yesterday and the case went to the jury early today.

Ramsey is a brother of a former wife of Kelly. He introduced Kelly to Tichenor, at whose house the Kellys were captured Sept. 26. Both Ramsey and Tichenor testified that they knew Kelly only as "George Barnes" until shortly before he was captured.

Twelve year old Geraldine Arnold, the child the Kellys used as a "front" during their flight from officers after the Urschel kidnaping, testified both men knew Kelly was the machine gun kidnaper.

Cass Coleman, farmer of Coleman, Tex., who pleaded guilty to harboring Kelly, testified yesterday to Ramsey's visit to him in behalf of Kelly. He left this morning under the guard of department of justice agents for Leavenworth to begin serving his two year sentence.

BOLIVIANS FEAR CHACO WAR LOST; REVOLT LOOMS

People Hungry; Army Reported Beaten.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 22.—The Bolivian masses, hungry and turbulent, are beginning to suspect that the war their country has been waging against Paraguay for the Gran Chaco is virtually lost. Reports of military defeats and the great loss of life by disease in the jungle trenches have filtered through to the people, and President Daniel Salamanca fears for the stability of his regime.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent gleaned these facts from a visit to Bolivia's principal ocean outlet of Antofagasta, where he was able to learn the true state of affairs in the Andean-roofed capital of La Paz, in the commercial center of Oruro and at the Chaco front.

Say Nation Demoralized.

Arrivals from La Paz assert that a Bolivian collapse is impending. They reported that the whole country is demoralized because of a food shortage and the conviction that Bolivian troops have been defeated time and again by their Paraguay adversaries.

National economic resources are said to be exhausted. The government has taken the last ounce of gold from the vaults of the Central bank, which has been forced to print large supplies of paper money.

International armament firms are refusing to deal with Bolivia because it has no funds. Argentina, piqued by Bolivia's repeated refusals to negotiate a war settlement, has blocked supplies via the Atlantic. There is little coming through via the Pacific.

Food Prices Soar.

Food prices have soared in La Paz. Some of the common necessities are unobtainable. Foreign goods are sold with surcharges of 300 to 500 per cent in the national currency and hotel rates are impossible for those who have no foreign currency at their disposal.

It is now generally admitted in La Paz clubs and social circles that the last Chaco offensive organized by Gen. Hans Kundt was a complete failure. Imported German military strategy failed in the unmapped jungleland. Furious wave assaults by Kundt's men were fruitless. Heaps of corpses were left in front of the Paraguayan defenses. Four regiments were wiped out, one was surrounded and surrendered intact with its transport and supplies, and an advance group of staff officers, including two colonels, was captured.

Hernan Carrasco Silva, Chilean attorney and newspaper correspondent, who reached the frontier today after four months in La Paz, predicted revolution as a result of "sheer demoralization of the people." Congress and president are in conflict, he said, and there's a growing parliamentary demand for the relaxation and removal of military law throughout Bolivia.

Foreign Firms Threatened.

Foreign companies, especially the American controlled tin mines, had used up all their Bolivian resources to pay special war taxation, and are now threatened with a state monopoly of their industry if they cannot rake up more money to finance the war.

No Mother Would Knowingly Take This Chance

Only Lack of Knowledge Would Make Her Do It . . . Take the Chance of Giving Her Child Drugs of Which She Knows Nothing

A CHILD'S health is too precious for experiment; a child's life beyond the price of pennies.

That's something, of course, that every mother's instinct tells her. The protective instinct that makes her value her child's life far beyond her own.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

Now, when it comes to the very important — and frequently used — "milk of magnesia," doctors for over fifty years have said "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia . . . the safe remedy for your child."

This is because genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia marks what is known to the medical profession as one of the finest laboratory products the world of science knows.

See That Your Child Gets It

See that your child gets this; the finest that men know; genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Get it for your own peace-of-mind. Get it in protection of your child.

If you are offered a "bargain" substitute for the real Phillips' article, ask your doctor before you buy it. He will tell you that giving your child unknown drugs is one of the most dangerous, most risky things you can do. You can get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at any drug store, in liquid or tablet form—for a small sum.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO PLAY 9-GOAL POLO!

CECIL SMITH, ONE OF THE HIGHEST-RANKING polo-players in the world, and sensational star of the recent open-championship matches on Long Island, says, "Most polo players, myself included, prefer Camels. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

HE: That was the most exciting chukker I ever watched.

SHE: My nerves are all fluttering.

HE: Will you have a Camel? They never get on your nerves.

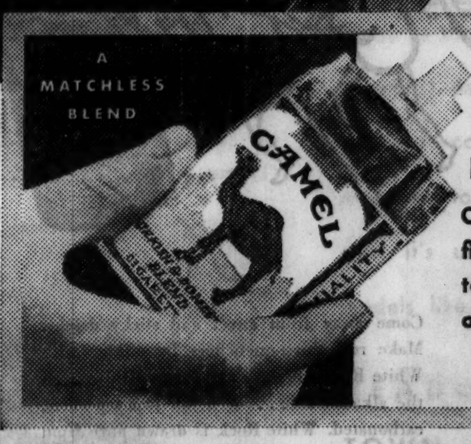
Steady Smokers turn to Camels

It's no place for jangled nerves—this game called polo. Listen to Cecil Smith, one of America's finest players:

"Polo makes continuous demands on your nervous system. A fraction of a second determines whether or not you can successfully ride your opponent out of a play and a fraction of an inch in your aim when going full gallop may mean the difference of a goal made or missed. No wonder international polo takes years of practice, excellent physical condition and healthy nerves. Most polo players, myself included, smoke a great deal. And most polo players, myself included again, prefer to smoke Camels. They seem milder. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

* * *

Try Camels yourself. You'll like their flavor, too—and whether you play polo or not you'll appreciate the fact that you can smoke as many as you want without upsetting your nerves.



IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

WINKLER WIDOW TRIES TO DIE ON EVE OF INQUEST

Another Murder Hinted.

The Winkler inquest, to be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning in the County building, will take up another matter—the mysterious disappearance of Albert Bregar, 34 years old, of the Lincoln Park Arms hotel, 2738 Pine Grove avenue, a lieutenant of Winkler. He has not been found since his disappearance was first reported to the police on Aug. 20, seven weeks before the slaying of Winkler. Bregar was regarded as Winkler's "trigger man" and the police said it now appears that Bregar was slain to make the killing of Winkler easier.

Bregar's wife, Eloise, a bride of three months, said he had been missing two days when she asked the police to seek him on Aug. 20.

Bregar strolled from the Lincoln Park Arms hotel on Aug. 18 to get a haircut at a nearby barber shop, according to hotel attachés. His collar was open and he wore no tie. He never reached the barber shop and none of his friends have seen him since.

"He probably went the way of Bennie Bennett and Tommy Abbott," detectives of the Sheffield avenue station declared. Bennett, a lieutenant of the slain Ted Newberry, has been missing for more than three years. Abbott, leader of a small north side gang, also disappeared from his haunts in 1930. It is generally believed by the police that they were slain and their bodies buried in quick lime.

Bregar Starts with Newberry.

Bregar was first known to police on the west side as a handy man for Newberry while Newberry was growing in gang importance. When Newberry became gang boss on the north side Bregar was one of his assistants, according to the police. Newberry was killed last spring and Winkler succeeded to the north side gang throne. Bregar then began to serve Winkler.

Several days after Bregar's disappearance a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Criminal court asking his release. The police said they did not have him in custody.

A bondsman was then heard to remark, "If the police haven't got him, then he has gone bye-bye," indicating the underworld belief that Bregar had been taken for a ride.

Two Other Deaths Recalled.

It was recalled that three years ago when the gangsters decided to dethrone Newberry they first killed two of his best gunmen. These were "Meier, Joe" Cada, who was shot down as he left a north side café, and John Rito, alias Russo, known as "The Billiken." Rito's body, bound with wire and weighted, was found in the Chicago river.

Newberry disappeared then and it was more than a year later that he reappeared, having meanwhile made his peace with the Capone gang. Newberry admitted that efforts had been made to kill him and that he had remained in one room for six weeks in order to save his life. He said he was sure that Bennett had been slain and a detective familiar with gangsters methods declared he was certain Bennett's body had been buried in quick lime.

Abbott also was missing. He was at liberty on bail at the time and later his bondsmen sought to have a bail forfeiture set aside on the representation that Abbott had been taken for a ride.

Last spring, when 3.2 beer became legal, Newberry and others were attempting to take control of gambling. Newberry was slain and his death enabled Winkler to step into control of the north side rackets, including gambling. Then two weeks ago came the end of Winkler.

David [Bennie] Goldblatt, also an inheritance from the slain Newberry, was supposed to be Winkler's bodyguard but Goldblatt said he had left Winkler forty minutes before 72 shotgun slugs terminated Winkler's rule.

Goldblatt said 40 minutes elapsed between the time Winkler left him at the Lincoln Park Arms hotel and the time Winkler was slain. Winkler had numerous cards in his clothing indicating that he had stayed at the hotel under the name of Michael Rand, but hotel employés denied that he was known there. They said, however, that he might have been connected with a night club which formerly operated in a pent house on the hotel.

Hotel Man Is Subpoenaed

A subpena for a Mr. Loeffler, said to be manager of the hotel, is among those issued for witnesses that will be examined at the inquest.

Goldblatt said Winkler borrowed his automobile in front of the Lincoln Park Arms hotel saying he was going to call on Attorney William F. Waugh, who is also among those subpoenaed for today's hearing. After Winkler was shot down the automobile still stood in front of the Weber beer depot, but the keys for it were neither in the car nor in Winkler's pockets.

The inquest jury wants to know from Loeffler if Goldblatt remained in the hotel talking to him after Winkler drove off to the scene of his death.

Police Captains Summoned.

Police Captains Charles McGurn, Martin O'Malley and James Fleming of north side commands are to be called to tell what they know of the life of Winkler. They also are to be asked about Newberry and about the missing Bregar. Last night it was said this phase of the inquiry was proving of great interest to the investigators.

Police said the gang custom of concealing a murder is of recent origin, dating back to the killing of Eugene [Red] McLaughlin, whose weighted body was found in the canal. A passing scow churned up the body which otherwise might not have come to the surface.

The purpose of such hidden murders as those of McLaughlin and Rito was to prevent others marked for death from taking alarm and fleeing. The accidental recovery of the body of Rito gave Newberry time to hide and the discovery of the body of McLaughlin is believed to have saved other lives.

If Bregar was killed, his murderers were careful to keep news of his death from reaching Winkler. The coroner's jury will look into the Bregar case with that belief in mind, it was said yesterday.

In discussing the place of Winkler's murder detectives said the killers might have had an enmity for Commissioner Weber and decided to slay the gangster in front of Weber's beer depot to embarrass the commissioner.

Because of the various theories concerning Winkler's death, however, the coroner's jury plans to look into his beer connections. Weber and all his beer depot employés are to be questioned.

Winkler's relations with Edgar Lebensberger, night club owner who committed suicide three days before Winkler was slain, are also to be brought out at the inquest. Winkler was said to be Lebensberger's partner and both were involved in the disposal of bonds stolen in the loop mail robbery of Dec. 6, 1932.

Lebensberger, Joseph Sans, his manager, and John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, gambler and former legislator, were jointly indicted by the government as possessors of stolen bonds. Winkler was reported to have been working with postal inspectors to save himself from prosecution by pointing out the men whom he believed committed the robbery in which the bonds were taken.

STATE TO BEGIN EVIDENCE TODAY IN BANK SLAYING

Killer Scheck to Accuse Grundhoefer.

Before a jury in Judge William V. Brothers' Criminal court this morning the state will begin presenting its evidence against John Scheck, Carl Grundhoefer, and Frank Keglovitz on trial for the murder of Harry Mueller, cashier of the National bank of Niles Center. The jury qualified to inflict the death penalty was completed Friday, the fifth day of the trial.

The court session today will begin with the opening statement of Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, in which he will outline the evidence he hopes will send all three defendants to the chair. The prosecution witnesses will testify that on April 7 Scheck and Grundhoefer went into the bank and ordered the employés to submit to a robbery.

Mueller, who was at lunch at the time, returned while the robbery was in progress. Grundhoefer, who was armed with a sawed off shotgun, it is charged, shot Mueller without any warning. The bandits then fled to a waiting automobile in charge of Keglovitz.

Two Try to Escape.

While the defendants were waiting trial for the Mueller murder Scheck and Grundhoefer attempted to escape from Judge Charles P. Molthrop's courtroom. Policeman John Sevick tried to stop them and was shot and killed by Scheck. Scheck was promptly tried for the Sevick murder and sentenced to die.

The case has developed several interesting angles, court observers point out. Grundhoefer at the time claimed he was forced, under threat of death, to accompany Scheck on his attempted escape. Grundhoefer appeared as a prosecution witness against Scheck in the Sevick trial.

In the present murder trial Scheck has entered a plea of not guilty but makes no secret of the fact that he plans to admit participation in the Niles Center holdup but will place the blame for the shooting on Grundhoefer. He has said he will testify against Grundhoefer in retaliation for the latter's testimony against him. Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, who defended Scheck at his first trial, is now representing Grundhoefer. Attorney Emmet Byrne is attorney for Scheck now.

Judge Brothers has ruled that the prosecution can introduce evidence of the attempted escape and the murder of the policeman at the present trial. Scheck's conviction for the Sevick murder is being reviewed by the Supreme court on the ground that the prosecution committed an error in referring to the Mueller murder.

All Three to Plead Guilty.

In effect all three defendants are submitting a plea of guilty to the Mueller murder, but are asking that a jury fix the punishment instead of the court. Grundhoefer, according to Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, admits he fired the fatal shot. Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane for Grundhoefer, admit the presence of their client at the scene of the robbery, but claim he is mentally backward and was under the domination of Scheck.

Several minor murder cases are scheduled for action in the courts for next week. It was announced by the judges that an effort is to be made to push them to trial to reduce the number of murder cases pending.

A case of public interest, scheduled for hearing this week, involves William Palermo and James Catura, henchmen of James [King of Bombers] Belcastro. Another is the so-called racket conspiracy case. Palermo and Catura were caught last spring with a bomb in their possession. The case has been continued more than 20 times and Judge Molthrop has ordered trial to open this week.

The racket case is to come up before Judge Philip L. Finnegan in the county building this morning for the purpose of hearing motions and announcing a day for the trial to start. Among the defendants are Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, and Attorney Aaron Sapiro. The conspiracy indictment names 24 defendants.

Through a typographical error, the tax collection summary yesterday morning listed incorrectly the amount of real estate taxes which remain uncollected on the 1930 and 1931 levies in Cook county. The correct totals of uncollected real estate taxes are $71,604,878 for 1930 and $74,078,787 for 1931.

COUNTESS HALTS DIVORCE; COUNT MUST REWIN HER

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Countess Rina de Liguoro, Italian film player concert pianist, who announced last week she had begun divorce proceedings in Mexico against Count Wladimiro de Liguoro, said tonight, after reading a trans-Atlantic cablegram from him, she had reconsidered.

She said she would accord the count another opportunity to regain her love. She had said previously his refusal to join her in this country ended their romance. She said the cablegram read:

"Please, I beg of you, do not divorce me. I love you still and I know I can renew your love for me. I shall rush to your side as quickly as possible and I will be with you in Hollywood at Christmas time."

"So," the countess added, "when I read those words and realized how much Wladimiro has meant to me, I felt again that strange and dominant spark—I determined to give him his chance to prove that he can make me love him once more."

She telegraphed the Mexican court, where she had begun the action, saying she had changed her mind and dispatched a cable to the count in Rome, telling him that she would await him.

Dairy Driver Accused of Attack on Cut Rate Store

Matthew Meier, 2435 Winona street, a driver for the Bowman Dairy company, was arrested yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief. The Summerdale police charged him with throwing two milk bottles through the windows of a cut rate milk depot at 2252 Foster avenue, owned by Philip A. Kamesch. He was identified by Miss Lillian Petersen, who runs a bakery stand in the milk depot. Meier denied the charge.

Purse Snatchers Rob 4 Women Churchgoers

Three men snatched the purses of four women churchgoers yesterday morning in the Town Hall and Sheffield avenue police districts. The victims were Miss Elinore Walgreen, 1761 Albion avenue; Mrs. Nellie Quinn, 3941 Ward avenue; Miss Anna Aker, 2959 North Damen avenue, and Miss Estelle Rudlost, 6223 Evans avenue. The total loot was $7.45.

OVER 2 BILLION DOLED OUT FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Actual Disbursals Only 83 Million.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes today boasted that 15 weeks after his appointment he has doled out almost two-thirds of the 3 billion 300 million dollars federal easy money fund.

Ickes has achieved a weekly average of more than 136½ million dollars in his allotments from the huge easy money fund. Although Ickes claims that 85 cents out of every dollar he has allocated will go into pay envelopes, but actual disbursals under all the allocations so far amount to less than 83 million dollars.

Of the 2 billion 50 million dollars which Ickes has managed to push out since his appointment to administer the funds, 1 billion 802 millions has gone back into other federal departments. Most of this easy money goes to replace funds supposedly saved under the economy drive.

Little for Chicagoland.

Little of this easy money for federal works has gone into Illinois or Chicagoland. Large chunks of it are in the naval and road construction programs.

Only $247,650,000 of the easy money has gone to non-federal projects. In these Illinois, which furnished 7 per cent of federal taxes, has received less than 5 per cent, and Chicagoland, source of 13 per cent of the taxes, has been given less than 11 per cent.

The total nonfederal projects in Illinois amount to $12,188,800. In Chicagoland, generally, the total is $26,896,597, divided as follows: Illinois, $12,188,800; Wisconsin, $5,773,747; Indiana, $5,395,450; Iowa, $2,895,400, and Michigan, $643,200.

Youth on Outing Shot Accidentally by Comrade

Joseph O'Neill, 19 years old, 5717 Melrose street, was shot in the back yesterday by a companion, Henry Zielke, 17 years old, 2719 North McVicker avenue, while the two boys were shooting at tin cans with .22 caliber rifles. The shooting occurred at Gilmore, in Lake county, five miles southwest of Libertyville. O'Neill's mother, who had accompanied the boys on their outing, took her son to Condell hospital in Libertyville, where physicians performed an emergency operation.

ASK 40 MILLION TODAY TO FINISH SAG WATERWAY

Aldermen to Appeal to War Department.

Three members of the city council committee on harbors, wharves and bridges will appear before war department authorities in Washington with a request that the federal government expend $40,382,000 in the development of the Calumet-Sag link of the lakes-gulf waterway. They are William A. Rowan [10th], committee chairman; Arthur G. Lindell [9th] and O. E. Northrup [19th].

The appeal is being made, according to Ald. Rowan, because a special board of engineers of the war department has indicated its intention of recommending a moderate rather than a complete development of the Calumet-Sag connection at this time. A moderate development, the alderman contended, would leave open to controversy for many years the completion of the project.

Involves Locks, Bridge Raising.

The aldermanic plans include federal expenditures to widen the Calumet-Sag channel to 250 feet from Lemont to Blue Island, construct locks at Blue Island, widen the Calumet river to 300 feet from Blue Island to Lake Calumet, dredge five basins in the south end of that lake for a barge terminal, and raise bridges to 35 feet above the level of the waterway route.

"If there is only a moderate development now," said Ald. Rowan, "the conflict between land and water traffic in the loop area, caused by the opening of bridges for marine craft, will become greatly aggravated. Also, the limited project would postpone the possibility of realizing material savings to the taxpayers in that the city cannot adopt a fixed bridge policy until the Calumet-Sag channel is complete.

Puts Bridge Raising Up to U. S.

"We are asking the federal government to pay for the reconstruction of bridges, for it is because of a requirement of federal engineers for a 34 foot clearance above the canal that the bridges must be changed. The bridges are the property of several local governments, and are adequate for the purposes for which they were designed."

The city council has approved the plea for federal easy money for the project, as has the Chicago regional port commission. Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, director of the commission, has estimated that the project would create jobs over a five year period for 7,000 workers, more than half of the expenditures for the work being figured for wages.

Jury Exonerates Woman Who Shot Assailant

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the fatal shooting of John Thompson, a farmer, by Mrs. Lillian Gathman, owner of a farm seven miles east of Woodstock. Thompson, who lives four miles northwest of the town, died Saturday night in the Woodstock hospital.

Mrs. Gathman, who is 40 years old and the mother of five children, did not testify at the inquest at Woodstock. A son, Raymond, 20 years old, and a daughter, Ruth, told the jury that their mother shot Thompson, who was drunk, after he struck their mother several times in the Gathman home.

CANAL OFFICIALS AWAIT U. S. WORD ON BUILDING PLAN

Hope for Action This Week on $8,000,000 Grant.

The trustees of the sanitary district are marking time on their construction program pending news from the public works administration in Washington, D. C. Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, has expressed the hope that the government will complete the contract for an $8,000,000 grant this week.

The contract will contain terms dictated by the government—provisions for strict federal supervision over all phases of the construction. One of the requirements is that the federal government will not be held liable in any way for increased costs of labor and materials.

In other words, the government loan is on the basis of contracts entered into by the district back in 1931. If the costs go up and the contractors are awarded judgments in the courts the district will have to foot the bills.

Jobs for 4,500 Men.

The $8,000,000 will finance construction started by the district and halted in February, 1932, because the district's funds were exhausted. Two sewers on the west side will be completed with the easy money as well as equipment in the sewage treatment works at 126th street and Cottage Grove avenue and in Stickney at 39th street and 52d avenue. Employment would be provided for 4,500 men.

The loan is a relatively small part of the $120,000,000 total needed to complete the sewage disposal program ordered by the United States Supreme court after long litigation over lake diversion. The high court has decreed that the Chicago sanitary district must reduce the water taken from Lake Michigan to 1,500 cubic feet per second by the end of 1938.

The big loan—$112,000,000 after the $8,000,000 preliminary grant is obtained—is still pending. Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, who is the public works administrator, has declared that Chicago can have the money if certain required legislation is adopted in Springfield. This legislation, as outlined by Mr. Ickes, would empower the district to convey its plants to the government outright or permit the strictest federal supervision over the work.

Complete Plans for Sewers.

Philip Harrington, chief engineer for the district, and his staff have completed plans for four sewer sections near the loop district as a part of the $120,000,000 program. The cost of the new sewers is $7,000,000, and if this money were obtained, 1,200 men, it is estimated, would be employed and would work continuously through the winter, since the construction consists mainly of tunneling.

Chances of obtaining this money from the government immediately are remote, according to Mr. Bowler, since the 25 per cent reduction in real estate valuations has cut the bonding power of the district and correspondingly reduced the collateral that might be sold or offered for a loan.

Man Hit by Police Chief Dies in Harrisburg Jail

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 22.—(AP)—An investigation was made today in the death of Jess Neal, who died in the city jail last night after he was struck, 20 minutes earlier, by Acting Chief of Police Harry Moyer. Moyer alleges Neal was intoxicated and resisted when the officer attempted to arrest him in front of a beer garden.

FURNITURE MEN TURN DOWN PLEA FOR CLOSED SHOP

Manufacturers Reply to Labor Board.

Thirty-three of the 84 manufacturers of upholstered furniture in Chicago, after a meeting yesterday, sent a telegram to the national labor board declining to accept proposals that they operate on a closed shop basis with wages of $1.20 an hour.

The national labor board, after a hearing in Washington last Thursday, proposed that the strike of some 1,500 upholstered furniture workers be called off and that the employers enter into negotiations with the upholsterers' union.

Alfred Rota, secretary of the union, said yesterday that the manufacturers were well aware that neither the labor board nor the union had demanded a wage scale of $1.20 an hour. He also accused the manufacturers of refusing to recognize the union's right to collective bargaining.

Want Union Recognition.

"We have already signed up 27 or 28 shops," said Rota, "and 350 men have gone back to work. The wages paid by those shops which we have signed up range from 75 to 90 cents an hour and we are not asking $1.20. All we want is recognition of our union."

The telegram to the labor board, signed by W. G. Sable, the representative of the Chicago manufacturers at the Washington hearing, said in part:

"At a meeting held in Chicago today, at which there were present 33 manufacturers of upholstered furniture in Chicago, said manufacturers representing 90 per cent of the workers employed in the manufacture of upholstered furniture in this city, it was unanimously decided that it would be impossible to accept the proposal submitted by the national labor board to the representative of upholstered furniture manufacturers in Washington, Oct. 19, for the settlement of the strike now in progress in said industry.

"The acceptance of said proposal would impose conditions on the manufacture of upholstered furniture in Chicago which would make it impossible for them to compete with the manufacturers of upholstered furniture in other districts."

Mr. Sable said the strikers had demanded $1.20 an hour for a 35 hour week, and that Chicago manufacturers could not under such conditions compete with other manufacturers.

Chicago Ships Meat for Byrd Expedition

A large shipment of frozen meats left Chicago yesterday en route to the Byrd expedition headquarters in Little America, in the south polar region. The shipment consists of 5,000 pounds of beef; 3,000 pounds of lamb and mutton, and twenty-five cases of pork sausage from the packing plant of John Morrell & Co. Some of these supplies will not be consumed for another year, but packing processes will keep it fresh even beyond that time.

ASSASSINS TRY TO KILL RULER OF PERU WITH BOMB

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Government authorities announced officially today that assassins had attempted to kill President Oscar Benavides with a bomb.

The official announcement said eight persons were arrested as authors of the plot which was uncovered when they tried to explode the bomb in a highway near Lima. The suspects are to be tried with due process of law in ordinary courts.

Gen. Benavides was chosen president of Peru last May immediately after the assassination of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who made himself president following the overthrow of President Leguia in 1931.

SCOFF AT TALES OF ROOSEVELT ILLINOIS MACHINE

Democrats Deny Ill Will Over Patronage.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Persistent circulation of reports that an "all-Roosevelt" political organization is being set up in Illinois was met yesterday with explanations that this activity is the work of persons not in the good graces of the regular Democratic organization.

"They come from just a few sharpshooters who think they see a chance to become big shots," said one party leader, who wittingly tangled up his figure of speech. "We're not bothered by such small time stuff. We know by what occurs from day to day that the relationship between Washington and Illinois is constantly becoming more cordial."

Report Lewis Heads Movement.

In this way he sought to destroy the gossip that the old Harrison-Dunne-O'Connell contingent, with Senator James Hamilton Lewis out in front and with independent Republicans as an important wing, already is the nucleus for an important federal machine in this state. Other leaders, in more formal language, spoke to approximately the same effect.

In its most recent form the story has been that the supposed Roosevelt backing of the McKee mayoralty campaign in New York is only the inception of a widespread movement that will be extended through several large centers and ultimately will cover most of the country.

From New York the story jumped to Boston early last week. There the variation was that observers had detected a "freeze out for Senator David I. Walsh and Gov. Joseph B. Ely," with a transfer of power, a concentration of patronage authority for the benefit of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston and James Roosevelt, son of the President.

Report Walsh Feels Humiliated.

In addition to being a senator, Walsh is Democratic national committeeman for the Bay State, and his complaint had been that he had been humiliated by being ignored by the national administration.

Then the yarn, which had trickled around earlier to some extent, came to Chicago, where a foundation somewhat similar to that in Massachusetts was found all ready for the superstructure. President Roosevelt had made several personal appointments in the state without consulting the organization. He had overruled the wishes of the organization in at least one matter.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, now even more important as public works administrator, is an old Bull Mooser. Three big jobs in the recovery program were listed as Illinois appointments—those of Administrator Hugh S. Johnson of the NRA, of Donald R. Richberg as counsel for the NRA and of George N. Peek as agricultural administrator. The Illinois organization didn't even know the gentlemen.

Graham's Rejection Called Slap.

The more specific occurrence that was construed as a slap at the Chicago Democrats was the rejection of State Senator Richey V. Graham, its nominee for internal revenue collector, and the appointment instead of former Mayor Harrison.

But the organization chiefs were not so badly hurt over this rebuff as some observers thought. Graham, it is said, was rejected for lack of experience. The organization refused to name a second choice. And the place then went, upon Senator Lewis' recommendation, to Mr. Harrison, who had been indorsed by the organization for appointment as federal commissioner to A Century of Progress, a fact cited to show that he was not unpopular with the regulars.

As a further bit of evidence that this matter did not irk the local bosses, it is cited that almost all the patronage in the collector's office open to political appointment has been handled through the organization.

In the same vein, it is pointed out that wherever political methods are possible in the selection of appointees in the many offices of the "pro-consuls" of recovery, the organization has no grievance concerning its treatment. Where several positions have been open and it has been able to produce men of the special qualifications required, it is said, they have received fair treatment.

The appointments of Ickes, Johnson, Peek et al, the regulars say, were personal selections of President Roosevelt and his advisers on a nonpartisan basis and were made with no thought of immediate political activity by them in Illinois.

That is the attitude of William L. O'Connell, who, ever since the inauguration, has been the recognized plenipotentiary of Senator Lewis in all Illinois political matters and particularly those of patronage.

Lewis to See Nash.

It is reported in this connection that when Senator Lewis comes to town this week after several months' absence because of his health one of his immediate purposes will be to confer with P. A. Nash, national committeeman and chairman of the Cook county central committee.

Committeeman Nash, Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Bruce A. Campbell, an important downstate leader, and other chiefs of the regulars were unanimous in saying "Nothing to it" in reply to questions concerning alleged signs that an all-Roosevelt organization is in the process of formation.

"And we're all-Roosevelt," they said, "so why should we worry?"

ROOSEVELT'S LEAD 7,060,017.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Final figures on the 1932 presidential election, compiled by Simon Michelet, president of the National Get-Out-the-Vote club, show that President Roosevelt received 22,821,858 votes, against 15,761,841 cast for Hoover, or a plurality of 7,060,017, as against a Republican plurality of 6,423,484 in 1928.

"Roosevelt and Garner received 57.4 per cent of the popular vote, the highest Democratic percentage since Andrew Jackson," Mr. Michelet said. "They received 472 electoral votes, against 59 for Hoover and Curtis—or, the highest electoral percentage since the civil war. Such are the outstanding features of the greatest reversal of party supremacy since the Republican party came to the White House under Lincoln."

S. PINKNEY TUCK.

Embassy Official

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Rumors current in the diplomatic set that divorce proceedings are pending between S. Pinkney Tuck, first secretary of the embassy here, and the former Beatrice M. Beck, daughter of Congressman James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], were confirmed tonight by Tuck. Tuck admitted that he had been separated for some time from his wife, who is now in America and that she is going to apply for a divorce in Philadelphia. He said it was simply a case of incompatibility.

LINDBERGHS PLAN TO HOP TODAY; GOAL IS A SECRET

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh planned tonight to take off at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from Woolston airport for an unrevealed destination. They refused to discuss their plans or to comment on unconfirmed rumors that they would fly back to the United States by a southern Atlantic route or retrace their northern route, possibly starting from some Scandinavian point. One report said they would fly to Ireland.

The Lindberghs did not go to the docks to say farewell to Aubrey Niel Morgan and his wife, the former Elisabeth Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's sister, when they arrived from Cardiff to sail on the Europa. Mrs. Morgan is reported to be returning to the United States for her health.

The belief that the Lindberghs are planning a long air journey was strengthened by the fact that their plane has been overhauled since its arrival in England. Col. Lindbergh drove over from Botley village, where he and his wife stayed overnight, to the airdrome this morning. There he supervised the launching of the seaplane and the filling of its gasoline tanks.

Half an hour after the task was completed the colonel said that because of rain and poor visibility flying was out of the question today. Then he said he would start tomorrow morning.

CHAMP OF EATERS PLANS TO TRAIN DURING WINTER

Mr. George Would Lose About 125 Pounds.

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—This winter will be a hard one for half a dozen chefs, two or three professional rubbers, and John F. Bleeck, president of the Fortieth Street Browning society. All these persons will be called on to help take 125 pounds off the spherical frame of Harry George, regarded by many as the leading eater of the eastern states.

Mr. George reported today at the Browning society's headquarters. A pair of waiters worked him gently through the narrow doorway and led him to the society's library, where he informed Mr. Bleeck and other members of his current weight, 365 pounds. Mr. Bleeck began uneasily to check over the club's winter supply of food.

"I want to get down to 240," said Mr. George. "It'll be hard work, men, and every one of you will have to cooperate, but it can be done. Once in a while I'll need a good, big steak. That means two or three of your steaks, Bleeck. Here's a simple menu for a single day."

The speaker, a stage mechanic for the Metropolitan Opera company during the winter and proprietor of a fisherman's paradise, Camp Magog, in the summer, started to write. The menu was devised for him by a Scotch physician, in whose hands Mr. George places himself every winter for the long, downhill grind.

BREAKFAST.

Orange Juice or Half Grapefruit
Cereal [possibly with bananas]
Two Boiled Eggs
One Large Rasher Ham
Skim Milk

LUNCH.

Double Portion Vegetables [string beans]
Lettuce
Black Coffee [one cup]
Apple [ripened in sun]

Broiled Steak
Salad
Boiled Vegetable
Four Ounces Grapes [weighed]
Black Coffee or Tea

"And before breakfast a thirty minute walk," said Mr. George sternly. "It's got to be done."

The ace gourmand of the east proceeded to issue his annual warning against the indiscriminate use of this diet by dieters at large.

"It might kill the average man," he said. "It was made to order for me by Dr. Blake F. Donaldson and has been approved by Dr. John D. Stewart. John is a friend of mine.

"I plan to vary that diet from time to time. For breakfast, instead of ham I might have the eye of two lamb chops. For lunch, I might have broiled fish, a big portion. And for dinner a whole broiled spring chicken or a couple of light roast ducks.

Mr. George did not make his first New York appearance of the season yesterday. Last Monday he slipped down from Lake Memphemagog to celebrate his 48th birthday at the Fortieth Street Browning society. On that occasion he engulfed fourteen lamb chops, according to audit records, and washed them down with twenty-five glasses of a popular stimulant.

"But I was a little hungry when I got home that night," he revealed. "My wife had some sweet Italian sausage in the icebox, fresh, so put away four pounds of that."

Mr. George's progress in his diet will be posted at regular intervals on the bulletin board of the society. His best achievement, regarded in some quarters as a local record, was his reduction from 430 to 240 pounds avoirdupois.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE LEAGUE'S BIG FAILURES.

The supposition used as foundation for the league of nations and for the special international conferences such as that on disarmament is that if nations are provided with a means of getting together they can study their differences of opinion and examine their wants and needs and by adjustments come to agreements. A supposition to the contrary is just as good and it has a great deal of experience to sustain it.

The endeavor of nations to reach common understandings through leagues and by conferences affords an opportunity for them to develop conflict and resist compromise. It has been found time and again that the very effort to find a base of cooperation brings every slumbering divergence of opinion and purpose to a head and precipitates acutely the issues to be composed. The calling of a conference is a signal for each interested nation to strive for advantages against the other fellows. Somebody will get the worst of it and each nation seeks the best.

When coöperation succeeds it is because the persons have a real advantage to be obtained in common and not each separately, an advantage which can be gained only by some one making a sacrifice. Each time the league of nations or one of its commissions has had a serious question before it, one which would have serious consequences attached to an agreement, it has floundered. It has done worse than flounder because it has seen a much more aggravated trouble rise out of its failure.

When Japan walked out of the league as the result of the negotiations concerning Manchuria and China it left in a defiant mood which is now disturbing the surface of events in the far east. The league's intervention in Asia accomplished nothing that was sought and did much which was to be prevented. The arms conference, which has had a long and a futile existence, now drives Germany to defiance. Conferences reveal themselves as prolific sources of the international ill feeling which they are counted on to allay. Even when they have superficial success they leave bitterness somewhere. The naval conference got to an agreement of sorts, but even in the easy-going United States the feeling that this nation had been duped became strong, and Japan, which was supposed to have done very well for itself in the treaties, has used them to arouse the feeling of the Japanese people that they had been tricked by Yankee aggressive imperialism.

Old-fashioned diplomacy might leave a nation with the impression it had come out second best, but it did not feel that it had been ganged by its associates in round table dealing. Distrust of everything pertaining to the league of nations has been an American instinct, although not expressed in American government policy. American administrations have constantly yielded to the temptation to mix in affairs at Geneva, enticed no doubt by the sense of importance derived from such statesmanship. These administrations have never taken advantage of the immunity which the people of the United States have voted to the country. Disgruntled nations have bolted the league rather than submit to it, but the United States, with its opportunity to keep free, rejects the counsel of experience and is forever horning in.

THE LAFFOON COLONELS.

Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky has added Mae West to his staff. As a colonel she may come over and see him some time. The privilege goes with the honor. Gov. Laffoon is quietly working his way out of the depression toward better times. The country should hear more of him and probably will.

When there is a meeting of minds, as there almost constantly is, Mr. Laffoon is seldom there. When the dust of a great idea is seen on the horizon he is never found in it when it passes the reviewing stand. When trial balloons are sent up he is never seen leaning out of the basket trying to ask where the rip cord is so that he may come down. He has not been lost in the impenetrable forest of intellectuality and one might conclude that he was not doing his duty. The conclusion would be an error.

Gov. Laffoon is rewarding merit and achievement. Whenever an American does well by his fellow countrymen, in however modest a fashion, as in the case of Miss West, the governor adds a new name to his list of colonels. He is founding the American Academy of Immortals as an incentive to youth and a reward for successful maturity. The maker of a better corkscrew knows where he can find fame without ostentation and the author of a wiser crack where he can find immortality without subservience. The otherwise lost American individual has a friend who will recognize and reward his worth.

The colonels will be glad to have Miss West among them. She professes to be no angel, but some are who would deny it. By restoring the old Victorian lines to the form she'll save the wheat growers yet and be of more use to Cuba than the Platt amendment. Garmentmakers look at what she wears and call her NRA. The colonels can call her honey. Happy days in Kentucky.

The federal trade commission has put out an explanatory rule to define requirements in advertising securities for sale under the securities act. It applies to anything offered after July 27 of this year. The purpose, as stated, is to safeguard the investor from erroneous impressions and to put the seller under compulsion to tell what he actually has, what is to be done with the money, and how the issue is being floated. The securities law itself puts such responsibilities and liabilities on corporations and promoters that many have hesitated to offer anything, fearing that even with intent to comply an inadvertence might send all the officers and directors marching in lockstep for their breakfast.

Ostensibly the whole purpose of the government was to take the dope sheet away from the dupe and make safe investment possible for people who had been buying rainbow ends from any one who had them to sell. It was to see that the sucker always got more than an even break. As in many other governmental proceedings there is an incidental effect and the total of these incidental effects could be studied for an ulterior plan.

It has been noted before, it being transparent, that there is a left wing in the new deal, and it is not so much concerned with emergency as with permanence. Emergency is opportunity to work toward a transformation of political arrangement and social structure. Many projects have two purposes, an immediate one of affording relief, an ulterior one of making a lasting change.

The discouragement of private investment turns money into the national treasury. Investment is in government bonds, in government activities and public works. Private enterprise more and more retires from the scene as public works with the investor's money are pushed forward. Not only is industry brought under bureaucratic control by the codes prescribing price, terms of employment, conditions of competition, etc., and proscribing men and practices, but the governmental enterprises take command of the investment field. In the end the government becomes all, the destination of the communist.

FORT CHURCHILL OR O. P. M.

A number of years ago a group of Canadian politicians, searching for a new fetish to attract the vote of the prairie provinces, hit on the scheme of a port on Hudson bay. As has been the case on this side of the international boundary, the wheat farmer's greatest worry is his transportation cost to the seaboard, and he is positive, whether correctly or not, that a reduction of the charge will result in an increase in his crop value. Port Albany, a trading post on the west coast of Hudson bay, was selected for development, but the port was later changed to Fort Churchill. Spellbinders argued that the distance to Europe would be reduced by a thousand miles and, of course, there would be a corresponding reduction in transportation costs.

The launching of the scheme brought immediate protest from practical operators. It was pointed out that little or no import cargo would reach Fort Churchill and that vessels could not cut rates with one-way loads. High insurance costs, the heavy investment necessary for the few weeks of navigation, the lack of a natural harbor and dangers to facilities from the bombardment of millions of tons of ice each spring were other points discussed, but all to no avail. The project was finally completed at a stated cost of sixty million dollars and officially opened for navigation. Ten cargoes of grain were exported during the season of 1932, and the same number during 1933, a vast disappointment to the proponents of the port, who, however, now tell the people of Canada that it was a rate war on the great lakes and the high insurance rates that have been entirely responsible for the failure.

These excuses are far from convincing. If, as contended, the new route was to be superior to the old routes via the great lakes, then it must of necessity be the survivor in a rate war and not the victim, especially when it has the support of the government's long pocketbook. It will also be noted that one of the alibis was the matter of insurance. We can now look for more fanciful schemes for charting, lighting and patrolling the channel for the benefit of the insurance rates.

In a private venture the investor must be convinced, but politics knows no such limitations. Political expediency conceives the project, oratory sweeps away the objections and covers the faults and, in the end, the country as a whole pays the bill and probably the maintenance of another piece of chicanery. That is why government building is always a waste of public funds.

Editorial of the Day

[Boone, Ia., News-Republican.]

The action of Germany in withdrawing from the league of nations and the arms reduction parley is grave in the extreme. Conditions for a new European war are more alarming than they were in 1914, and it behooves us as a nation to be very careful as to what commitments we make.

One of the most astonishing diplomatic misfits is the roaming around of one Norman H. Davis, "ambassador at large," whatever that is, who is taking sides with England and France as to what extent Germany should be permitted to re-arm. The American people have not delegated any such authority to any person, and if Mr. Roosevelt is wise he will recall this man Davis and keep out of any meddling with European military affairs.

If there is a new war in Europe the United States should have learned by this time not to get mixed in it unless we are absolutely threatened by one of the belligerent powers. We sent millions of men to Europe only a short time ago to straighten out their affairs. Fortunately Germany collapsed before we lost many of our boys. Financially, however, we were raided to the gunwales. About $22,000,000,000 war costs were saddled on to the American public, which has not recovered from the staggering blow yet. Presumably Europe is going to pay us about half of that sum in war debts, but Europe's credit is no good any more.

Isolation may not be the modern idea and it may not be in the teachings of college professors, but practically it will be the only thing for us to embrace if there is another European conflagration. We simply have not the means nor the men to put into another crusade "to make the world safe for democracy."

Get Davis out of this dangerous and unauthorized confab and send him home where he belongs. It is not up to us to mix in national squabbles 3,000 miles away. The sooner we get back to George Washington's doctrine of "no foreign entanglements" the better off we shall be.

AN AMERICAN-ENGLISH POCKET DICTIONARY.

(A movement started by the New York Police Department is spreading over the country to substitute the English language for the American dialect. Americans will find this little American-English pocket dictionary a great help in supplying simple English synonyms and phrases for the words of the American language.)

AUNTIE—A female relative who chews mint lozenges. Same in English, but the pronunciation is different. Americans pronounce the first syllable the same way they speak of an ant, a small bug that crawls over the sugar and pie at picnics. When speaking pure English the female relative is pronounced "ahn-tie."

ATHALETIC—In the English language the second "a" is not used, the word being pronounced the same way it is spelled—"athletic."

CONSTITOOSHUN—In the English language this word is pronounced "CONSTITUTION," but it will be very hard to make radio preachers and announcers believe it.

DEE-TROIT—In English this word in pronounced "DETROIT," with the accent on the second syllable and the "DE" of the first syllable not changed to "DEE" and heavily accented, as it is in the American language.

SCRAM [meaning getthell outten here]—In English the equivalents of "SCRAM" are "go away," "depart," "leave in haste," etc., etc.

BOOB, GUY, BIRD, SIMP, NUT—Used indiscriminately in the American language and generally prefaced by the adjective "POOR" in speaking of an acquaintance, friend, enemy, relative, the chauffeur, the cook, father, mother, fiancé, husband, divorced husband, bridge or tennis partner, etc., etc. These words have no exact English equivalents, the nearest thing to them in the English language being "awful bounder," "silly ass," "fearful cad," "poor blighter," etc., etc., but always used with considerable discrimination.

HOOTCH—A general name for alcoholic stimulants, for which the English language employs "WHISKY," "SCOTCH," "GIN," "WINE," "RUM," etc., etc.

SEZYOO—In the English language this is equivalent to "But that is only what you say, Harold or Percival," depending upon the person to whom the remark is made.

OKEY—Meaning a thing is correct or appropriate or is agreed to. In English, "QUITE ALL RIGHT!" or "QUITE SO!" or "RATHER!"

"BALONEY," "HOOIE"—These two expressions, much used by the upper classes in America, signify that a thing is false or erroneous. In English, "NOT AT ALL" or "I THINK YOU ARE PULLING MY LEG!" are fairly synonymous.

OHSAY—The standardized American method of beginning a statement or question; for example, "OHSAY, can you see, by the dawn's early light, what so proudly we hailed"—etc., etc. No English equivalent.

NOCTURNE.

How quiet is the eve, how calm the air!
Man's work is done, his petty strifes have ceased,
And earth is for a few brief hours released
From creative bonds to breathe again. How fair
They gossip of the things revealed today:
The pride of man, his greed and cruelty,
His vain ambition—striving to be free
That he may bind the weak of every land!
How quiet is the eve! The queenly moon
Again ascends her silver throne, where soon
The day is man's, the night is Beauty's own,

SOME INSECT ENEMIES.

At a recent meeting the American Veterinary Medical association awarded medals to two of the three discoverers of the relation of ticks to tick fever. These men were Drs. Kilbourne and Courtiss. The third member had been previously honored by this and other scientific associations. None of the trio is excessively old. What we know about ticks and their relation to diseases is a matter of comparatively recent discovery. In spite of the shortness of the time it has been discovered that more than a dozen diseases are tick borne—some to man, some to lower animals, and some to both.

It is well to beware of the fly, as we have heard so often and so frequently. But the danger from flies is becoming almost unimportant. It is also well to beware of mosquitoes, although in most parts of North America there is no yellow fever and not much malaria, and we fight mosquitoes principally because they are a nuisance. We have no severe typhus fever and our interest in lice because of the disease they spread is not great. [However, it is now known that a modified and mild form of typhus is widely distributed over America.] Fleas are a nuisance and, as such, should be kept under control, but the only flea borne disease of consequence—plague—has never done much harm in the northern part of this continent.

On the other hand the importance of ticks as disease spreaders is worthy of effort, and they are nuisances as well. Of them there are many varieties—dog ticks, sheep ticks, cattle ticks, and many others. The species of animal preferred by a given tick is the one which supplies the name. However, each variety of tick is able to live on one or more animals other than those of the preferred type.

In most sections of America the ticks in which man is especially interested are those that spread spotted fever. While the severe form of this disease is limited to the more northerly of the Rocky mountain regions, a milder form of it that rarely destroys human life is found in many parts of America, perhaps thousands of miles from the Rocky mountain area from which it may have spread at some time in the remote past. This milder disease in the faraway areas is so very unlike the severe disease it was not until laboratory tests came into use that it was distinguished from typhoid fever, malarial fever, and the other better known fevers. Nor was it known until recently that ticks were the insects that spread it. The particular offender in this instance is the dog tick. There is plenty of proof of the danger from ticks to humans and that, with their nuisance possibilities, should interest us in controlling them.

Probably the best tick repellent is kerosene. A few drops on the stockings and underwear will protect fairly well against invasion. Some apply kerosene to the ticks found biting through the skin. There are various tick dips on the market. A little of the fluid, as used by farmers in tick vats, when dabbed on a tick will cause him to drop off. It is more effective than kerosene for this purpose. After being exposed to ticks it is well to examine the body and the underwear for the insects.

A United States department of agriculture bulletin advises people not to pull ticks from tick bites until they have been made to turn loose by the use of dip liquid or kerosene. After the tick has been removed they advise the application of a little alcoholic iodine to the bite. They suggest that dogs and other tick infested animals be dipped.

SUGAR AND SLEEP.

Miss I. writes: Persons who are restless and poor sleepers, and children who wet the bed should eat sugar before retiring. I was troubled both ways and followed the plan and am cured.

REPLY.

I judge your blood sugar dropped to a low level at night. Eating sugar remedied that defect. Some cases can be relieved by the method you used. There are many variations in the effects of low blood sugar.

HOW COOKS GET FAT.

Mrs. J. writes: Mrs. C. says cooks get fat even when they eat but little. They get fat by absorbing food through the skin.

REPLY.

Mrs. C. is right when she says cooks are usually or often fat. But beyond that she is wrong. While cooks are apt to eat small amounts they offset that by eating often. The skin cannot absorb any material amount of food.

TOMATOES SAFE.

F. W. writes: Will tomatoes induce kidney trouble or rheumatism?

REPLY.

No as to both.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I purchased a car eight months ago. After paying for six months I returned it because of inability to pay more. Now the auto dealer is assigning my wages for an additional $55. Can he do so? W. F. J.

Your contract was probably so worded as to authorize him to sell for your account and hold you for any balance. You are the only person who can "assign" your wages. It is not clear whether you mean assignment or garnishment.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on problems of farm management, financing or governmental regulations sent to this department must be accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

E. M. asks: We have rearranged our yard and now are ready to seed considerable new lawn. What kind of seed should be used, and would it be well to cover it? What kind of covering would be best? The new lawn is out in the open with no trees or shrubbery for protection.

Answer: We suggest that you leave the seeding of your lawn until next spring. Even if the lawn were seeded and obtained a start, the winter would be rather severe for such a short growth. It would be impossible to adequately protect it with a covering that would not smother out most of the young grass. Instead, while it is fairly dry, we suggest that you keep it worked up to kill off any weeds and to keep the soil in good condition. In the spring the seeding should take place around the time when we usually get our spring showers.

The most suitable mixture of seed for the average lawn consists of about four or five parts of bluegrass and one part each of clover and red top. The red top serves as a nurse crop for the slower growing bluegrass.

C. V. asks: I have sold some grain for seed to be shipped out of the state. What regulations affect this shipment; does it need to be labeled as to weed inspection, germination test, and other qualities?

Answer: There is a federal seed act which regulates the shipment of seeds, especially on the questions of quality and purity. For details of the necessary inspection and labeling write to the division of seed investigation, bureau of plant industry, United States division of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

NRA Question Box

Following are typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers as given by the Chicago Recovery council which is aiding President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation movement here. Other questions and their answers will be given daily in this column.

Question—Are the railroads working on a code?

Answer—The railroads, according to every indication, will not come under the NRA. Railroad workers, however, should be benefited in many ways through the efforts of the federal coördinator of transportation.

Question—As I understand it, all employers under the NRA are supposed to pay each and every employé a minimum of $15 a week. If this is correct, how can the printers lay off workers to such an extent that high class help get considerably below $15 for a week's pay? Can a 40 hour week be cut to 16 or 8 hours?

Answer — Your understanding is not quite correct. Under the President's reëmployment agreement $15 is designated as a minimum for a full week's work of 40 hours for certain classes of help. It is not a guaranteed sum in the sense that $15 is paid regardless of the number of hours worked. With regard to your statement concerning workers in printing establishments, such establishments are not required to provide 40 hours of work per week if 40 hours of work are not available. They may work 8 or 16 hours or any other number of hours, under the minimum, according to the amount of work to be had. However, the rate which they pay you should be such that if you worked the full number of hours prescribed as the maximum for the printing industry, during one week you would be paid the minimum weekly salary.

THE FARMER AND PRICES.

Byron, Ill., Oct. 19.—Last evening I came home from the World's Fair and listened to two stockmen from Iowa while on the train who had just sold two loads of stock.

One said to the other, "What did you get for your load of prime steers?" and he replied, "I hate to tell you, for it was the lowest in 22 years."

"Well," said the first man, "where are they going to?" "That is not the question," replied the first stockman. "It is—where are we going to?"

Then this morning I picked up the morning TRIBUNE and read the first column, by Arthur Sears Henning, and hope no one is being fooled, for the farmer is not. He tells us that the President has found encouragement from statistics laid upon his desk which tell him that farm prices have increased 32 per cent and the cost of commodities used by the farmer has increased but 11 per cent. This is absolutely false and every farmer will bear me out. Beef lower than ever, hogs but little higher, corn down to the bottom, as are also oats and other grains that he might sell.

Now let us look at commodities the farmer has to buy. Flour has actually increased 50 per cent; tea, coffee, starch, beans, all kinds of meat, including lard, and then butter, with 33 per cent increase, and all along the line of provisions.

Now look at clothing, where the farmer has to buy overalls, gloves, shoes, underwear, sweaters, hats, caps, etc. Does Mr. Roosevelt mean to tell us farmers that these have increased but 11 per cent? Surely he knows better.

How about farm machinery, when a harvester was $185 last March and is now $225? Is that 11 per cent? How about coal and lumber? Have they increased but 11 per cent? How about the dress for his wife, or even material to make one? Percale in our little town has advanced from 12 cents to 23 cents.

The farmer wants a square deal, and thus far has not had a faint ray of that. He knows that supply and demand govern prices, but when handing out some "easy money" to all branches of industry why not give the farmer a lift? He would begin buying faster than any other class of people and start the wheels to moving more quickly and more permanently than in any other way.

Does Mr. Roosevelt think we have forgotten his campaign promise—that of aiding agriculture first? No, we have a rather good memory, so look over some correct statistics before trying to fool the public again, for you can't fool all the people all the time. A FARMER.

MORE OF THE FAIR.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Having just returned from a two month travel period throughout the southwest and the west coast, I want to convey to you the inquiry my wife and I met continually. Here it is:

"Is the World's Fair going to be held over for 1934?" and "I hear the World's Fair is going to be kept intact for next year. Is it so?" We can truthfully say that we were asked this question 100 times, and that is a lot! In a nutshell here is the situation: Many, many people who have been hit by the depression could not get here this year, and they are now getting on their feet and can come next year, and they want to see it. We spent 12 days there and it seems a shame to spend so much time and labor to build it and then tear it down after five months' use when so many want to see it. Am writing to Mayor Kelly and to A Century of Progress.

W. H. ALLEN.

GOVERNMENT FARMERS.

Wichita, Kas., Oct. 17.—The department of agriculture in its vast and expansive program of farm relief has overlooked two vitally important facts. In the first place, low prices of commodities are the natural result of labor saving machinery and economical devices. This is particularly true in regard to the price of wheat. Modern farm machinery enables three or four men to perform the work that formerly required the services of forty or more. It must also be remembered that the automobile and truck have enabled the farmer to bring his grain to market with far greater economy than was possible before. These advantages are enjoyed also by the great wheat producing countries of western Canada, Australia, Russia, and the Argentine, and if we are not isolated from the rest of the world by narrow nationalism the world's supply of grain must have its effects upon our markets.

As Henry Ford has well said, "The business of the government is to govern." It is not the business of the government to interfere as it is now doing with supply and demand, and assuredly it is not legitimate for a government to tax the people for special privileges granted to any one branch of industry as it is now doing for the farmers. If the farmers are raising too many hogs, too much wheat or too much cotton, it is their privilege to find this out for themselves, and then if not satisfied with the profits of their business to go into some other line of work. This is what has to be done in all other callings. Why should it be assumed that it is the duty of government to make farming profitable? What the farmers really need, and this is what they themselves repeatedly state, is to be relieved of excessive taxes now put upon them and then to be let alone by government. It is only the political farmers that are responsible for the monstrous program now in force.

HENRY WARE ALLEN.

JURY SERVICE PAY.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—I am curious to know if Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court has realized the irony in his remarks to men who come to him for jury service. I was called early in May and served two weeks and was given a juror's identification card. Two weeks after I served I received a postcard from a shark, and regularly after that every two weeks I have received similar cards from no less than six different outfits, all agreeing to cash my card. Upon investigation I found that the charge for this service was all the way from 15 to 25 per cent. The Municipal court does not know when these vouchers will be paid. The county treasurer will not accept them as part of real estate tax payment.

I am getting ahead of my story. Judge Sonsteby said, "It is the custom and has been to give the unemployed preference on jury duty." Fine for myself and the other unemployed men who served—only it costs money to serve. I live out of the corporate limits of Chicago. My round trip fare amounted to $4.10 while I served. Noonday lunches at only 25 cents mean another $2.50. Total, $6.60, which I had to borrow from a friend. It is exactly five months since I served. I have got in "Dutch" with the friend who loaned me the expense money, and no telling when the county will honor the voucher. I call that doing the unemployed a good turn. W. PERRY.

Ideal Autumn Weather Boon to Hunt Clubs

Riders at Dunham Woods Enjoy New Course.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THESE lovely autumn days make those who enjoy hunting—and we don't mean shooting, for we aren't thinking of the ducks that are engrossing every duck hunter's attention these days—plan to be free to ride with their favorite hunt club as often as possible, and even those who don't hunt regularly, try to follow the hounds occasionally.

There's nothing more exhilarating than to gallop cross country behind hounds that are following the scent [in this part of the country practically always an aniseed bag instead of a fox] through the fields, over hill and dale with the glorious autumn coloring all around.

Out west of town there are two hunts, the Du Page County and the Dunham Woods, although one who rides with the latter confessed the other day that the Dunham Woods hunt is more of a chase than a hunt. A chase of the M. F. H., Joy Morton II., for the three sleepy hounds that have comprised the pack so far have been relegated to the kennels and the two young whips, Betty Morton and Virginia Richards, will have nothing more to whip until a new and more wide-awake pack is secured.

Hunt Breakfast Every Sunday.

But it's all great fun, hounds or no hounds, and with a new course and new jumps the 25 or 30 residents of Wayne and Geneva who make up the Hunt are finding it well worth while to get out every Sunday morning for the chase. The real English hunt breakfast that follows at the Dunham Woods Hunt club is no small part of the morning's enjoyment, you may be sure.

Mrs. Charles C. West, the former Bernice Dunham, who as a little girl used to ride her pony in the same fields over which the hunt rides now, is the only side saddle equestrienne in the group, which includes the Milton J. Blairs, the Henry Stantons, Mrs. Joy Morton, II., the Perry Drydens, the David McDougals, the "Ed" McDougals, the Nathan McClures, the Charles R. Lindsays, III., Miss Jane Dunham, the George Moseleys, Jesse Burt, James Miksak Jr., Leonard Remisoff, the George Woodruffs, the "Mac" Stones and young Sally Bangs and her cousin, Peggy Zimmerman.

The Dunham Woods hunt, which is working towards becoming a real hunt with a fine pack of hounds, probably has for its ideal the Du Page County Hunt, its neighbor to the east. This hunt is fortunate in that it has for its M. F. H. Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, who owns a splendid pack, and so the hunt doesn't have the responsibility of feeding or caring for the hounds it follows.

Informal Hunting Rule at Wheaton.

Informal hunting is the rule in Wheaton except on special occasions, when some of the Lake Foresters joint the hunt, and then pink coats are in evidence, and all the riders, men and women, dress up in their snappiest hunting outfits. Tuesday and Thursday mornings and Sunday afternoons are the days on which the hunt meets, and some of those who ride regularly drive out from town, having come in for the winter, but refusing to miss the fun of the hunt on that account.

Mrs. Henry Hooper is one of those who takes the trip three times weekly in order to ride, and some of the others who belong to the hunt are the Chauncey McCormicks, the Horace Wetmores, the George Stroms, Miss Jar Ripley and her brother, Bradford, and the Paul Butlers. Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne often go out from town to enjoy a hunt in Wheaton, and so do various others who are friends of the members of the hunt.

On the north shore there is the Longmeadow hunt for Winnetka's best equestrians, and in Lake Forest, of course, the justly famous Millburn hunt.

C. J. Little Engaged to Alta Randles.

At a tea yesterday afternoon in the home of the Charles George Littles on Greenwood boulevard in Evanston a group of intimate friends of their son, Charles Joseph Little, gathered to congratulate him and felicitate Miss Alta Irene Randles on their engagement. The formal announcement of this occasion reads as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. Charles Delbert Randles of 323 Hamilton street, Ogdensburg, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Alta Irene, to Charles Joseph Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles George Little of 239 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston."

Miss Randles, who is spending a week with her fiancé's family, is a graduate of Wells college and a postgraduate of St. Lawrence university. Mr. Little prepared at Andover and was graduated from Yale and Harvard law school. He is practicing law in New York.

The elder of the Littles' daughters, Miss Myra Little, is at Bryn Mawr college, and unfortunately was not home for the engagement party. The younger daughter, Edith, and Miss Randles and Mrs. Little are leaving Friday by motor for the Littles' winter home in Tryon, N. C. Young Mr. Little will return east, and his father will close the house in Evanston and move to the University club for the winter.

Tell Engagement of Virginia Tingle.

This morning we are also announcing the engagement of Miss Virginia Irene Tingle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Tingle of Evanston, to Frank J. Madden of Chicago. Miss Tingle, who is one of the popular members of the young set on the north shore, was prepared at Roycemore, attended Sweetbriar college,

Good Morning!

"Saturday's Millions," while taking you to the familiar scenes of campus and gridiron, tells its story with a difference. The hero is a misanthrope and the big game which transpires in the last reel, has a surprise to offer. For which divergences from form, let us be grateful.

If the yarn isn't always convincing it still manages to hold the interest through the excellent work of its players. You behold Robert Young as the white hope of Western. And his father, of the class of '94, has come down from Idaho to see him play in the final game of the season.

Fowler Sr. has had no idea of the extent of his boy's progress and popularity, and is staggered at the attention showered on Fowler Jr.—and himself as the enviable pater of such a wonder.

But he can't understand Fowler Jr.'s attitude. There's a hardness about the youth which baffles him. He's to learn that his son believes nobody loves him for himself alone—but only for his skill in carrying the ball. And so, football has become to this star player just a racket. Fowler Sr., whose college spirit had been vastly different, is stunned at the revelation of what goes on in his offspring's mind. . . .

Two women are interested in the hero. One is the blonde and true hearted daughter of a prominent alumnus. The other, a dark charmer who has the lad completely fooled and whose activities spell misfortune, which—as Fate will have it—breaks up the ice that's been forming round his heart and makes for a happy ending.

The picture has several touchingly human angles and a number of comic sequences. The most amusing of these are NOT contributed by Andy Devine—does he get in YOUR hair?—and his girl friend, though she's pretty cute, but by Grant Mitchell and Richard Tucker as two buddies of '94 who meet after 40 years. Some suspense is introduced by the efforts of a hard boiled newspaper girl to get scandalous goods on young Fowler. The critical game is an exciting one.

There have been better football pictures than "Saturday's Millions," but it holds its own with the average output.

String Quartet Shows Latest Music Trends

Pro Arte Group Presents Final Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The concluding concert of the Pro Arte String quartet at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon was given over to some of the most recent thoughts and manners in composition. Quartets by Schoenberg, Roy Harris, and Hindemith showed how freedom runs unchecked in melodic theme, harmonization, and rhythm. This was sometimes to the delight of the auditors, though at other times there was manifest puzzlement. As a matter of fact, a totally unfamiliar work in a totally unfamiliar idiom is no easy matter to listen to with any surety of extracting all its matter.

The Schoenberg work in its two final movements called for the addition of a soprano voice, which was furnished by Mme. Olga Averino. Each movement became the setting of a poem, but outside of the fact of the words, the voice was treated as though it were a member of the ensemble, and Mme. Averino sang so well that she was entirely in touch with the learned and brilliant players who make up the quartet. Mr. Harris' work, three variations on a theme, was dedicated to Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, the sponsor of the three concerts.

Nina Mariani, Chicago soprano, recently returned from Italy, where she was the beneficiary of the Rosa Raisa scholarship, and the Whitney ensemble joined forces in a concert at the Studebaker yesterday afternoon for the purpose of raising a fund so that the disabled veterans at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital might have a day at A Century of Progress.

This was a good cause, and the better because it was good music, too. Miss Mariani has a voice of great beauty, and she would seem to have been applying herself with industry to her studies in Italy. She brought back an unhackneyed program and sang it with striking ability. The Whitney ensemble, four strings and a piano, is, by virtue of good tone, incisive rhythm, clean cut playing, and high spirit of performance, an uncommonly pleasing organization.

Purdue and Indiana universities sent their bands to A Century of Progress yesterday to take leading positions in a day that was thoroughly band-conscious. They are among the best university bands in this part of the country, whether assembled in their seats to play a program or marching with snappy parade step to another location. Membership is large, tone and balance are excellent, and both would seem to be fully aware of the kind of discipline that produces results.

Mrs. Blanche Chapman Cornelius will be represented among the Illinois composers this afternoon when three of her compositions are presented at the Illinois Host house.

With a gala program that brought in nearly every member of the company, the San Carlo Grand Opera company closed its season at the Auditorium last night and departed for Detroit. Two acts of "The Barber of Seville" were sung by Louise Lincoln, Dimitri Onofrei, Mario Valle, and others; the second act of "Madame Butterfly" presented Hizi Koyke and Bernice Schalker; there was an overture by the orchestra and "The Dance of the Hours" from "La Gioconda" by the ballet headed by Lydia Arlova. The performance ended with the Triumph scene from "Aïda," with Bianca Saroya, Ethel Hottinger, Aroldo Lindi, Chief Caupolican, Leon Rothier, Norman Cordon, chorus, ballet, orchestra, and band.

A NEW YORKER at the Fair went in to see "Olympia" at the Streets of Paris and found there a beautiful girl posed in the exact position of the Manet masterpiece. She was, however, a blonde, the New Yorker points out, and the visitor called the attention of the concessionaire to this point, reminding him that the lady of the painting is a brunette. It seems that the concessionaire was aware of this, but explained that under the NRA Olympias can't work over hours any more than anybody else, so he had to have two.

"Can't you read?" he concluded.

"Where are you from?" inquired the officer.

"Cleveland," the stranger said.

"Well, then, what are you doing with an Ohio license?" growled the cop.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A combination calculated to make longings arise in the bosom of the most clothes proof female is Chanel's velvet coat that is trimmed with white ermine. This combine is hard to beat at any time, and when Chanel turns it out it's quite irresistible in the eyes of Parisiennes.

Ermine, as Chanel applies it to her velvet coats, is put on in the plastron, or bib form, as shown here. She puts this kind of ermine trimming on coats of dark blue, black, and dark green velvet. The ermine collar is a special feature of the Chanel collection. It is a standing collar that has ermine ties which wrap around the neck and tie in perky ends which may remind you of the masculine cravate of other days or the cat's whiskers, according to the way your mind runs. Any way this collar and its ties is extremely smart.

New Ideas in Flowers Win Style Attention.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sighing swains, trying to make lasting impression on a lovely lad, who has everything, might tarry a half hour or so with the florists this fall and gather some new ideas that will make the most stony hearted maiden melt. You simply are weeks behind the rest of the flower sending males if you are content to lazily phone in and send the usual box of blooms selected by a third person. This is the season when personal interest scores high . . . and what's more, it's fun to see what an original person can accomplish.

Listen to this . . . the next time you send flowers try the new bracelet idea, a ribbon wrapped hoop that can be dangled from the elbow, or around the wrist, or even parked on the table or worn high on the arm . . . a hoop jeweled with a couple of orchids or studded with fragrant gardenias, or freezia, bouvardia or even violets. It's a grand idea, once you enter into a huddle with these knowing florists with the newest ideas.

Twin bracelets of violets, alternated with either rosebuds or gardenbuds, will surely attract envious attention . . . and for a particularly sentimental occasion, why not try bracelets fashioned of tiny sweetheart roses. Another floral way to an appreciative heart might be with a wreath of posies for her hair. Try one of violets and tiny rosebuds, and the lady who knows her flower halo will undoubtedly wear it a bit aslant. They are devastatingly becoming on blonde, brunette, or red head!

Two calla lilies tucked immediately under the chin will change even a subtle black afternoon frock into a ravishing affair. . . . and small shaggy chrysanthemums can be used the same decorative way.

And here's one more suggestion—the carnation that lurks in a well dressed man's lapel should be deep maroon this fall, if you would let the world know you know what's what.

THIRD AND LAST

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaper man, is her friend and counselor. Bun agrees to help James B. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, to find his young wife, Helene. He wants no publicity. He had met Helene after the war in Bucharest. He had installed her family, the Bobianoffs, in a villa on the Riviera at Grasse. Her brother, Ferenz, he had brought to America. No trace can be found of Helene and her parents since the last time she returned to visit them. Bun's suspicions are aroused by Finlay's niece, Mrs. Craymer, and her ominous appearing butler. A recent newspaper picture showing Helene standing with a tall woman in a group at Biarritz is the only clue Bun has to go on. That same night Finlay is murdered. Bun's apartment is broken into by a masked man and woman; her maid, Liberté, bound, and the money Finlay had given her as advance payment stolen. Bun meets Finlay's son, Robert, when he arrives from America. His unlikeness to his father and his desire for secrecy puzzle her. She feels under obligation to continue the search. In Biarritz the photographer who took the group picture identifies the tall woman as the Countess Vernadon, who has a villa at Grasse. Bun motors to Cannes. There she meets the real Robert Finlay and learns that the other was an impostor. Bun is attracted to him, but believes he's in love with Helene. He urges her to continue the quest with him. Mrs. Craymer appears at the hotel.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

REAL ADVENTURE.

Bun found herself a little out of the conversation. Mrs. Craymer plied Finlay with personal questions which continued until they had gone out to the lounge for coffee. They might have gone on indefinitely if Finlay had not risen after half an hour and said he must send off some telegrams.

"But, Bob, when shall I see you again? Do come to my room after breakfast. I never come down until noon, but I should so love to know what you are going to do. If you return at once to Paris, why not stop in my apartment? I left two servants there, my cook and butler. You'd have much more privacy there than at an hotel. Do please go there."

Finlay thanked her and said they could talk that over in the morning. He and Bun followed her to the elevator and waited until she had disappeared. Then Bun went for a wrap and a few minutes later met Finlay awaiting her before her car in front of the hotel. Without further discussion they drove off and turned into the road towards Grasse. The night was still and warm and a moon was sailing high in a cloudless sky. As the road climbed and they looked back at the Mediterranean, the town of Cannes and the port with its twinkling lights lay beneath them like a jewel. The dramatic line of asteral mountains rose gloomily towards the west. Only when the road became steep and she had to change into second did Bun turn to Finlay.

"Are you entirely convinced of your cousin's sincerity?"

"That's not all that I mean." Bun rested one hand on the wheel while they mounted slowly. "Have you seen her Verdun butler? But I believe he's a new acquisition. What I mean is, are you sure that she might not be what the French call interressée?"

"It's up there," he waved toward a higher quarter of the town.

For the first time she heard Finlay laugh, boyish laughter that rang out pleasantly on the quiet night. "Cousin Thelma! You haven't got her number. She may be foolish—and all that—but she's the last person in the world to mix up in any sort of adventure, except"—he added as an after thought—"one that had to do with social activities."

"I wonder if you are right," Bun said, more to herself than to him. "Here's Grasse. We'd better make some inquiries."

She stopped the car before a dismal looking café. A waiter came out. She asked if he knew the direction of the Villa des Roses—belonging to the Countess Vernadon. The man looked at her out of roundly opened eyes.

"It is back in the hills—about ten kilometers further on. Turn to the right up this street and you then tumble into a narrow road." The man continued staring at them with obviously aroused curiosity. "Are you expecting to find any one there?"

"Yes—the Countess Vernadon."

"She doesn't live there any longer—since——"

"Since what?" Bun quickly asked.

The man stared at her sullenly, then fell back from the car. "It is a bad road. You better look out for your tires."

"Hadn't you better ask where the Bobianoff villa is?" Finlay suggested.

Bun did, and again saw the expression of curiosity in the man's eyes. "It's up there." He waved towards a higher quarter of the town. "But it is closed. They left here several months ago. Ask them at the Villa des Roses. Perhaps they can tell you where they have gone. They were always together." Again he stepped back towards the door of the café. "The first road to the right. Bon voyage." He added the last salutation with an inflection that left Bun wondering.

"Not encouraging," she murmured. "And a bit ominous. By any chance do you happen to be carrying a gun?"

Finlay smiled grimly. "Not since I left New York. Look here," he said, when they were started again, "I don't think I ought to drag you into this. Suppose you wait in one of these hotels and let me go on alone."

"In a country whose language you don't speak and on a road you don't know! What do you take me for?"

"An awfully good sport," he replied promptly. "Probably a little reckless. But seriously—"

The road lived up to its reputation after they had driven through a quarter where delightful looking villas were smothered in sweet smelling gardens. It was not only narrow but it was filled with ruts, evidently little used. Bun's lips tightened as the lights from the car showed what appeared to be an endless stretch of bumps and crevices. Once she stopped and asked for a cigaret. They smoked a few minutes in silence.

"Pretty grim," Finlay commented. "And yet only a few miles from one of the most civilized spots on the globe. I wonder why any one should have chosen such a place."

When they were on the way again a harder bump than usual made Bun mutter: "I think we've added a puncture to our other pleasures. Would you be good enough to give a glance at the right rear tire?"

While he was working at the exchange, a claxon howled in the distance. Then lights flashed over them. The next moment a huge car rushed past them and tore along the road.

"Imagine taking this road at that rate!" Bun exclaimed. "And where can they be going?"

She peered ahead, the lights from the car which had just passed illuminating the road vividly. A little distance further on she saw the direction of the lights shift. Suddenly, as if by magic, a huge building—a sort of medieval castle—appeared out of the darkness. Then, as the lights again shifted, it vanished like a mirage.

"I think that's the place we're looking for," she said, when Finlay was once more beside her. "Did you see it—or did I imagine it?"

He was shading his eyes and staring ahead. "Here's a gate. Better slow down."

Along one side of the road rose a high, rough stone wall. Over it could be seen only a dense grove of eucalyptus trees. Their lights concentrated on an iron gate, at one side of which, imbedded in the stone, was a plaque bearing the name "Villa des Roses."

For a moment Bun was in the grip of hesitation. She looked at Finlay. "Are we going in there?"

He nodded quietly. "That's what we're here for."

Finlay got out and examined the gate. One push showed that it was not locked. He threw it open and returned to the car.

Movie Colony Does Its Best for Marconis

Political and Film Leaders Attend Luncheon.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—When Marquis and Marchesa Guglielmo Marconi visited Los Angeles, the movies erected, carpeted, decorated and otherwise equipped a complete banquet room in the hours between midnight and noon, and put on a big luncheon and complimentary show for the Italian notables.

The affair was held at Radio RKO studio, with B. B. Kahan, president, as main host, and besides the mayor, state, and some service officials, executives and stars of all Hollywood's studios were hastily assembled to form a pictorial and celebrated background.

After Nelson Eddy, the Pickens sisters of radio and Ruth Etting had sung, the visitors were taken on a tour of movie sets, and arrived just in time to hear John Barrymore blow up in some dialogue with Helen Chandler and Brandon Hurst in "Long Lost Father." Utterly uninhibited by the presence of the Marconis, the Italian consul, the mayor, and various curious big shots representing the army, navy, and politics, Barrymore went through his talkie speech and ended with a resounding "nuts!" It amused most of his listeners, but the Marconis didn't understand.

Kenneth MacGowan, supervisor in charge, was one whose face registered amusement, but his words were these: "This picture will cost a couple of thousands extra on account of today."

Marconi and his party also looked in on the making of a scene in the comedy, "Hip Hips Hooray," featuring Bob Woolsey, Bert Wheeler and Thelma Todd. Part of the business, during the dialogue, was for Wheeler to eat a banana. He ate the major part of three bananas while they were rehearsing. [It was right after the big lunch served for the Italian notables] and then when they tried to shoot it Woolsey muffed a line. As Wheeler regretfully pulled another banana out of his inside coat pocket, any lip reader would have fancied he told Woolsey: "You miss another cue and I'll stick this banana right in your eye."

Fredric March's contract with Paramount expires Nov. 10, but the studio wants to keep him to play opposite Claudette Colbert in "Cleopatra." March, of course, will be Antony. Miss Colbert is at sea on her way home from Hawaii with the DeMille cast filming "Four Frightened People."

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROBBERY ABOARD.

Prof. Fordney sleepily wiped his eyes but with a kindly smile said, "Go on, son. Tell me about it."

Harris, detective officer of the trans-Atlantic liner President Hayes, continued: "Well, sir, Mrs. Wiley reported that her valuable jewels and some cash have been stolen from her stateroom. She says she awoke with a start, turned on the bedlight and saw a masked man limp across the room and after threatening her with a revolver he quietly closed the door and left. She jumped out of bed, discovered her jewels were missing, and opened the door just in time to see the limping man turn the corner of the passageway. Then she called for help.

"I wouldn't awaken you at this hour," Harris went on apologetically, "but Mrs. Wiley is very . . ."

"Sure, I'll lend a hand," Fordney replied, "but nothing much can be done tonight. I'll see you in the morning."

The professor's inquiries elicited the single fact that Mr. Johnson, who occupied the cabin directly opposite Mrs. Wiley's, had seen a limping man hurrying down the corridor away from Mrs. Wiley's stateroom shortly before the reported robbery.

A few hours later Harris rushed up to Fordney and excitedly exclaimed, "Well, I've got the thief all right, sir!"

"How do you know?"

"Why, I've examined every man on the boat and the man in custody is the only one that limps!" replied the detective triumphantly.

"Hope you're right, son," Fordney rejoined. "Have you retrieved the jewels?"

"Not yet, but he must be the thief!"

"Not necessarily," was the laconic reply.

and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Madden took both his undergraduate and law degrees at the University of Chicago where he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. No date has been set for the wedding.

Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague are entertaining at dinner this evening for their double cousin, Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, before the concert the Boston Symphony orchestra is to give in Orchestra hall.

After the concert the party will enjoy the supper the John Alden Carpenters are to have at their Lake Shore drive residence for Serge Koussevitsky, the director of the Boston Symphony, Mme. Koussevitsky, and the Zaltko Balokovics, who arrived on Friday to be the house guests of the Carpenters.

A socially distinguished audience will fill the box circle for tonight's concert. The Frederick Stocks will have a party of friends with them and so will Mrs. Walter A. Strong, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Leverett Thompson, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and Mrs. Francis G. Lee. Philip Hale of Boston, the Charles H. Swifts, and the Charles H. Hamills will be others in the audience, but they have chosen main floor seats.

Mrs. Breckenridge to Speak Today.

The little chapel at Ferry hall in Lake Forest will be filled this afternoon with an intent audience for Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, the beloved director of the Frontier Nursing service, is here from Kentucky to give her first public lecture on the noble work the service does in the Kentucky mountains.

The Lake Forest League of Women Voters and the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. are sponsoring the lecture and Mrs. Edward Arpee [the former Katherine Trowbridge] who was the first girl from Chicago to go to Kentucky as a courier, is the chairman.

Assisting Mrs. Arpee as hostess will be Mrs. Frank Hixon, Mrs. H. Scott Bromwell, and Mrs. William McPheeters. Mrs. Breckinridge is to be the guest of Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, whose daughter, Margaret, is now a courier, at luncheon this noon before her lecture which begins at 3:30. This evening Mrs. Breckinridge will be the dinner guest of the Cornelius M. Trowbridges and spend the night at their Lake Forest home.

Mrs. Breckinridge was the guest last night of Rho chapter and the Chicago Alumnæ club of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority on the Northwestern university campus. Members of this national sorority took over, three years ago, the social service phases of the service.

Tomorrow she will come in town to remain through Wednesday in order to be present at the meeting of the Chicago committee of the Frontier Nursing Service at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club. Mrs. Frederic W. Upham is chairman of the Chicago committee.

Junior League to Meet Today.

The fall meeting of the Junior league is being held today at the Fortnightly club. There will be a business meeting at 10:30 followed by luncheon, at which R. I. Randolph will tell strange and amusing things that have happened at the Fair during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde Gillette are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter Saturday at St. Joseph's hospital. The baby's paternal grandmother is Mrs. Kinney Smith and her maternal grandfather is Edwin F. Gillette of Pasadena, Cal. Among her aunts are her father's pretty sisters, the Misses Helen and Marietta Gillette, who have been spending the last five or six weeks in Chicago with their aunt and uncle, the William S. Jenks. They are returning to Pasadena very shortly.

Tea Thursday for Abbe Ernest Dimnet.

Mrs. Welch Dickinson has issued invitations for a tea from 4 to 6 next Thursday afternoon for the noted Abbe Ernest Dimnet, the author of "Art of Thinking." The tea will be at Mrs. Dickinson's apartment at 220 East Walton place.

The men and women who number the Cradle among their pet philanthropic organizations are making it a point to be near radios Friday at 2:30 o'clock and Sundays at 3 o'clock, for at these hours on those days 15 minute episodes from real life, Cradle dramas they are called, are being put on the air. And if you know anything at all about the Cradle you know how thrilling and how filled with human interest are the things that happen daily at that creche in Evanston, where little homeless babies are kept so beautifully until homes are found for them.

The women on the board find that it is no trick at all to find homes for the infants, the problem is to find enough babies for all the homes that want Cradle babies. The Evanston auxiliary board, headed by Mrs. Lucius A. Crowell, has arranged these radio programs to assist Mrs. William B. Walrath, president of the Cradle, in the current campaign to raise a fund of $30,000 for this year's expenses.

Music Programs at Lake Forest.

The fall and winter program of the Lake Forest Music club offers good reason to the residents of this place for remaining in the country Sunday afternoons during the cold weather. Walter S. Armbruster, director of music at Lake Forest college, has prepared the series with the assistance of Mrs. Julie Manierre Mann, who is the club president.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wagenen Alling will open their home at 3:30 the afternoon of Nov. 5 for the first concert to be given by Mrs. Elizabeth Heath, the pianist, and Arthur Ranous, the baritone, accompanied by Miss Millicent Christner.

At tea this afternoon the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago is going to open in Wieboldt hall an exhibit of reproductions of recent paintings by ten distinguished contemporary painters and six of the original paintings lent by John Becker of New York. The artists include Braque, Derain, Dufy, Gris, Leger, Lurcat, Masson, Matisse, Picasso, and Rouault. After tomorrow the exhibition will be open to the public.

"Women Racketeers of the 17th Century" is the intriguing subject Mme. Marie de Mare will discuss this afternoon when she speaks in the drawing room of Mrs. Charles H. Besly's attractive home in Hinsdale. Mme. de Mare, who is here from Paris, is a niece of Mrs. Besly and the granddaughter of both George P. A. Healy, the artist, and the Comte de Milhau.

Prince George Matchabelli of New York is arriving in town today to spend a week or so seeing the Fair.

Fashionables Wear Best, Go to Horse Show

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Horses, it was proved during the week-end, have assumed new importance for Chicago's society world.

Hundreds of fashionables in the best of formal attire contributed additional glamour to an already radiant scene Saturday night at the opening of the World's Fair Horse show in the giant 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington park. The show will continue through the week.

"Even beyond my expectations," was the comment of Gen. Frank Parker, who with Mrs. Parker and Gov. Henry Horner arrived at 9 o'clock, just in time to see Ampere, Gen. Parker's favorite horse, lead the grand processional down the center of the arena floor. Ampere, standing at attention during the playing of four national anthems, exhibited slight nervousness clad as he was in the silver and gold threaded blankets that were once the personal pride of Czar Nicholas of Russia.

The Parkers and Gov. Horner occupied places in the stone walled box at the north end of the armory in which Col. Charles C. Haffner Jr. and Mrs. Haffner were host and hostess. To the right of the Illinois' governor sat Mrs. Parker, distinguished in a gown and wrap of black, and to his left was Mrs. Haffner, attractive in royal blue. Col. George T. Langhorne was another in this official party. Still others included Porter Fox, the president of the Horse Show association, who had his daughter for a partner, the Paul Butlers, Col. and Mrs. Hugh Scott, Col. and Mrs. Trygve A. Siqueland, Maj. and Mrs. Harry D. Chamberlain, the Edward P. Welles, the Jay Whipples, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon.

Far to the south end—near the white picket gates set with huge jars of yellow chrysanthemums where the thoroughbreds entered the ring—sat Col. and Mrs. N. Robert Guggenheim of New York with their manager. Col. and Mrs. Guggenheim have brought west with them a notable string of ring prides for competition and exhibition. This morning Mrs. John Hay Whitney arrives from the east to spend most of this week at the horse show. Five horses that are the pick of her stables are her nominations for prizes.

Directly across the ring from the Guggenheims Saturday night sat two more of the most interested spectators at the show. They were the good looking Mrs. Carl H. Hanna, who is here from Cleveland with a string of horses from her Paddock Lane farms, and Mrs. William P. Roth of Pamona, Cal., among whose entries are the famous horse, Sweetheart on Parade, valued at a mild $37,000. With Mrs. Hanna and Mrs. Roth sat Mrs. Marvin Somers, who has come from her home in San Francisco especially for this event. All three of them chose black for their costumes.

BY MARY MEADE.

This little cookie went to college, but that little cookie stayed at home.

One of the joys of college days is boxes from home. Whether they contain delicious home made cookies, candy, and cake, or only the makings of sandwiches, they show the young ones they're thought of, which is appreciated by even the most blasé schoolgoer.

Besides home baked goodies, some foods which will be appreciated are packaged cookies and crackers, popcorn balls, candied fruits, metal boxes of hard candies, jars of pickles, olives and sandwich fillings, and nut meats.

DATE AND NUT BARS.

1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
¾ cup flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
Few grains salt
1 cup dates, cut fine
1 cup nut meats, chopped

Cream the butter, add the sugar, and cream thoroughly. Add the well beaten eggs and the flour, baking powder, and salt, which have been sifted together. Fold in the dates and nut meats and spread in a pan lined with waxed paper. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. Cut in finger shaped pieces and roll in powdered sugar while warm.

CHOCOLATE NUT LOAF.

3 cups pastry flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup butter or other shortening
2 cups light brown sugar
4 eggs, well beaten
1 cup broken walnut meats
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sift the flour once and measure. Add the salt, soda, and baking powder, and sift together 3 times. Cream the butter thoroughly, add the sugar gradually, and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add nuts and chocolate and blend. Then add the flour, alternating with the milk. Add the vanilla and bake in a large greased loaf pan in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] 1 hour, or until done. Frost with a fudge frosting when cool.

To satisfy the children's sweet tooth you might send

COFFEE NUT PRALINES.

2 cups medium light brown sugar
¾ cup strong coffee
¼ cup butter
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Cook together all the ingredients except the vanilla and nuts until a soft ball can be formed when the sirup is dropped into cold water [233 degrees F.] Add the nuts and vanilla and beat until creamy and thick enough to hold its shape. Drop by large spoonfuls on a buttered paper. When hardened, wrap each piece in waxed paper.

KITCHEN GOSSIP by HILDA

A trick or two, for meatless meals

You'll find a score of wonderful Chinese recipes in the La Choy cookbook. Write to me. I'll send you a free copy. Address La Choy Food Products, Inc., Detroit, Mich.

Youth Needs Well Rounded Social Activity

Variety of Friendships Aids Normal Growth.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—One of the needs of the younger generation, as apparent to you as to educators, is opportunity for wider social contact than is their common privilege.

Going steadily with one of the opposite sex at fifteen, sixteen, and seventeen, is not the healthy mode of procedure. This implies a preoccupation with sex that is not consistent with proper development and future marriage success.

With the economic forces against early marriage, the young people need opportunity for a more rounded life, a life in which the sex factor does not dominate.

Such were the recent expressions of Dr. Paul Doponeo of the Institute of Family Relations, Los Angeles, noted lecturer and marriage authority.

There will have to be some radical changes in social life to meet these emergencies. Boys should meet and know a lot of girls, and girls should be given the same privilege so far as boys are concerned.

Comradeship is an essential need of these young people, not the high keyed emotional state commonly found where social contact is restricted to one or two acquaintances in the opposite sex.

Early marriage, in Dr. Poponeo's judgment, is desirable, but economic influences being as they are, the next best is to provide a healthy environment and a constructive one for the use of leisure hours.

"Dinner at Eight" Movie Draws Capacity Audience

The photoplay version of "Dinner at Eight" began an engagement at the Apollo theater last night, twenty-four hours after the drama, which had an eighteen weeks' run at the Grand Opera house, vanished from the stage. A capacity audience of playgoers and cinema patrons attended the première to make comparisons between the film and the real life interpreters of the various characters. The cast of this talking picture contains a galaxy of movie celebrities. John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Marie Dressler, Jean Harlow, Wallace Beery, Billie Burke, and Edmund Lowe have important rôles.

Children Are Prone to Bully Smaller Chums

Wrong Playmates Cause Anti-Social Habits.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

She writes:

"One of my main troubles with Phyllis was grabbing toys from another child. Her social habits with the children in the nursery school were splendid, but at home and visiting, was grab and snatch all the time, but only with certain children.

"It began when Phyllis was only 18 months old. She was given younger children as playmates because their mothers were my friends. Naturally she took advantage of them—they cried and I scolded and Phyllis thoroughly enjoyed the whole commotion! [They do.] I tried punishment. I tried ignoring as the younger grew up. I tried short periods of isolation. Sometimes I event sent our little guests home to deprive Phyllis.

"Nothing did any good for about two years. We mothers were too selfish to give up our own friendship and continued to throw these mismated children together almost every day. As a result the younger ones played under a constant nervous strain—always guarding against interference, always having to defend themselves or be defended, while my Phyllis turned into a little bully, a tease and a selfish little tyrant." [Here is an honest mother.] "Eventually by patient, persistent effort and constant drilling and reeducation she has acquired the right social habits and can play very happily with other children."

These alert and independent opinions on the subject of play are well worth your consideration if you, too, are struggling with your young children's first efforts to learn to play with others.

Quilt Embodies Star Brilliance in Lovely Design

Evening Star.
BY NANCY CABOT.

"Star light, star bright, first star I see tonight . . . . . " Remember the old verse with which you made a wish at the first nightly glimpse of the evening star? Here's a quilt pattern for that very star. It's an old and honored pattern and is found in the quilt collection of a great many museums. The early quilts were executed in blue and white but any variation one prefers would be equally suitable.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

University of Chicago Shows Enrollment Gain

Registration at the University of Chicago for the autumn quarter totaled 7,845, it was announced yesterday by university officials. This was a gain of 578 students, or 8 per cent, over a year ago. The bulk of the increase was in the University college, the downtown day and evening school, where the enrollment rose to 2,431, a gain of 475. Registration on the Midway totals 5,414, of whom 1,570 are in the professional schools. Men outnumber women, 4,374 to 3,471.

Star Displays Clever Choice of Accessories

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—Says the young woman from the publicity department to Alice Brady, working on the Vinegar Tree lot at Metro: "Miss Brady, when will you have time to pose for some fashion pictures?"

Says Miss Brady: "I have the time any time, but I haven't the fashion clothes. All I have, except one Paris model, are those $13.75 things from S——'s" [naming a Hollywood shop supporting depression prices in a smart clothes way].

Expanding on the clothes subject, Miss Brady added: "I don't believe in the expensive model way of dress, anyway. The accessories matter so much more these days. What good does it do to pay two, three, or more hundred dollars for a dress and not have the right accessories?"

We talked about short hair for women. Hers is short, with a soft, flat curl arrangement rather high on the neck in back; a conventional wave treatment over the ears. The hair, longish and flowing widely and loosely [much of which you see out here, by the way], is all right for the young girl, in Miss Brady's judgment. "But if a mature woman wants a soignee look she can't get it without short hair unless she is of the Spanish type that wears the hair straight back and knotted at the nape of the neck."

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

DON'T be fooled into believing that your teeth are naturally dull, off-color, or susceptible to decay simply because brushing fails to keep them sound or make them white. Remember this:

Any preparation that polishes teeth and fails to kill germs—millions of germs which cause so many tooth and gum troubles—ONLY HALF-CLEANS TEETH.

One dental cream that kills troublesome germs as it cleans the teeth is Kolynos. Try it—a half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night . . . Soon your teeth will look cleaner than ever before.

This unique, scientific dental cream contains two priceless agents that give the teeth a DOUBLE-CLEANSING. As one foams into every crevice, over every tooth surface and washes away food accumulation, stain and tarnish—the other kills millions of germs.

Thus, in a remarkably short time, teeth are cleaned right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel — without injury. They look more attractive than you ever believed possible.

DAYTON STARTS PLAN LINKING FARM, FACTORY

U. S. Backs 35 Families with $50,000 Fund.

Dayton, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A 300 acre tract of land near here is to become a social planning laboratory. There 35 families can experiment on the problem of combining homesteading with industry.

The project, financed with $50,000 appropriated by congress, is the first farm-factory community sponsored by the federal government in its search for permanent relief from economic depression. The plan is to help carry out President Roosevelt's desire to get seasonal workers out of big cities.

A total of 35 family units of five acres will be established. By working in a factory at favorable seasons, the economists point out, the homesteader may utilize his NRA leisure in growing his own foodstuffs, this making him in a large measure self-sufficient.

A cluster of neat farm houses, equipped with electricity and modern plumbing and heating. Some of these facilities may be furnished by community sponsored and centralized plants.

Individual plots of ground where the homesteader can raise his foodstuffs and, probably, feed for hogs and cows. A community pasture for grazing of individually owned herds.

Community Center.

A community center, with a community hall for motion pictures and, more particularly, for discussions of agricultural problems led by government experts.

A model factory, working under NRA hours, producing under an integrated plan which would prevent overproduction due to duplicative effort by any large number of farm-factory communities.

There would be constant experimentation, especially in the crops to be cultivated. The farm, home and equipment originally furnished by the government would be purchased by the individual over a period of time adapted to the incomes he receives from the factory.

Scheme Already Tried.

The Dayton area was chosen for the experiment because of the success of self-help units operated under the leadership of Miss Elizabeth Nutting, director of the Dayton council of social agencies, who also will direct the farm-factory project.

The tract of land was purchased for $8,000 of the $50,000 appropriated by congress. Only enough money to build the family home and meet initial needs will be advanced each family group.

Until the community factory plan is advanced further, the workers are to be employed at, industrial jobs here. Surpluses from the farm plots are to be exchanged for needed goods or sold, the cash to be used in repaying the government loan.

HOME OWNING PARLEY OCT. 24 IN CLEVELAND

Engineers to Fit Smaller Purses.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—How to have a home on thirty a week, or maybe even less, if the home isn't too pretentious, will be explained in detail Wednesday. Then the national conference on low cost housing convenes here.

That conclave, sponsored by the Cleveland Engineering society, will be addressed by the country's authorities in the field of house building.

Consider Social Phases.

Men versed not only in construction of homes but in present day social problems as well will make addresses during the three day meeting. Included among them is Col. Elliott H. Whitlock, Cleveland, general chairman of the conference.

Another is Henry Wright, New York City, author of a book on housing. He will talk on design of housing units. John H. Millar, Chicago, secretary of the national conference on slum clearance, will preside at a session covering materials; Lawrence Kocher, editor of an architectural publication in New York, will tell of the latest developments on framing, insulation, and decorative features applicable to low cost dwellings.

Light Expert, Too.

Electricity in the home and proper lighting effects will be the subject of Dr. M. Luckiesh, director of the lighting research laboratories of the General Electric company here. Ernest J. Bohn, Cleveland, who served as chairman of the national conference on slum clearance, held here last July, will preside at the opening session.

HOUSE BATTLE OF RELIEF BILLS OPENS TOMORROW

Battles much more lively than those which tied up the state administration's $30,000,000 winter charity program in the state senate are predicted when the house of representatives at Springfield takes up the subject tomorrow morning.

The upper chamber of the general assembly broke its deadlock last Thursday and passed by two-thirds vote the Graham bills providing for a state bond issue to be paid off by beneficiary counties and cities by means of part of their share of state gas tax funds. But these measures have been merely marking time in the house.

In addition to the Graham bills representatives have before them the group of bills presenting the original Lantz plan for limiting relief funds to the proceeds of additional taxes to be levied by counties and cities, and a third set, the modified Lantz bills, known as the Monroe bills, which were passed in the senate. Opposition to the administration relief plan is expected to concentrate behind the original Lantz plan. The struggle, it is said, may last two or three weeks.

GEORGIANS PLAN FARMER COLONY OF 100 FAMILIES

Project Calls for Use of Federal Funds.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Establishment in north Georgia of a 16,000 acre coöperative back to the farm project to support 100 families by utilizing approximately $2,500,000 of public works money, has been proposed to the federal government by the board of regents of the University of Georgia.

The project, details of which have been in the hands of Washington officials for some time, may become the model for similar farm groups in the nation. The Georgia project would be liquidated within 30 years with a maximum interest rate of three and a half per cent.

Under the 3 billion 300 million public works act $25,000,000 was set aside for subsistence homesteading. It is from this fund that the regents propose to get the money for the creation of the Georgia project in the Piedmont region of the state.

Fifty Acres Per Family.

The project centers around establishment of maintenance units of 50 acres for each family of which 30 acres would be cultivatable and the remainder would be in marginal lands and forests. The hundred families thus would take up 5,000 of the 16,000 acres, leaving 11,000 acres to be handled from a community standpoint or as cropping areas for the maintenance farms.

Each farm would have a residence, barn, hog house, poultry houses, farm machinery and animals to the value of $4,000. It is figured that the total investment would be $7,500 per family.

Responsibility for the maintenance unit would be assumed by the individual farmer. One of two plans is proposed in establishing the responsibility for the community or corporation farm. The maintenance unit would receive an equal share of stock and assume an equal responsibility for the community incorporated farm. The ownership of this stock would be definitely tied to the ownership of the maintenance unit.

Interest at 4 Per Cent.

An investment of $7,500 per family would mean that each maintenance farm owner would have a share of the stock and would have the responsibility for paying back the money at 4 per cent interest in thirty years, taking care of the principal and interest in each payment.

This would approximate $450 per year per family, or the $750,000 [the investment for the 100 families] would have to earn a net of 6 per cent annually to make the payment in thirty years. To pay the $4,000 or for the $232 that the individual farm owner would owe annually on his investment, the stock should yield a little more than 3 per cent to the individual farm owner.

It is figured that if the stock were limited to a maximum yield of 3½ per cent per annum, the individual owner should receive enough from the proceeds of the community or coöperated farm to refund his debt and keep up the interest in thirty years, leaving the remainder of the dividend to take care of the corporation debt to the government.

It is proposed that the incorporated organization have a general manager and such trained advisors and technical assistance as the enterprises of the incorporated farm demanded.

Families would be selected who have indicated their ability and willingness to work. It is anticipated that not only families with farm experience but industrious city families woud be willing to assume the responsibility of the maintenance farm and have a share in the community farm.

Enterprises of the incorporated farm would be determined for the local conditions. One of these of major importance would be a central organization for farm equipment and machinery to be used exclusively by the community farm and for preparing land handled by the maintenance unit owners with the maintenance farmers restricted to a four horse maximum.

ENDS LIFE WITH GUN IN HOME.

John Lindgreen, 36 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in his home at 3600 Maple Square avenue. The body was discovered by his mother, Mrs. Anna Lindgreen. She told Town Hall police that her son had become despondent over lack of employment.

CARNERA BEATS UZCUDUN, KEEPS BOXING CROWN

PRIMO CARNERA.

A crowd of 70,000, including Premier Mussolini and James Roosevelt, eldest son of the American President, saw the Mammoth Italian hand Paulino an unmerciful beating, win every round, and capture the decision on points by a wide margin.

Crowd Wants Knockout.

Delighted with Carnera's impressive boxing and heavy hitting through the first thirteen rounds the crowd abandoned its partisanship in the last two sessions to boo the big champion for his failure to finish his opponent.

Courage was all Paulino had. Conceding the champion tremendous physical advantages, worn by the campaigning of a decade, 34 years old and past his fistic prime, Uzcudun never had a chance against the 24 year old Carnera.

From the first few seconds of the first round when Carnera savagely rushed Paulino to the ropes and belabored him with both hands, it was apparent that the Basque was in for a beating.

Paulino's Eye Cut.

After taking the first four rounds by decisive margins, Carnera cut Paulino over the eye with a sharp left in the fifth and had the Spaniard's face slashed in the next three rounds. Paulino took it all and came back for more. He could not reach the 6 foot 6 inch giant's face and thus had to concentrate on a body attack that got him nowhere in particular.

The battering the Basque took in the first eight rounds had weakened him badly. Carnera opened up in the ninth and had Paulino groggy at the bell. Through the tenth, eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth rounds Carnera dealt his heaviest punches, battered Paulino from one side of the ring to the other, but could not floor him.

It was Carnera's first defense of the title he won by knocking out Jack Sharkey in six rounds at New York June 29. The weights, as officially announced, were: Carnera, 118 kilos [259.6 pounds]; Paulino, 96 kilos [221.2 pounds].

American Boxers Win.

After the fight was over the referee announced that Carnera had suffered a fracture of the right hand, but the Italian's handlers later denied this and said Primo's hand was badly bruised, but that there was no fracture.

Carnera plans to remain in Rome for a few days and then will go to Paris for a series of exhibitions.

Carnera's two American sparring partners, Harold Mays of Bayonne, N. J., and Arthur Huttick of New York, scored victories in the preliminaries. Mays knocked out the Argentine heavyweight, Raoul Bianchi, with one punch in the first round. Huttick won a four round decision over Armando de Carolis of Rome.

Mussolini Holds Up Bout.

The fight was postponed for two hours to enable Mussolini to receive 35,000 Florentine Fascists.

The premier was given an ovation as he entered the big stadium, accompanied by the Fascist secretary, Achille Starace, and other government officials. James Roosevelt was a guest of the American ambassador, Breckinridge Long.

Mussolini followed the preliminary bouts with keen interest. His sons, Bruno and Vittorio, compared notes with their father and with Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Ciano, head of the government press bureau. Hundreds of Italian women were there to see a boxing contest for the first time.

It was dark before the main bout principals climbed into the ring. Carnera was given a tremendous ovation, saluted Mussolini, waved to the crowd, and posed for photographs. Max Schmeling, former champion, was introduced from the ring.

Succumbs to Illness After Six Weeks.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Philip De Catesby Ball, 69, president of the St. Louis baseball team of the American league, died in a hospital here today of septicemia, after an illness of nearly six weeks.

Ball was stricken at his summer home at Battle Lake, Minn. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician for the Browns, immediately went to Minnesota and had him removed to a hospital here.

For a time it appeared he would recover, but last Tuesday he became critically ill. The end came at 6:20 a. m. today as he was surrounded by his family and friends.

Veteran of Baseball.

Ball was one of the outstanding veterans of the old school of baseball. His peremptory decisions, his brusqueness and dogged fighting qualities carried him on alternately to victory and defeat in baseball.

In the refrigeration business in which he grew up he was careful, canny and reliant on the slow returns of conservative business based on quality. But in his baseball and oil ventures he was ready to take a gambler's chance and accepted losses philosophically. His associates said he made more money in refrigeration and oil than he lost in baseball, and his baseball losses have been estimated at more than half a million dollars.

Besides his ownership of the Browns, Ball was owner since 1930 of the Milwaukee Brewers of the American association. He was president of the Monocoupe corporation, an airplane firm, director of the Federal Cold Storage company, the Consolidated Oil company, the Mississippi Valley Trust company, and the City Ice and Fuel company.

Buys in Federal League.

His first baseball venture was the purchase of an interest in the United States league, later renamed the Federal league. Through Ball, Harry Sinclair, an oil associate, and G. B. Ward, Brooklyn baker, became club owners in the league and began raiding the player ranks of the National and American leagues.

The Federal league brought an anti-trust proceeding against the two other leagues, and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, later to become commissioner of the two major leagues, had the case under advisement when it was settled by compromise. The fight cost Ball about $182,000.

Ball completed the purchase of the Browns in 1916 and engaged Branch Rickey as general manager. But they disagreed and Rickey went to the St. Louis Cardinals of the National league.

The year 1922 was the first in which the Browns showed a profit. They lost the pennant to the New York Yankees by one game. A smaller profit was made in 1923 and thereafter the club slid into the red until in 1931 the loss was estimated at $112,000.

Supporter of Ban Johnson.

Ball was a stanch supporter of the late Ban Johnson, who controlled the American league for 27 years. He opposed to the last the removal of Johnson as president in 1927. In other intra-league conflicts he took an independent position, declaring that the good of the game should outweigh money considerations.

He was born in Keokuk, Ia., Oct. 22, 1864. His father went to Sherman, Tex., and started an ice plant and Ball went to work in it at the age of 15. His next location was Shreveport, La., where he was catcher on a local team until an injury to his left hand caused him to quit playing. He lived in Paducah, Ky., and Dallas, Tex., before locating in St. Louis in 1890.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Harriet Rue Heiskell; a son, James P. Ball, and a daughter, Mrs. William R. Cady.

Ball Player's Wife All Broken Up; Gets Divorce

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Pauline Grafton, seeking a divorce from Poland Grafton, baseball player, said that two days after their wedding her husband broke her little finger; a month later he broke her nose; a few weeks later he broke it in a different place; then he broke three of her ribs. She got the divorce.

ONLY ONE QUARTER NEEDED TO BEAT PACKERS

Roger Grove of the Green Bay pro eleven tries his hand at pushing back the Bears in the second quarter, the period in which the Packers made their touchdown that threatened to beat the north siders yesterday until they got going in the last quarter and scored a 10 to 7 victory before a crowd of 21,000 at Wrigley field.

Redskins Halt Lillard, Defeat Cardinals 10-0

Boston, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Boston Redskins kept Joe Lillard, sparkplug in the Chicago Cardinals' attack, bottled as they romped to a 10 to 0 victory before 16,000 spectators today at Fenway park.

Three times during this National Professional Football league contest Lillard appeared to be driving his team toward a touchdown only to have his vital passes fall into Redskin arms, mostly those of Erny Pinckert.

The Redskins drove from midfield to register their touchdown and field goal in the second period. Jim Musick put the Boston team on Chicago's 17 yard line by completing a forward pass to Cliff Battles. Then, after an offside penalty against the Cardinals, Musick carried the ball to the seven yard line and Battles cut back through his right tackle for the touchdown. A Musick-Battles pass from the Chicago 40 yard line put the ball in position for the former's 23 yard field goal.

During the last minute's play Lillard tossed a 40 yard pass to Dave Nisbet on Boston's 40 yard line and then tried to contact him again in the end zone. The pass, however, was intercepted by Steve Hokuf, whose 65 yard runback to the Cardinals' 25 yard line was the most spectacular play of the game. Lineup:

GIANTS BEAT DODGERS.

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Inspired by Harry Newman's passing and running, the New York Giants defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 21 to 7, in a National Professional Football league game today.

The anticipated passing duel between two former Michigan quarter backs—Newman and Benny Friedman—did not develop to any great extent. New York showed a smooth running attack and Newman tried only four passes. Three were completed, one being good for a touchdown and another—for 40 yards—being largely responsible for another touchdown.

Friedman, on the other hand, was forced to pass repeatedly, the Giant forward wall stopping most of the Brooklyn running attempts. Friedman tried 29 passes. Thirteen were completed for a total of 158 yards, one being good for a touchdown. Two were intercepted and 14 incomplete.

About 35,000 persons were in the Polo grounds. Mayor John P. O'Brien saw the last quarter.

The Ravenswood Scots tied Sparta, 1 to 1, and the Wieboldt Wonderbolts defeated the Hungarians, 2 to 0, yesterday in a National Soccer league double header at Sparta stadium.

The mourners' bench this week is crowded. Ohio State, Illinois, Pittsburgh, Southern California, Tennessee, Chicago, Harvard, and Pennsylvania [to name a few] all have seats, but in the front row is that one time husky team, Notre Dame, which with the season just under way finds its record is one tie, one victory and one defeat.

Several of Saturday's losers may have had premonition that all was not as the old grads thought. Illinois hoped to beat Army and Chicago felt it had an outside chance to stop Purdue. Neither won, but this was not surprising. But Notre Dame's loss to Carnegie Tech, 7 to 0, and Ohio State's 13 to 0 licking by Michigan at Ann Arbor, certainly are worthy of that overworked phrase, crushing defeat.

Just Another Team.

Notre Dame may be dismissed by saying that after all it is just another team, which on occasion may play exceptionally fine football, but that it isn't a team with the fire and ability to win under all circumstances. Notre Dame on Saturday reverted to the shock troop system, and the shock troops permitted Carnegie to throw a touchdown pass in the first period, much as other shock troop teams have done in the past. The shock troops were in form, but the varsity, when it went into action, couldn't overcome the handicap of one touchdown. In fact, the varsity couldn't even tie the score.

The only consolation, if it is a consolation, is that Notre Dame now plays Pittsburgh, which bumped into a pack of Minnesota players who overpowered the Panthers as they previously had smashed Indiana and Purdue. Indiana and Purdue, however, were fortunate enough to equalize Minnesota's touchdowns, while on Saturday Pittsburgh could only score from the field and lost, 7 to 3.

Buckeye Hopes Were High.

General opinion never gave Ohio State better than an even chance to defeat Michigan. But that rating wasn't accepted in Columbus, which sent its greatest army of fans to swell the attendance at Ann Arbor to a record of 93,508. Ohio State, buoyed by high point totals against Virginia and Vanderbilt, expected to win. The Buckeyes based their hopes on their own power which in 1930 and 1932 had outscored Michigan from scrimmage only to fail when Harry Newman fired touchdown passes. Well, Newman was gone, and Carl Cramer.

3,000 Illinois Students Watch Hawks in Drill

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Today was railbird day at the University of Illinois skating rink, and 3,000 students accepted Manager Tommy Gorman's invitation to watch the Blackhawks hockey team go through two hours of scrimmaging.

The passing and shooting of the veteran line composed of Johnny Gottselig, Lolo Couture, and Paul Thompson and the new "kid line" consisting of Louis Truedel, Jack Leswick, and Bill Kendall were features of the practice.

Breneman has been on the Hawks' reserve list for more than a year and decided to try for a major league professional berth only last week. He is 22 years old and weighs 160 pounds. Two of his teammates of last season, Donald Heath and Geoffrey Deselets, are with the Montreal Canadiens.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"History repeats itself or the Merriwell boys do it again" might be the caption for the Chicago Bears' victory yesterday afternoon at Wrigley field over their arch rivals, the Green Bay Packers. The score was Bears, 10; Packers, 7, and the victory was achieved in the last four minutes, the same scenario the Chicago eleven has followed all season.

Twenty-one thousand watched the battle. They saw the Bears outplayed for three quarters, saw them apparently hopelessly beaten, 7 to 0. And then, without warning, as if they wished to duplicate their last minute victory at Greey Bay earlier this fall, the Bears unleashed a passing attack which tied the score, and followed with a smashing drive which placed the ball in position for Jack Manders to kick the winning field goal.

Victory in Ten Plays.

To say it was dramatic is to understate the finish of the battle which had the thousands cheering wildly as the Bears crashed to victory. In ten plays the Bears assembled their shattered offensive, suddenly raised it to its highest potentiality, and sent the Packers home in confusion, practically eliminated from the championship race, which, until last year, they had dominated as the best of all professional teams.

Psychology may have helped in the rout. For the Packers, who had scored in the second period and carefully nurtured that advantage, collapsed once the score was tied. They must have remembered the first game of the series when, with three minutes to play, a pass similar to that used yesterday tied the score and Bill Hewitt blocked a kick for the winning touchdown.

Hewitt Star of Stars.

Bill Hewitt! There's a football player! Bill wasn't in at the kill, for he'd gone to the bench just before the rally, almost unable to stand from exhaustion. But Hewitt must have inspired his mates. He was the greatest star in a galaxy of stars who played for both teams. From the first minute to the last Hewitt performed faultlessly at left end.

The Bears were on the defensive most of the time, but Hewitt was more than half of that defense. No one could pass his end of the scrimmage line. He rushed the kickers and passers, covered punts, and tackled unerringly. And when he left the gridiron, tears streaming down his face in exasperation that his body no longer could pace his will, the throng accorded him a tumultuous round of applause.

Molesworth Sets the Stage.

Keith Molesworth set the stage for the Bears' touchdown drive when he returned one of Clark Hinkle's long kicks 31 yards to the Bears' 41 yard line. It may have been that Molesworth was thinking of Arnie Herber's pass to John Blood, which had sailed over his head in the second period for the Packers' touchdown. At any rate, Molesworth started the procession which wiped out the sting of that misplay.

Bull Doehring, a chunky left handed forward passer, a product of the Milwaukee sandlots, was substituted immediately for John Sisk at right half back. Doehring had served a bit earlier in the game without success. Twice Doehring fired passes, almost aimless it seemed, for the Packers covered all receivers.

Once again he took the ball from center and backed up to throw. He ran slowly to his left and toward the west sideline, ducking this way and that to avoid pursuers. Near the sideline he threw and the ball, accurately timed, dropped over the head of a defensive back into Molesworth's hands. Keith darted in angles until he was crushed to earth on the Packers' 24 yard line for a gain of 38 yards.

Pass to Johnsos in End Zone.

The Packers took time out, but the thought of the Bears' fourth period rallies, which now have won four of their five professional league games, had entered their minds. On the first play of the new series Molesworth faked the ball to Nagurski for a plunge and then threw laterally to

SaddleHorseAgainProves She's Worth $27,000.

The three year old reign of Roxie Highland, $27,500 saddle horse owned by Miss Mary Gwyn Fiers of Oklahoma City, Okla., remained unchallenged last night when the 9 year old chestnut mare won the three gaited event at the World's Fair horse show in the 124th Field Artillery.

New Owner Changes Name.

The undefeated American champion is by the famous sire, Lord Highland, out of Nannie McDonald. She was bred in Mexico, Mo., by the Hamilton brothers, and did her early showing in California. Later she was purchased by Herbert Wolff, Kansas City, Mo., department store magnate, and competed under the name of Belle Delight. Three years ago Miss Fiers purchased her for $27,500 and changed her name back to Roxie Highland.

Since her defeat by Dark Rex, which was the only time she had failed to win a blue ribbon for Miss Fiers, she has met and conquered the outstanding three gaited horses of America.

Roxie Highland's victory was the second by Miss Fiers' entries in yesterday's two sessions, in which women owners scored heavily. Horses entered by Miss Frances Dodge of Rochester, Mich., took three blue ribbons, two in the afternoon and one at night, and Mrs. Daniel A. Orth of Wheaton, Ill., was victorious with her Golden Sunset in the lightweight hunters class.

Miss Fiers Rides Roxie.

Miss Fiers' other victory came in the five gaited saddle horse class in which her Patty Low Dare defeated Lion Heart, 8 year old bay gelding, entered by the T. K. Simmons Farms of Bixby, Okla. Miss Fiers rode Roxie Highland in the three gaited event.

Urge Use of 20 Gauge Gun for Snipes

BY BOB BECKER.

There is nothing like a 20 gauge gun for jacksnipe. Another autumn day in the marshes with a 20 gauge double gun has given us further proof that the upland game hunter who must wallow around in the muck and the marsh vegetation is doing himself a favor if he sticks to a lightweight shooting weapon. Walking in mud is no time to load yourself down with a clumsy, heavy double barrel or repeating gun.

We tested a new double barrel 20 gauge on snipe a few days ago. This is a gun with 28 inch barrels, selective single trigger, one barrel bored improved cylinder and the other improved modified. Jay Graham, the well known trap shot of Long Lake, Ill., who joined us for an afternoon hunt, also was using a 20. Our ammunition consisted of long 20 gauge shells loaded with number 7½ shot, a type of load which we had used heretofore.

Birds Are Plentiful.

Driving to the little settlement of Johnsburg on the upper Fox river we met Stubby Smith, an old resident of the town. Then we headed for a couple of small creeks and a large slough within easy driving distance. There was no trouble in finding birds.

With the jacks hugging the wet, marshy borders of the creeks it was easy to jump them and also easy to retrieve them because they fell on open, grassy pasture lands. One of us took the right bank of the stream and the other gun watched the left bank. In typical jacksnipe fashion the birds zigzagged and darted away from the stream with lightning speed and gave us plenty of opportunities to see how easily the lightweight twenties could be swung on flying birds.

It was evident by the time the sixth bird was in the bag that the 20 gauge could be swung without effort as fast as a bird could do a sideslip or a power dive. Without any conscious pull the gun followed through. Moreover, it was evident that the long shells with number 7½ shot produced exceptionally good patterns, because at fairly long ranges the jacks were entirely covered with a heavy sprinkling of shot.

Cows Delay Shooting.

At times we were shooting with cows very close, a situation that called for "delayed timing." Once a jack jumped ahead of us. We covered the bird, but he swung past about five cows, so we couldn't shoot. It was a case of following through until the jack was in the clear and then shooting to get the bird. On one small creek Graham was surprised to see a green wing teal hurtle into the air ahead of him. These little puddlers are fond of mucking around in such places. Graham dropped him with a long, quick shot over the meadow.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Georgs Hay will return to the Detroit Olympics, International league hockey team, this season as playing manager, assisted by Carson Cooper, it was announced today. Hay, who was playing manager on the Olympics during the early portion of the 1933 season, later was transferred to the Detroit Redwings.

Best Dogs Named as World's Fair Dog Show Ends

Nineteen dogs were picked last night as the best of their breed from a total of 1,500 entries representing the greatest collection of pedigreed canines ever assembled in Chicago as the World's Fair dog show closed at the First Regiment armory.

Eastern dogs, the invaders from leading kennels of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania took the majority of first places as best of breeds during the two day contest. Ohio dogs, competing from Columbus, Cleveland, and Youngstown, took four firsts in the various classes.

From among the largest number of cocker spaniels ever gathered in Chicago, totaling more than 100 bloods, the judge, Mrs. Arthur M. Vogel of West Long Branch, N. J., picked Champion Windsweep Ladysman, owned by Miss Alice A. Dodsworth, of Sharon, Conn., as the finest specimen of the species at the show.

Yang Fu Tang, owned by Mrs. Louise C. Seamer of St. Paul, Minn., was selected as the best chow chow on display.

In the standard schnauzer show the best of breed was Zapf V. Egelsee, owned by G. Harrison Frazier Jr. of Philadelphia. Champion Porgie of Marienhof, entered by the Marienhof kennels, Rock Island, Ill., took the blue ribbon as the best dog of his kind in the final judging of the miniature schnauzers.

Banteer Banjo, owned by Miss Nora F. Keller, Roslindale, Mass., took the best of breed prize for Irish terriers from dogs representing many leading kennels of the east and west.

The best male doberman pinscher, Dash von Bardo, owned by Joseph A. Stoffel of Detroit, Mich., was picked by Herr Fritz Mueller, president of the Dobermann Pinscher Club of Europe, who came to judge this breed.

Among the other dogs selected as champions were wire and smooth fox terriers, English bulls, and Boston terriers as follows:

BOSTON TERRIERS—Tunney Pew Wee, owned by Gus Strauss, 232 Bernice avenue, Chicago.

Team Faces Five Straight Conference Games.

It was hinted that the Wolverine squad will take only a light workout tomorrow or that a holiday might be declared. Players therefore were looking for a day of relief from the grind to which they have been subjected.

Only a few of the Michigan players suffered anything more than slight bruises in yesterday's game and it was expected the entire squad will be ready for the next practice session. Jack Heston, hit on the head and in a daze just before he was taken out during the third quarter, was said to be in good shape.

Coaches face the problem of conserving the team's strength to turn back its next five conference opponents, starting with Chicago next Saturday

ILLINI RETURN HOME.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—The Illinois football squad returned from Cleveland today in good physical condition for the most part, and after an appropriate rest, which will include tomorrow at least, will begin preparations for the Michigan game on Nov. 4. The Illini have no game this week, which will permit the squad to rest thoroughly.

While giving due credit to Army, it is felt that the Illini can play better football than they did yesterday. To strengthen the line play and improve the rushing attack to keep pace with the forward passing, which was so exceptional at Cleveland, is Coach Zuppke's job as he sees it. The passing record was the best for an Illinois team since the Ohio State game at Columbus in 1929.

Players reported that John Snook did not fumble on Illinois' last threatening march, but that the miss-play was due to a mixup on the signals for which the full back was not to blame.

N. U. POINTS FOR OHIO STATE.

Saturday's impressive victory over Indiana is indication that the Wildcats are a power to be reckoned with during the remainder of the conference race. The Wildcats themselves figure that they are now in a position to give the strong Buckeye eleven a real battle Saturday.

Most pleasing to Coach Dick Hanley was the coördinated blocking which the team turned in against the Hoosiers. The well executed blocks down field paved the way for the touchdown runs of Leeper and Augustson. The manner in which Manske and Jens rushed Indiana's kicks paved the way for two scoring opportunities. On both of these occasions Jones' kicks were blocked.

The running of Leeper, Cruice, Augustson, and Sullivan also stood out in Northwestern's victory as did the line plunging of Duvall and Olson. The fact that both of these backs can be counted on to gain ground via the plunging route has added versatility to the Wildcats' attack.

MAROONS BACK TO EARTH.

Chicago's defeat by Purdue reduced the football atmosphere around the Midway yesterday from a rather giddy anticipation to comparative normalcy, and the prospect of Michigan's appearance at Stagg field Saturday is not conducive to any immediate resumption of optimism. However, it is agreed that the Maroons appeared better than they have in recent years, which is something.

Coach Shaughnessy, though disappointed, praised his team's effort. Lapses due to inexperience and nervousness on the part of the Maroon sophomores accounted for several of the long runs by the Boilermaker backs and for Chicago's failure to make much ground.

Michigan has not appeared at Stagg field for several years. Though the two schools have a home and home agreement the game of two years ago was transferred to Ann Arbor because of the competition of the Notre Dame-Northwestern game at Soldiers' field the same Saturday.

THAT IRISH PREDICTION.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Coach Hunk Anderson's jocular prediction of last summer that Notre Dame would win three, lose three, and tie three games this fall is coming true.

The Irish tied Kansas in their opener, beat Indiana, and lost yesterday to Carnegie Tech. Anderson, as he faced the rest of his schedule—Pittsburgh, Navy, Purdue, Northwestern, Southern California, and Army—said today he can't see where the three ties are coming from.

Pitt, the next opponent on the Notre Dame card, won easily from Washington and Jefferson, West Virginia and Navy, but dropped a 7 to 3 decision to Minnesota yesterday, probably because of overconfidence and inability to keep its mind on the business at hand.

Anderson predicted today that Pitt will beat Notre Dame, probably by the same two touchdown margin which separated the two teams last year. "Our running attack has given me no reason to believe that we can score against Pitt," he said.

Ottawa Senators Buy Leduc from Canadiens

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators of the National Hockey league have purchased Albert [Battleship] Leduc, sturdy defense player, from the Montreal Canadiens, Frank Ahearn, owner of the Senators, announced today. The purchase price was not announced, but Ahearn said it was a cash transaction, and the deal included a provision that the Canadiens may buy Leduc back for the same price next year if they so desire.

Defeats Jar Hopes of Ohio, Notre Dame

That Ohio State lost, 13 to 0, was not as surprising as the yardage Michigan piled up from scrimmage, and the impotence of Ohio State's vaunted line. Michigan made nine first downs to Ohio's three, and piled up 174 yards to a net total of 30 for the Buckeyes.

The winner had been conceded a great chance for the western conference title, but the Wolverines have a long march ahead. Chicago, then Illinois, which has the best passing attack we have seen this year; Iowa, still undefeated; Minnesota, always difficult for the Wolverines, and finally Northwestern, which found itself against Indiana Saturday, bar Michigan's path to its fourth consecutive championship.

Crowds Show Upturn.

Had the weather in Chicago been as propitious as at Iowa City and Ann Arbor, the conference probably would have established an attendance record. As it was, the turnout to see four Big Ten games approached the halcyon days of ante depression.

Iowa set an all time attendance record of 39,000 while trimming the Badgers of Wisconsin, 26 to 7, and now the Hawkeyes, amazing as it may seem, lead the conference race with two victories. The Hawks also demonstrated that it's less wearing to shoot for long gains than to plug the length of the field in short dashes. Wisconsin scored by the latter process, but Iowa's brilliance in blocking, passing and open field play accounted for four touchdowns.

Iowa now plays Minnesota. Iowa's hope is that the Gophers will continue on a one touchdown a game basis, despite their ground gaining abilities, and thus may be outscored by Joe Laws and Dick Crayne. If Iowa whips Minnesota some one may mention Ossie Solem as a coaching genius. And, after all, Coach Solem probably should be given credit for a lot of the things that his pupils have accomplished.

Illinois also remains as an important factor in the conference race. The Illini lost to Army in the Cleveland stadium Saturday, 6 to 0, and while outplayed in the line, yielded only after a second half fight which saw the remarkable record of 12 completed passes in 16 attempts. Eleven of these were consecutive. One failure in the first half made the day's record 12 out of 17. Twice Illinois was checked at Army's 20 yard line by fumbles. The Cadets also lost the ball on Illinois' 11 yard line in the fourth period by fumbling.

With two weeks' rest, Illinois must be given a chance to defeat Michigan at Champaign. You may be certain that the Illini will watch Michigan against Chicago this week and profit from the observation.

Purdue Has Hopes.

Purdue, while tied, also has hope of finishing on top. The Boilermakers defeated Chicago Saturday, 14 to 0. They reason that Minnesota will defeat Iowa, Michigan will defeat Illinois, and some one will upset Michigan. For that matter, Purdue must take care of the Iowa situation if these hopes materialize. The Boilermakers have Wisconsin, Iowa, and Indiana to play, not forgetting Carnegie Tech, Nov. 4, and Notre Dame, Nov. 11.

The storm which swept Northwestern's campus three weeks ago when Iowa defeated the Wildcats, 7 to 0, has abated. The tie with Stanford helped, but the 25 to 0 victory over Indiana's offenseless eleven was balm, indeed. Now that Northwestern has found the location of the goal line there's hope that it can whip Ohio State Saturday and then continue successfully against later opponents, Minnesota, Illinois, and Michigan.

Princeton Coming Up.

Iowa's renaissance has its counterpart in the east, where Princeton, as anticipated, swept over Columbia Saturday, 20 to 0. The one time eastern big shots are having their troubles. Cornell, already humiliated by Michigan, lost its first game in history to Syracuse, 14 to 7. Harvard lost to Holy Cross, 10 to 7, but this has happened before. Dartmouth, although outplayed, came from behind to whip Pennsylvania, 14 to 7. Yale hurdled Brown, 14 to 6, and now faces Army's improving team this week.

No less loud are the moans from the Pacific coast. Southern California's string of consecutive victories was ended by Oregon State. Neither team scored. Washington State played California to a 6 all deadlock.

Alabama whipped Tennessee, 12 to 6, to erase a last period 7 to 3 whipping in 1932. It was Tennessee's first defeat at home in eight years, although Duke last week ended Tennessee's victory march. Bucky Bryan of Tulane had the longest run in any game Saturday, returning the second half kickoff 101 yards to defeat Georgia Tech, 7 to 0. Alabama Poly, last year's co-champion in the Southern conference, lost again. George Washington was the intersectional winner, 19 to 6.

U. S. Basket Champions in Games Tonight

Two national championship basketball teams—the Diamond Oilers of Tulsa, Okla., and the Durant Cardinals of Durant, Okla.—will appear at the 132d armory, Rockwell and Madison streets, tonight in the first of a two game series against Chicago quintets. The contests were arranged by A Century of Progress sports committee as basketball's contribution to the World's Fair. The second gan a will be played Wednesday night on the same court.

The Oilers, led by Chuck Hyatt, one of the greatest forwards in the basketball history of the University of Pittsburgh, will oppose a team of former Northwestern players who starred in the Big Ten conference during the last few seasons. The Oilers were undefeated last year in 29 games, winning the National A. A. U. and the Missouri Valley A. A. U. championships.

Johnson at Forward.

Dutch Lonborg of Northwestern, who named the squad to face the Oilers and has coached the players for the last week at Patten gymnasium, will present Elmer Johnson, Bus Smith, Saul Farber, Bob Gruenig and Frank Marshall in the starting line-up. Johnson started as center on the Purple team which tied for the Western conference title last season, but will play forward tonight. Gruenig will play center.

The Cardinals, who will meet the Spencer Coals, boast the greatest record ever achieved by a girls' squad. They have held the national A. A. U. women's championship for the last two years and were undefeated in 71 games.

Coals Drill for Five Weeks.

Bears' Rally in Last Period Beats Packers

The Bears still lacked a point of tying. While the crowd stood silent Jack Manders and Carl Brumbaugh trotted on the field, substituting for Nagurski and Molesworth. Calmly they prepared for the placement for the point. Back came the ball from the hands of Ookie Miller to Brumbaugh, who set it for Manders' kick. And as the ball arched over the crossbar the outburst of cheering signaled its success.

Two Minutes Remain.

Less than two minutes remained to play. But the Bears had not finished. The Packers received the kickoff and returned to their 22 yard line. For the first time the Chicagoans completely smothered the plays from scrimmage. Hinkle's kick, partly blocked, was downed on the Bears' 43 yard line.

Green Bay expected another flurry of passes, but Manders slashed through inside of the Bays' left tackle and raced to the Packers' 30 yard line. Brumbaugh plunged for five yards and two more plays advanced the ball to the Bays' 21 yard line. It was fourth down and a yard to go. Seconds remained and Brumbaugh chose to stake all on a try for a field goal. Once more the Miller-Brumbaugh-Manders combination functioned and the placement from the 30 yard line sailed over the left upright for the deciding points.

Again Green Bay received but time expired before a play could be started from scrimmage.

Packers Score on Pass.

The final rushes of the Bears obscured the Packers' touchdown pass. Hinkle's kicking, which sent the Bears back to their own territory shortly after the opening kickoff and kept them there, finally resulted in the Bays receiving the ball on the Bears' 38 yard line.

Two plays lost 5 yards. Then Herber faded back and Blood, from his right wing back position, raced down the center of the Bears' defense. He outran Gene Ronzani. Grange went to his own left to cover Milt Gantenbein, the Bays' right end. Then Herber threw and Blood leaped high over the goal line to pull in the pass for the touchdown. Molesworth, even if he had dropped back, could not have intercepted the high pass. Bob Monnett place kicked the seventh point.

Green Bay Makes Threat.

Twice before this the Packers had threatened. Their drive along the ground was checked on the Bears' 14 yard line on one occasion and on the second, Grange intercepted a third down forward pass inside the 10 yard strip.

But fate dealt its hardest blow in the third period. The Packers rushed through a demoralized Bear line and tossed short passes to the flanks until they reached the Chicago four yard line. Hinkle smashed off his right tackle for 3 yards, but on the next play he fumbled and Grange recovered the ball within inches of the goal line.

Although bitterly fought, the game was cleanly played. Penalties for clipping comprised almost all the infractions except that the Packers violated forward passing rules by throwing two forwards on the same down on two occasions.

Hubbard A Stone Wall.

Cal Hubbard was the bulwark of the Packer line defense. Time and again he hurled his 265 pounds at the Bears' ball carriers as they penetrated the scrimmage line. Monnett's return of kicks also scintillated.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW About FOOTBALL STARS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

WHAT do football stars work at in the summer months? There have been icemen, there have been road workers, and there have been miners, but Bernard McNutt, captain of the 1933 Michigan State college team, turns up with the most peculiar off season occupation of all. It is needless to extend the customary three guesses, for unless you knew Bernie you probably couldn't hit upon his job in three thousand guesses.

He is a pearl diver. And what's more, he has not had to go to the tropics to ply the trade. He does it in the Kalamazoo river near his home town of Allegan, Mich. Incidentally, he worked the river this year within a stone's throw of the nudist camp near Allegan which caused such a to do in the papers.

The pearl for which McNutt ducks, however, is not the same variety which runs into thousands of dollars when it comes to the market. It's just clamshell, but a good diver in Bernie's league can get between $35 and $40 a day under the right conditions. When McNutt isn't pearl diving or ball carrying, he is a crack rifle shot and an expert on small arms.

Notre Dame Boys Marry, Join Spartans.

Michigan State is one of the schools which has profited by Notre Dame's rule against football benedicks. Frank Butler, varsity center, and Bob Teraak, guard, both were enrolled and members of the team at South Bend before they succumbed to matrimony and were forced to leave, both turning up at East Lansing to become stars.

Butler and Ed Klewicki, Spartan end, escaped the accident jinx which proved nearly fatal to two successive football captains at State. Butler was one of six men to survive when a cofferdam collapsed on a southern construction job summer before last. He was pinned under wreckage 24 feet below the surface, but wiggled out unscathed.

Klewicki was struck in the head by a steam shovel during the summer of 1932 while employed on a building project in Detroit. As he was leaving the hospital his auto joined in a traffic crash in which he lost part of his scalp and reopened the steam shovel wound. He was late in reporting for practice last fall, but recovered soon enough to win his letter.

One Spartan Plays with Tears in His Eyes.

Teriaak, the player-husband, stands out on the State eleven as the classroom genius of a squad of 50 players. A Cleveland boy of Dutch descent, Bob ranks as high with his profs as with his coaches.

Another remarkable member of the Spartan line is Art Buss, 210 pound tackle, one of those football players who don't have to be urged to key up for a game. His fellow linesmen will tell you that he is a package of nerves, very often playing through the greater part of a game with tears streaming down his face.

NASHVILLE BALL PLAYERS BATTLE WITH MEXICANS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Members of the Nashville All-Stars and the Aztecas baseball teams engaged in a brief free for all fight in the ninth inning of a game won by the Mexicans, 2 to 0, today.

Lance Richbourg of the visitors protested when Umpire Hernandez called Joe Hutcheson out at home and the arbiter swung a punch to the American's jaw. Tex Carleton, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, rushed in and punched Hernandez in return and a half dozen fights broke out all over the diamond. The crowd of 10,000 hissed the umpire's decision and made no attempt to join in the fray. Fifty policemen separated the players and the game continued.

'Auld Lang Syne' Played as He Boards Train.

The strains of "Auld Lang Syne," played by the 6th Field Artillery band of Fort Sheridan, sounded through the vast waiting rooms of the union station yesterday as Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, retiring commander of the 6th Corps area, and his 22 year old daughter, Anne, bade Chicago farewell as they boarded the Manhattan limited of the Pennsylvania railroad for Washington, D. C.

Gen. Parker will remain in the east for several days, making final arrangements to take up his new duties as commander of the department of the Philippines. He will be joined by Mrs. Parker in New York, from where they will sail on Nov. 1 for San Francisco on the army transport Chateau Thierry. They will go by way of the Panama canal.

Before Gen. Parker's departure a series of social functions by civic, military, and patriotic organizations had been given in his honor. The entire headquarters staff of the 6th Corps area in full dress uniforms was present at the station to give its chief a military farewell.

General Reviews Troops.

Standing at the Canal street entrance of the union station, his staff about him, Gen. Parker saluted his honor guard, composed of troops from Camp Whistler at A Century of Progress, under the command of Col. Otto L. Brünzell. A battalion of the 6th Infantry and Troop A of the 14th Cavalry, their polished brass ornaments and steel helmets glittering in the morning sun, then passed in final review.

The general and his daughter were escorted to the train by Brig. Gen. Frank Bolles, commandant of Fort Sheridan, and Col. James M. Graham, chief of staff.

"I am overwhelmed with this sincere expression on your part, and my associations and friends here will be dearly cherished," were Gen. Parker's parting words.

Strong Defense Advocate.

Gen. Parker, who is a native of South Carolina, was known to Chicagoans when he arrived here four years ago only by his outstanding war record. He has always been an exponent of strong national defense and has taken an active part in community affairs as well as his army work.

During his service here, Gen. Parker fostered the activities of the Army Relief society, organized to aid widows and children of officers and enlisted men. He personally directed the army shows held in Soldiers' field in the last two years and the army displays at the World's Fair as well. Gen. and Mrs. Parker are also credited with having revived the old time social life at Fort Sheridan.

Brig. Gen. Bolles will assume, temporarily, the command of the 6th Corps area. He will be relieved by the new corps area commander, Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, on Nov. 24.

BARNEY FELDMAN FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery. Mr. Feldman, who was 51 years old, died Saturday evening of heart disease as he was leaving his home at 1135 Farwell avenue. He was a Mason, a member of the Covenant club, and a director of Mizpah temple. His widow, Beatrice, and three children survive.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She Can Still Laugh

Implement Used Twice 13 Centuries Apart.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A new chapter in American history, first evidence that humans lived on the Atlantic coast as far back as the time of Christ, has been written by a 2,000 year old stone ax dug up in Albermarle county, Va.

The primitive ax is unique in that it was chipped out of black diabase rock by some savage American 20 centuries ago and then was found and resharpened by a later owner about 1,300 years later. Besides setting a probable long time usefulness record for an ax, it shows, say the Smithsonian institution, that former ideas of when the first humans reached the eastern United States were mistaken.

Until now all evidence had indicated that the earliest inhabitants of the Atlantic seaboard arrived only about 200 years before Columbus, though from the opposite direction.

Populated from Asia.

The American continents were populated from Asia, soon after the last ice age, by tribes crossing Bering Strait, most scientists had held. The new arrivals filtered slowly through the west, but did not reach the Atlantic shore very far ahead of the whites.

But now the resharpened ax, discovered by David I. Bushnell Jr., has turned up to indicate that the aborigines traveled east about 1,300 years earlier than had been believed. They were already hunting in the eastern forests when Nero ruled Rome and Pompeii was destroyed by the lava of Vesuvius.

The age of 2,000 years or so was assigned to the ax because, though it was lustrous black when first chipped from the diabase rock, the weather of many centuries had worn its surface deeply and turned it lightish brown.

Rechipped by New Owner.

Then it was found and resharpened or rechipped by a new owner and this again exposed the original black rock. This part exposed by the second chipping has been only slightly worn.

The second chipping, about 1300 A. D., is believed to have been done by some Indian of the Siouan race, which lived in Virginia when the first whites landed and had been believed the first humans in that region. But the long period of weathering between the first and second sharpening of the ax shows the area was inhabited long before the Siouans, perhaps by a race that vanished before they came.

"Considering conditions known to have prevailed on other parts of the continent 1,500 to 2,000 years ago," Says Mr. Bushnell, "it is within reason to believe that nomadic bands, even before that time, had penetrated into the wilderness east of the mountains."

CATHOLIC GROUP STUDIES PROBLEM OF FOREST ARMY

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

About 100 representatives of more than 3,000,000 members of various Catholic men's organizations throughout the country met last night at the Congress hotel in the opening session of the 13th annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Men.

Spiritual care of the 300,000 men in the reforestation camps of the country was described by the Very Rev. John J. Burke, general secretary of the Catholic welfare conference, as the problem of first importance before the convention. He pointed to the fact that more than 100,000 members of the camps are Catholics. The Most Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, referred to this problem in his address and urged increased activity among the laymen of the church. Bishop Schrembs is the episcopal chairman of lay activities in the welfare conference.

Father Burke referred to the report of the council activities concerning the spiritual leadership problem arising in the new conservation camps. This report says the council has been keeping in touch with the various federal bureaus to learn facts pertinent to Catholic interests.

"We have discovered that 100,000 Catholics are scattered through the 1,340 camps of the country," the report states. "This places a most onerous burden on many bishops, especially since the camps are frequently more numerous in the poorer missionary dioceses. Other problems have arisen from the fact that the boundaries of the camp areas are not coincident with diocesan boundaries. We are cooperating in every way to overcome these difficulties."

Will Discuss Forest Work.

The sessions of the council will continue through Wednesday. This morning, James J. McEntree of Washington, assistant director of emergency conservation work, will speak on President Roosevelt's reforestation program. Other sessions during the day will include discussion of Catholic adult education by Dr. Jerome Kerwin of the University of Chicago, and the Catholic hour dinner tonight.

The Catholic hour dinner is regarded as the highlight of the conference because it emphasizes what the members regard as the chief activity of the council in maintaining the Catholic hour each Sunday afternoon on a national radio network. Principal addresses at the dinner will be made by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of the Chicago diocese and the Rev. Dr. Fulton J. Sheen of the Catholic University of America and a leading Catholic hour speaker.

COLDS GO THRU 3 STAGES!

—and They Are Twice as Easy Stopped in the First as in the Second or Third Stages!

A cold passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Once it gets beyond the Dry Stage it is far more difficult to relieve. A cold, therefore, should be treated promptly.

The wise thing to take is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine—for several reasons. Instead of a "cure-all," it is expressly a cold remedy. It is also an internal treatment which a cold, an internal infection, requires. And it is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary.

First, it opens the bowels. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. Anything less than that is not complete treatment.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine.

Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Good druggists won't offer a substitute for the sake of an extra profit. Don't wait or delay when you have caught cold, but go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet.

UNCLE SAM MAY BOOST LOANS TO CLOSED BANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—The billion dollars which the Reconstruction Finance corporation is trying at President Roosevelt's command to push out to depositors in closed banks may be merely the first in a series of huge government loans for the benefit of these depositors, it was learned today.

Dean G. Acheson, undersecretary of the treasury and a member of the board in charge of the present billion dollar liquidation program, disclosed that other billions of public money may be loaned to closed banks for the benefit of their depositors, especially if recovery is sustained.

Similar indications were contained in a letter dispatched yesterday to district managers of the liquidation movement by C. B. Merriam, the R. F. C. director in charge of the program.

"If the condition of a closed bank's assets will justify it," Mr. Merriam wrote, "more than one distribution will be made as and when assets improve in value."

Expects More Pressure.

Admitting that there may be successive waves of pressure aimed to force the government into full repayment of deposits in closed banks, Undersecretary Acheson said he saw no objection to a new series of government grants if a general recovery enhances the assets of banks sufficiently to provide a wider basis for loans.

Acheson and officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation hastened to add, however, that depositors in closed banks need never expect a 100 per cent return. Assets and capital in most of the failed institutions have been too far impaired to prevent any such outcome, they said. Closed national banks have paid out an average of 87 cents on the dollar, records kept by the controller of the currency show, and this record is considered exceptional.

In other circles, it was pointed out that political pressure is being exerted to get government loans immediately to satisfy the full claims of depositors. This movement is taking the form of asking the government to make repeated relaxations in its lending rules, as is being done in the present drive, so that eventually a high percentage of the deposits may be paid off quickly with government money.

Set Up Local Committees.

In his letter of instruction to regional managers, released today, Mr. Merriam advises them to appoint local appraisal committees throughout their areas. These groups would become the court of first appeal in the program on lending a billion dollars to closed banks, he said.

"It is contemplated," he wrote to his regional chairmen, "that the district chairman will appoint local appraisal committees composed of experienced bankers, business men, and farmers throughout their districts, to be located where they can most efficiently and expeditiously contact the closed banks in their respective communities. The committees will be fully qualified to intelligently and constructively appraise local securities in closed banks, having in mind the conditions prevailing in the community and the formula of a sound and fair valuation of assets based on an orderly liquidation over a period of years.

"These local committees will receive from their district chairman for initial attention the latest appraisals by the receiver, liquidator, national examiners, state examiners, or the Reconstruction Finance corporation examiners, as may pertain to the cases before them. In those cases where the appraisal reports of the supervisory authority or receiver are not sufficiently current, or, in your opinion, do not reflect a fair valuation based on an orderly liquidation over a period of years, you will necessarily have a new appraisal made of the assets.

Wants Prompt Action.

"It is earnestly desired that you do what you can to impress upon the state superintendent or commissioner of banks the importance of having their representatives, receiver, and liquidators in closed banks apply to your local committees for loans in order that there may be made available to depositors promptly the maximum amount of their deposits that may be released to them on a fair valuation of assets based on an orderly liquidation over a period of years. Through the controller's office in Washington, we shall be able to place the receivers of closed national banks in contact with you."

Mr. Merriam stressed the President's desire to have money put in the hands of depositors as rapidly as possible. He even urged that where the local committee cannot at once make a final recommendation for a loan, it, nevertheless, arrange for a "moderate" loan immediately.

SCHOOL SAVINGS OF PUPILS DROP FOR THIRD YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—Deposits in school savings by pupils enrolled in the schools of the United States declined for the third successive year in the school year closed June 30 last, according to the annual report of W. Espey Albig, deputy manager of the Americacn Bankers' association, in charge of its savings division.

Gross deposits in the last year amounted to $10,332,569, a decrease of $7,347,795 from the preceding year. This compared with the high mark of $29,113,083 three years ago. The shrinkage of $18,800,000 in the last three years has carried the level of school savings deposits back to where they were ten years ago.

Steel Plants Rely on U. S. for Business

With the automotive market for steel temporarily closed, with railroad buying at its lowest point in the year, and with steel works operations reduced 6 points to 34 per cent, "the industry is looking more to government support for a rally," says the magazine Steel.

"Rail mills are understood to be submitting a price of $38, a concession of $2 a ton, for the 844,000 tons which Coördinator Eastman has assembled for distribution," reports the magazine. "The Norfolk and Western, on whose inquiry for 10,000 tons of rails producers bid $40 a ton, is understood to be awaiting the government's action."

The review notes a more rapid maturity of public works projects, another source of demand "which may apply the brakes to diminishing steel production."

Government Loans Expedited.

The magazine declares that "government loans for public projects are being expedited, and although delays are being encountered between the time that states and municipalities award contracts and when approval is given at Washington, heavy steel tonnages are accumulating for placing with the mills shortly."

Structural shape awards for the week were only 6,332 tons. Bookings for last month were 30 per cent below those for August, according to the American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc.

The review notes that a governmental airport development at Middletown, Pa., will require substantial tonnage, and that about 6,000 tons of steel is being provided for coast guard vessels.

Chicago Project Requires Pipe.

"An $8,000,000 federal loan for sanitation work at Chicago releases a large tonnage of pipe, producers agreeing to furnish the material at prices they bid several months ago, with additional compensation to be determined later," reports Steel.

By major districts, steel works operations declined 13 points to 33 per cent at Cleveland, 13 to 52 in New England, 6 to 51 in the Youngstown area, 5 to 35 at Pittsburgh, 5 to 24 at Buffalo, 4 to 45 at Chicago, and 3 to 23½ in eastern Pennsylvania. On the other hand, operations in the Wheeling district improved 2 points to 47 per cent, and Detroit stayed at 55 per cent and Birmingham at 30.

Since many consumers covered their requirements for the fourth quarter at the lower quotations prevailing last month, and since new business is negligible, the industry has not yet profited materially from the higher prices in effect now, according to Steel.

Prices Show Upward Trend.

The trend of the market is still upward, however. Sheet piling has risen $2 a ton. Under the new basing system, warehouse prices are $3 to $10 higher. Tin plate makers are contemplating new schedules. Conversely, scrap quotations have eased. Since heavy breakable cast scrap is available in the Pittsburgh market at $11.50, compared with $18 for pig iron, the demand for the latter has reacted.

The magazine declares that "further revisions of the steel code are being considered as the close of the 90 day trial period, Nov. 19, approaches; many more supplementary regulations are being prepared."

Steel's iron and steel composite is unchanged at $31.59, and the finished steel composite at $49.20; the scrap composite has fallen 17 cents to $10.29.

GRAIN PRICES SHIFT WILDLY IN LAST WEEK

Government Exerts Big Influence.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The more the trade studies the grain situation the more certain it becomes that governmental domination is the main factor in causing extremely erratic fluctuations, not only here but also in all other countries.

Prior to the world war supply and demand determined the trend of the markets, but at present the trend is influenced to a large extent by efforts to demonstrate the efficiency of classroom theories.

So far the net result of the efforts on the part of the various governments to lift prices has been practically nil, and it is doubtful, according to economists, if farmers are obtaining the cost of production of grain in any country when the various currencies are reduced to the basis of gold.

France an Exception.

The possible exception to this rule is France, where minimum prices are in effect, but recent cables have indicated farmers are unable to sell freely. Good quality French flour is said to be selling in Syria at 30 francs while the same quality flour costs French bakers 185 to 200 francs.

Relative world's consumption of wheat per capita has decreased sharply in the last few years as the result of the governmental effort to lift prices, which has added to the world's surplus at the end of the crop year. Prior to the war the world's disappearance was increasing fairly steadily, but since that time there has been unmistakable evidence of a relative reduction, which is regarded as due entirely to the fact supply and demand have been given little chance to operate.

Watch American Effort.

Price fixing having failed to bring about the desired results, the trade is now anxiously awaiting the outcome of the new American effort to solve the problem, that of reducing the crop to correspond with the probable domestic demand. France and Germany have both signified their determination to try the same idea after having gone to extremes in an effort to stimulate production.

There are many in the trade who believe that if actual supply and demand were left to function normally the price of wheat, corn and other grains would be materially higher than current levels.

With the attitude of the government the main influence few traders care to express a firm belief regarding the immediate trend of the wheat market, other than that price changes will be unusually wild.

Some Expect Upturn.

However, some operators believe that after the turn of the year the government's efforts to reduce acreage for the 1934 crops, combined with this year's short harvest will bring together two of the greatest influences in the market, and push prices up rapidly.

Wheat prices during the last week fluctuated violently. Liquidation was under way early with a drop to a new low for the season, followed by an advance of 14⅝ cents to 16½ cents from the low figures, and the close on Saturday was at net gains of 6 cents to

MAY ASK RFC HELP FOR STEEL PLANT IN CHINA

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The proposed construction of a large steel mill project in China, for which may be asked Reconstruction Finance corporation aid, similar to plans under consideration for assisting American manufacturers in Russian sales, was disclosed tonight.

The construction plans were revealed by William A. Haven, vice president of the Arthur G. McKee Engineering company, who confirmed reports that his company is completing designs and specifications of a complete blast furnace and steel mill, costing between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, to be erected at Canton, China, by the government of Kwangtunk province.

Haven said the possibility of obtaining Reconstruction Finance corporation aid is being studied by Chee Kin Ho, chief engineer and head of the mining division of the Kwangtung department of reconstruction, who said he may go to Washington shortly to discuss the financing with RFC officials.

LIFE INSURANCE GROUP TO OPEN MEETING TODAY

Three hundred representatives of 115 life insurance companies will open a three day joint convention of the Life Insurance Sales Research bureau and the Association of Life Agency Officers at the Edgewater Beach hotel today.

At the opening session this afternoon, featured by a dramatic presentation entitled "Planning for Profit," M. A. Linton, president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance company and chairman of the executive committee of the bureau, will discuss "Inflation." Budgetry control and operating problems will continue into Tuesday.

TEXAS AND PACIFIC BUYS 75 MILE HOUR 2 CAR MOTOR UNIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—The Texas and Pacific railway has bought from the Budd Manufacturing company a 480 horsepower gasoline motor car with an air conditioned and rubber tired passenger carrying trailer. The road is controlled by the Missouri Pacific, which is bankrupt, but was not included in the bankruptcy action.

The two car unit is built to provide 50 per cent more speed than the two car train that it will displace, although operating with one-fifth of the power, one-sixth of the weight and one-half of the cost. Its maximum speed is 75 miles an hour. It has separate compartments for white and Negro travelers. The leading car carries baggage, mail and express. The trailer rides on two eight wheeled, rubber tired, roller bearing trucks, the unit will be used on the 500 mile run between Fort Worth and Texarkana.

To offset the gasoline hazard a device interlocked with the brakes cuts off the engine ignition and opens all control contacts in the front car in an emergency. Light signals and automatic interlocking stop the engines in case of oil pressure failure. A flexible coupler of Budd design is used to reduce vibration in the trailer. Unshatterable glass is used in the windows.

The cars are of welded steel. The only wood used is in the floor boards and some postal equipment.

Reports Cuba Living Up to Sugar Agreements

HAVANA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The new secretary of agriculture, Carlos Hevia, has announced that Cuba is observing all its international sugar agreements. He said the government now is considering an extension of the export permits for shipments to the United States under a quota which otherwise would be invalid after Dec. 31.

74TH BIRTHDAY OF A. & P. STORES TO BE OBSERVED

All Great Atlantic and Pacific stores, including 1,500 stores in the greater Chicago area, are celebrating this week the seventy-fourth anniversary of the founding of their business, it was announced.

The "idea of modern merchandising" was conceived in 1859, when George H. Hartford opened a small tea shop on Vesey street in New York. He raised enough money to buy in a whole shipload of tea and sold it out to his customers at unprecedently low prices. Furthermore, he marked a standard price on his A. & P. teas, an unheard of practice then, when bargaining over the counter was the rule. He began to add one store after another.

The principle of the Hartford idea was explained in one of his advertisements in Harper's Weekly in 1867: "The proprietors . . . became fully convinced, several years ago, that the consumers of tea and coffee were paying too many and too large profits . . . and, therefore, organized the . . . Tea company to do away, as far as possible, with these enormous drains upon the consumers."

SENATE GROUP TO PROBE CHASE LOANS TO CUBA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Public works loans to Cuba by the Chase National bank will be examined tomorrow by the senate banking committee as the aftermath to an angry denial by Winthrop W. Aldrich, Chase president, of charges of graft and scandal. Aldrich, aroused by a newspaper story that the bank sought to hush up an inquiry into its Cuban loans, insisted upon the investigation.

Chairman Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] thereupon called a special session of his committee for tomorrow to go into the advances which aggregated approximately $100,000,000.

Aldrich told the committee the money was spent for public works and that payments on the loans had been met. The bulk of the money involved was lent to the government.

Japan Buying More Cotton from America

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—Japanese purchases of American cotton have substantially increased as a result of the Japanese boycott of Indian cotton, according to the New York Cotton exchange service. The boycott is in retaliation for an Indian duty of 75 per cent on imports of nonBritish cloth.

The Service says in part:

"The cotton exports from the United States to Japan so far this season total 461,795 bales, compared with 273,827 bales in the same period last season, and a previous maximum of 343,251 bales two seasons ago. The large exports two years ago resulted from the exceptionally large American crop in 1931 and the forward buying by Japanese interests on the prospect that Japan would depart from the gold standard.

Total to Date.

"Latest advices on movement of Indian cotton to Japan cover imports by Japan in August and September of this year. They totaled 80,000 equivalent 500 pound bales, compared with 84,000 in the same months last year and 214,000 two years ago.

"Although the Japanese spinning industry depends on export trade for about 55 or 60 per cent of its business and India takes about 30 or 35 per cent of Japanese cloth exports, the imposition of the high Indian tariff on Japanese goods last June has not as yet resulted in any decrease in Japanese spinning operations.

Use More Cotton.

"Japanese mills used more cotton in August and September this year than in the corresponding months in any previous year. They spun 476,050 equivalent 500 pound bales in the two months this year, compared with 426,000 last year and 415,000 two years ago. The previous maximum was 444,000 bales, recorded four years ago prior to the beginning of the world depression."

AGENTS GATHER TO PLAN SALES FOR FRIGIDAIRE

H. W. Newell, vice-president in charge of sales of the Frigidaire corporation, Dayton, O., a division of the General Motors corporation, is meeting with the district sales managers from Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri, Minnesota, Michigan, and Iowa today and tomorrow at the Knickerbocker hotel here. The purpose of the meeting is to outline the Frigidaire fall sales program.

"The improvement in sales volume of Frigidaire in the last six months definitely proves that the buying power of the nation has been increased," Mr. Newell said. "Dealing in units of sales of $100 and higher, our organization can gauge the country's pocketbook fairly accurately.

"Manufacturers of other nationally known products in the furniture, rug, radio, and appliance fields have had much the same experience. There is a definite trend toward quality in all lines that is working to the advantage of the long-established, soundly financed companies which have been advertising their wares for years."

So far this year Frigidaire has devoted 65 per cent of its advertising appropriation to daily newspapers, Mr. Newell said.

VARIED EVENTS BRING ANXIETY TO STOCK MART

Selling Waves Hit Paper Fortunes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—Thoughtful stock traders are finding any number of things to worry about in the current market which is dominated by the new deal. Vague unconfirmed reports from Washington that steps are being taken to curtail speculative operations on the securities exchanges; recurring rumors that France is about to abandon the gold standard; the unrest in Germany; the farmers' revolt out west; broad hints that the government is shaping plans to assume stricter control over such details of private business as executive salaries—the headlines of the daily press fairly bristle with reminders of the many problems bearing on speculative thought.

In its dilemma, the market has become an easy victim for any adverse reaction that blows its way. On only two days of the last week did it present any suggestion of support or resistance. The progress it registered in those brief turnabouts—on neither day did it amount to as much as 2 points as measured by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE averages—was generally ascribed chiefly to technical conditions brought about by drastic shakeouts.

Averages Take Tumble.

On Monday the averages took a tumble of more than 4 points in a heavy selling drive and in two other sessions the losses exceeded three points for the list as a whole. On the week the index tumbled nearly 10 points, making it by long odds the most disastrous period for the length since the big collapse of the "new deal" recovery movement last July.

The start of the new week finds THE TRIBUNE'S averages on fifty representative issues at 72.97, or nearly four points below the so-called resistance levels established in the July shakeout. The low for the year recorded on March 2 was 46.85.

Paper Fortunes Hit.

From all account the selling has dealt a hard blow to many new paper fortunes run up when the market was capitalizing talk of forthcoming currency inflation and other "new deal" innovations. There has been gossip during the last few days. In fact, that some big time speculators have become involved in serious difficulties as a result of commitments shouldered when the going was so good. Some brokers thought that the heavy selling which came into the market during the second hour of yesterday's trading might have been due in some measure to alarm over these rumors.

Qualified observers admit, however, that sentiment in the speculative community has become more bearish than at any time since the big bank holiday last spring and the opinion is widely held that it is going to take some extraordinary development to give the market a fresh push.

The brokerage house comment of the day indicates a growing belief that the NRA program has bogged down and with administration spokesmen putting out assurances that currency

BOND TRADERS HESITANT; LIST MOSTLY LOWER

U.S. Governments Strong; Foreign Liens Uneven.

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Bonds moved haltingly during the last week as conflicting news developments apparently caused both traders and investors to assume a hesitant and cautious attitude toward listed loans generally.

It was true that United States government securities and most of the prime investment corporation maturities maintained a steady to firm position. But secondary issues were in supply at most times and their prices were considerably reduced. The more speculative loans followed stocks closely.

The President's announcement that the treasury's new $500,000,000 bond offering had been oversubscribed more than four times was received in some quarters as an indication that actual monetary inflation was not being considered at the moment, but various bankers were inclined to the view that currency expansion is a live issue.

Reserve Cut No Influence.

The New York federal reserve's reduction of the rediscount rate from 2½ to 2 per cent had been expected for some time and apparently had little effect on the list as a whole. The modest curtailment of the reserve system's open market purchases of government obligations also created little stir in the senior security section. It was pointed out that the member banks already have excess reserves of some $800,000,000.

The rails and low priced utilities were under pressure throughout, although there was no especially pessimistic news which might have depressed them.

Industrials Not So Heavy.

Industrial loans were not quite so heavy in the aggregate as those of the carriers and utilities.

Bonds of the European gold standard countries dropped sharply in response to drastic declines in their exchange rates. German issues rallied after sagging, following the reich's resignation from the league of nations and the disarmament conference. Other foreign loans were irregular.

SEPTEMBER LIFE INSURANCE SALES OFF 9.7 PER CENT

New life insurance production in September, totaling $577,776,000, was 9.7 per cent under a year ago, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents reported yesterday. Industrial insurance, with a gain of 3.4 per cent, was the only class to show an increase.

New ordinary was down 7.4 per cent while new group was off 62.3 per cent for the first nine months of this year the cumulative total of all classes was $5,758,935,000, or 17.9 per cent under the same 1932 period.

The figures cover business of 42 companies having 85 per cent of the total life insurance outstanding in all American legal reserve companies.

Industrial Rayon.

Investors' Guide: Will you please let me know what you think of Industrial Rayon as an investment? Thank you for any information you may be able to give me.—Miss E. E. S.

Answer: Industrial Rayon corporation manufactures rayon yarn by the viscose process. Completion of the Covington, Ky., plant modernization program stepped up annual capacity to 17,000,000 pounds. About 11,000,000 pounds are distributed to the textile trade and the remainder taken by the company's own knitted cloth department. It is the third largest unit in the industry.

The sharp spurt in business about the middle of the year booked the company to capacity for July, August, and September. The company had to turn down business because of inability to meet demand.

Net income for the third quarter of 1933 amounted to $572,000, or $2.86 per share, against loss of $36,000 for the corresponding 1932 period. For the first nine months of this year net income was $1,258,000, or $6.29 per share, against loss of $211,000 for the corresponding 1932 period.

Net income of $448,000 in the fourth quarter of 1932 enabled the company to finish that year with a profit of $237,000, or $1.64 per share, on a smaller number of shares. During the first nine months of 1932 slight demand, minor price cutting and competition from low priced silk were responsible for loss of $211,000.

Net income for 1931 was $684,000, against $1,548,000 for 1930, $1,452,000 for 1929 and $1,664,000 for 1928.

Current position is strong. On June 30, 1933, cash and United States government securities alone totaled $6,928,000, against total current liabilities of $621,000.

Lackawanna Steel 5s.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your rating of Lackawanna Steel 5s due 1950.—B. S. G.

Answer: These bonds are secured by substantial equities. Liability on the bonds has been assumed by the parent company, Bethlehem Iron and Steel corporation, a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel corporation. Bethlehem Steel, although currently operating at a loss in common with other steel companies, occupies a strong trade position and should share in any general recovery in the industry. The bonds are considered sound.

FOREIGN TRADE URGED TO SPEED U. S. PROSPERITY

Head of National Council Tells of Needs.

In a statement on the progress of American foreign trade, James A. Farrell, chairman of the Nation Foreign Trade council, emphasizes the necessity of continuing efforts in overseas commerce "as a natural and indispensable element in the recovery of our national prosperity."

"Our home market never can become the sole prop of our economic welfare," declares Mr. Farrell. "Any lessening of our efforts in the foreign field would react with serious results to our manufacturing industries and our standard of living, and seriously impair the advantages we now derive from the profitable exchange of our goods and services, and the advantages which other countries derive from their trade with the United States.

Links Trade to NRA.

"The operations of the national recovery measures are steadily bringing into prominence the extent to which major sections of our national economy are dependent for prosperity upon overseas markets. The codes submitted by industrialists and producers will achieve greatest results by recognition of the importance to be attached to the encouragement of our overseas commerce as a natural and indispensable element in the recovery of our national prosperity."

Mr. Farrell cautions American foreign traders not to neglect Europe as a market for American exports.

"The fact that increasing industrialization abroad may tend to restrict our exports has no foundation in our past experience," he says. "Our best markets are those of highly industrialized countries. Although this depression has brought such a sharp decline in our export trade, Europe continues to be our leading market. During the first quarter of this year, our exports to that area were 49 per cent of our total, exceeding the percentage of any calendar year since 1925.

Urges Latin American Trade.

"Latin America is in an early stage of economic development that favors reciprocal trade arrangements. There are economic ties between the nations of this continent which favor closer relationships and which make our bargaining position strong in spite of most favored nation treaties concluded with some other countries by some of the Latin American republics.

"It is significant that, among the world's grand divisions, figures for the first eight months of the present year reveal that the sole gains in our exports were in our trade with Latin America. Our exports for this period are still 10 per cent behind corresponding figures for 1932, but in Latin America they are 3 per cent in advance of last year, and this advance is steadily growing larger every month.

"Significant also is the fact that our competitive power in Latin America and elsewhere was not based, as some have wrongly insisted, upon low production costs derived from low wages. Past experience and the conclusions reached in other countries prove the contrary. It is to the export of finished products, at low costs derived from mass production and highest wages, that we owe, in the period 1922-1929, our growth in exports and our increased standard of living.

High Wages No Obstacle.

"After the 1920 crisis it was generally held that revival of our foreign trade was impossible on the existing high scale of wages. There was the same clouded outlook as now, the same counsels of despair. Yet we can look back on a period of unprecedented prosperity in which a high level of exports was not inconsistent with a high level of domestic prices and a high standard of living.

"These counsels of despair have given rise to the fallacy that we can become a self contained nation; that we can continue to prosper without foreign trade. It is true that the United States is less dependent upon foreign trade than most industrial nations. It is certain also that the maintenance of a proper ratio of exports to total production is an essential requirement of our economic system."

COPPER PRICES DROP ATTRIBUTED PARTLY TO CODE DIFFICULTY

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Reports that another copper producers conference which would include foreign interests is in the offing has sharply focused attention in trade circles to the recent cent and a half per pound decline for the red metal. This decline has been one of the most striking developments of the October recession in commodity prices.

Although this country is effectively isolated from world copper markets by the four cents a pound tariff, domestic producers are said to be vitally interested in production abroad and its subsequent affect on current prices and future world agreements if the tariff should not be renewed for another four years.

The drop from an average of nine cents a pound to seven and a half cents in copper was attributed in trade circles to an unsatisfactory underlying condition in the industry, which has been developing for some time, coupled with difficulty experienced in writing a code under the NRA fair competition practices which came to a standstill when discord arose between producers and custom smelters over insertion of a clause held by the latter to be equivalent to price fixing.

Custom smelters were anxious to sell their stocks of refined metal which had piled up enormously, while the producers who contend they cannot take ore out of the ground, refine, and sell it profitably for less than 12 cents a pound, desire some restrictions placed on this market practice.

FRANCE BARGAINS FOR NEW TRADE; MAY AFFECT U. S.

Favored Nation Program to Be Discarded.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—France is adopting a policy of out and out bargaining in her foreign trade relations, with most favored nation treatment headed for the economic graveyard.

Swapping of exports for imports on a basis as nearly fifty-fifty as possible is envisaged in parleys now under way or contemplated with Germany, soviet Russia, and other powers.

American exports to France may tumble if France's new policy succeeds in deals with her European neighbors. These deals in turn may eventually become the basis for negotiation of new commercial treaties with the United States, Argentina, and other overseas countries.

Will Use Import Quota.

France's system of import quotas, which has been criticized by American interests as a handicap to their trade, is the chief bargaining tool in the new scheme. Seventy-five per cent of the previous quotas are being set aside for trading purposes, leaving the various nations sure of only one-fourth of their former trade with France.

Many of France's imports, however, are raw materials which only certain countries can supply, such as cotton from the United States and raw hides and wool from Argentina.

A start on the new program was made with a drastic reduction of the quotas on secondary grains, animals and meats, fruits and vegetables, and dairy products including butter, for the last quarter of this year.

May Affect United States.

While the new plan does not abrogate the existing quota agreement with the United States, Americans are wondering how three-fourths of France's total imports can be diverted to nations favoring her products without impairing the American quotas or giving another country a bigger share of French business.

The United States, commercial experts say, has no special tariff concessions to offer France or any other country in exchange for more French business. Negotiation of a new Franco-American trade agreement has been in abeyance since last autumn, when the United States sought most favored nation treatment. The French government since has declared its desire to suppress most favored nation clauses so as to "regain tariff liberty."

Brazil Tightens Its Grip on Exchange Transfers

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 22. [U.P.]—Brazil intends to continue strict control of foreign exchange transfers, a study of the latest presidential decree indicated today. Exporters of the United States and other countries will find it difficult to make collections. Under the decree, the Bank of Brazil will continue to maintain firm control of exchange transactions, and other banks will not be permitted to operate in that field. The decree forbidding the export of gold remains in effect.

LETTERS

Letters of general interest on business and finance of not more than 200 words will be published from time to time.

Insurance "Twisters."

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 16.—I have been reading some very interesting articles on life insurance in THE TRIBUNE during the last week or so. I have admired some of the things you have said.

We read a great deal these days about the "life insurance twister." Therefore in order that I not be misunderstood in this letter I have no use for the man who passes out misinformation about companies to get a man to drop and rebuy insurance.

But a great many of the so-called "twisters" are not twisters to my mind. I have reference to the well informed, sincere life insurance man who, when asked about a company, sincerely refuses to recommend a company that may not "stand up." If a life insurance man can sincerely say to himself that he would not continue a policy in a certain company, if he owned such a policy, should he tell his client to continue the policy?

Isn't the trouble with such a company within itself? Many of the things that some companies have done are not commendable. Some such companies are still operating today. They continue to collect premiums on the basis that they will carry out their contracts. The people are allowed to put more money into them.

And these companies are the ones who squeal the hardest when their policy holders are given the truth. A man who represents a company tried and true never worries about an attack on his company. In fact, such companies are attacked but rarely and the unjust attack easily refuted.

Life insurance occupies an enviable position today. It cannot hope to continue that position unless unworthy managements are wiped out of the picture.

A. L. A.

Don't Mention It.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—This is to inform you that we greatly appreciated the excellent manner in which you handled our 28th annual meeting in THE TRIBUNE. Please accept the thanks of our organization. BYRON R. ELLIOTT, Manager and General Counsel, American Life Convention.

Receivers and Fees.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—I trust Superintendent of Life Insurance Palmer will not allow the litigation over the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A. to drag out for months as in the case of the Illinois Life. In the latter case the business showed an immense shrinkage and hurt the interests of the policy holders in getting a reinsurance contract. Of course, the receivers and the attorneys collected fees for a much longer period. Let us hope that that disgrace will not be repeated. A POLICY HOLDER.

Hiring Democrats.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—I have noticed criticism in your columns that Democrats are being given jobs with the deposit insurance corporation and other new governmental agencies. May I suggest that the reason is that Republicans are so scarce that the Democrats have to be hired. C. S. V.

Canada's Sales to British Empire Rise 15 Per Cent

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 22.—The dominion bureau of statistics has just reported an increase of 15 per cent in Canada's exports to British empire countries in the first ten months' operation of the imperial conference trade agreements. These exports had a value of $188,106,037, as against $163,725,597 for the same period a year ago. Exports to Great Britain gained 17 per cent.

N. Y. INVESTMENT TRUSTS MOVING TO NEW JERSEY

Avoid Various Taxes, Get Cheaper Rentals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—Although the stock exchange and other branches of the securities business have decided against moving to New Jersey, the trend of such financial institutions across the river was continued. Many of the leading trusts now have their headquarters in Newark or Jersey City.

Investment trusts began moving to New Jersey early this year as a means of avoiding the high taxes on corporations and income in this state. New York, as a matter of fact, has been only a secondary home for virtually all of the trusts for many years. Earlier laws of incorporation in such states as Delaware and Maryland have for many years resulted in the incorporation of trusts, as well as other types of companies, in those states. Until this year, however, most of the leading American investment trusts have maintained their headquarters in New York.

Move for Several Reasons.

Several factors have played an important part in the moving of these companies across the river.

The first item, most of the trusts admit, has only a remote connection with New York state or city taxes. It is the fact that rents in New Jersey are little more than half of what they are in this city.

Next in importance is the fact the New York state franchise tax is a great deal higher than it is in New Jersey. In this state, whether a corporation makes money or loses it during a year, it must pay annually to the state one-tenth of 1 per cent of the capital employed in this state. On top of this, a corporation must pay a tax amounting to 1 per cent of gross income, as well as the regular corporation income tax.

State Income Tax a Factor.

In addition to this, the personal income tax is of great importance, as it has been raised to help cope with the present fiscal emergency in this state.

Trusts which have been carrying on extensive operations for the transfer of securities, through exchange offers, have also found that they can provide a very substantial economy for stockholders by effecting the exchange in New Jersey rather than in New York. Across the river it is only necessary to pay the federal transfer tax on such transactions, the New York state tax of four cents a share thus being avoided.

U. S. GOODS LEAD CHILE'S IMPORTS FOR 8 MONTHS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 22.—The United States was the world's best salesman in Chile the first eight months of this year. But, while leading with 22 per cent of the nation's imports, there were surprising changes among other nations, government figures showed today.

Peru, with 16 per cent, for example, jumped into second place, compared with fourth at 12 per cent last year. Meanwhile the British Isles clung to third place with 13 per cent, compared to 15 in 1932.

Argentina went into fourth place with 12 per cent, as against seventh place in 1932 at 2 per cent. It was a bad eight months for Germany, as imports from that nation—second through last year—dropped to fifth place with 11 per cent.

The United States with 19 per cent was displaced as Chile's best customer, dropping to second place as the British Isles grabbed first by taking 28 per cent of Chile's exports. Last year the United States took 30 per cent, the British Isles 27.

HOTEL ST. GEORGE, BROOKLYN, PLANS REORGANIZATION

George V. McLaughlin, president of the Brooklyn Trust company; Douglas Vought, vice president of William A. White & Sons, and William T. Hunter, president of A. Schrader's Son, Inc., have been added to the membership of the protective committee for Hotel St. George [Clark Henry corporation], Brooklyn, N. Y., first mortgage 5¾ per cent serial gold bond certificates, series A.

The committee reports that earnings of the hotel during 1932 and the first eight months of 1933 were more than enough to cover interest on the bond certificates but not enough to cover maturities of principal.

"Assuming a continuance of good management, the committee feels that the hotel property is in a position to reflect favorably any improved trend in current business," the announcement says, "and owing to its very substantial going concern value it should with only moderate financial readjustment be in a position to carry on successfully."

The committee hopes to submit a definite plan of reorganization in the near future and urges holders to deposit their bond certificates. Halsey, Stuart & Co. is depository for the committee in New York and Chicago.

WASH GOODS PRICES IRREGULAR.

Wash goods prices are reported somewhat irregular on the spring lines coming on the market. Some converters, in their anxiety to book early business, are disposed to ignore the replacement cost of gray goods in their price calculations.

August Tire Shipments Show Gain Over Year Ago

Shipments of pneumatic casings during August totaled 4,707,085 units, compared with 5,497,191 in July and 2,654,863 in August, 1932, the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, Inc., reported yesterday. Production amounted to 4,993,609 units, against 5,713,626 in July and 3,089,201 in August, 1932. Inventory was 7,069,574, compared with 6,844,006 on July 31 and 6,658,974 at the end of August, last year.

September net income was $522,543, against $591,121 for the same month last year.

Corn futures held above the lowest figures of the previous week when new low levels for the season were established. At times it appeared as though shortage in the new crop was commencing to have some effect, but there was not the broad outside speculative trade regarded necessary to bring about a sustained upturn, and to lift the price level to a figure corresponding to the limited harvest of this year. Net gains for the week were 3⅝ cents to 4¼ cents, December closing at 43⅛ cents to 43⅝ cents, May at 49¼ cents to 49¾ cents and July at 51⅝ cents.

Illinois Central Retains Lower Suburban Fares

J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager of the Illinois Central, said yesterday that the present low one-way and round-trip tickets on the Illinois Central suburban lines will remain in effect after A Century of Progress Exposition has closed. If the results of the extension are favorable, it is expected that the rates will become permanent.

VARIED EVENTS BRING ANXIETY TO STOCK MART

inflation has been put aside no further help is anticipated from psychology on that score for the time being at least.

Liquor Stocks Ease.

The senate committee's reported preparations to pry into pool operations blamed for the overbuilding of the liquor stocks has put a quietus on the performance of that group for so long regarded as the mainstay of the list and the changed outlook on the monetary situation has brought the long prominent gold share group down 'n a heap. Even the farm implement and mail order shares have been unable for days to reap any advantage from the government's operations in the grain pit, widely regarded as a step designed to aid the falling speculative markets.

Steel shares are on the run afresh due to a heavy drop in output for that major industry. The oils have been able to take some courage from the administration's new plans in their behalf and the railroads have shown signs of hope at intervals, but elsewhere the market has presented a pretty dreary picture on the week as a whole.

BRITISH FOREIGN TRADE LARGER THAN YEAR AGO

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Great Britain's overseas trade is increasing, it is shown by preliminary figures for September. Exports were nearly £6,000,000 larger than in September, 1932, and nearly £1,300,000 larger than in August of this year. The major part of this increase was in manufactured goods.

Imports were £1,000,000 greater than in August and £3,500,000 more than in September, 1932. Virtually the whole increase was accounted for by larger imports of raw materials. The adverse visible balance of trade was larger than in August, but smaller than in 1932, being £22,142,000, against £25,141,000 a year ago.

These figures with other indications of trade improvement are expected to increase interest in industrial securities, leading to a revival of financial activity with a resultant fresh impetus to trade.

UNION CARBIDE EARNINGS SOAR IN 3D QUARTER

Dividends for Year Already Assured.

Profits of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation picked up sharply in the September quarter and brought profits for the nine months period within a cent per share of covering the full year's dividend requirements of $1 a share.

The quarterly statement, issued last night, showed net income of $4,603,662, equivalent to 51 cents a share. This contrasts with net income of $1,984,917, or 22 cents a share, in the third quarter of last year.

The company earned more in the third quarter than it did in the first six months of this year. Net income was $4,301,210, or 48 cents a share, in the first half year. Third quarter net brought profits to $8,904,872 for the first nine months, equal to 99 cents a share, compared with $6,221,354, or 80 cents a share, in the corresponding period of 1932.

The improvement which began in the company's business in the second quarter, was accelerated during the last three months. The pickup came in response to heavier demands for its principal products from the mining steel metal working, automobile, chemical and other basic industries.

The company's ferro alloys sales are increasing due to their increased use in the production of new types of steel. Larger sales of oxy-acetylene gas, together with welding and cutting apparatus, also contributed materially to the recovery in earnings.

The $1 annual dividend rate was adopted by the company in the first quarter this year. Prior to this year the company paid $1.20 annually. The reduction was prompted by the poor first quarter earnings of 18 cents a share.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—R. C. Holmes, a director and former president of the Texas corporation, who is seeking proxies for a special meeting of stockholders charging that the present management of the company is using the resources of the company to induce stockholders from signing the call for the special meeting.

Stockholder-employés of the company, Mr. Holmes states, also have been coerced by the management into turning over to their superiors the proxy blanks sent them in an effort to block the calling of the meeting. He declares that this coercion has not been confined to employés, but has been extended as well to stockholding suppliers of material and services to the corporation and its subsidiaries, who have been given to understand that their business may suffer if they favor the special meeting.

Paramount Reorganization Plan to Be Submitted Soon

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—The operating results of the Paramount Publix corporation since bankruptcy, and particularly during the last few months, have been sufficiently encouraging to warrant belief that the reorganization should be effected within a reasonable time, according to an announcement of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. A plan of reorganization will be submitted as soon as practicable to the various creditors and security holders' committees, he said.

FEDERAL SURVEY FINDS INDUSTRY CHANGES 'MINOR'

Slight Declines Mark Major Indexes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—Only "minor changes" occurred in the rate of industrial operations during the week ended Oct. 14, slight declines being reported in some of the major indexes of business activity, according to the weekly survey by the commerce department, made public today.

Steel production has averaged about 40 per cent of capacity—the current rate—in recent weeks and the increased buying at the end of the third quarter has not been sustained. Automobile production declined last week and a reversal of the trend in this industry awaits the new models.

Power Output Lower.

Electric power production fell off 1.7 per cent for the week, and was 7.4 per cent above the same week of 1932 in comparison with 9.3 per cent in the preceding week. Bituminous coal output was down sharply for the latest week reported.

Lumber production was slightly lower, but the output in this industry has not changed materially in more than a month. Combined indices of business activity moved slightly higher in the two weeks ended Oct. 7, due to the influence of the cotton forwardings index. Without this component the index was unchanged for this same period.

Seasonal Gain Missing.

Reports on retail sales have not shown the usual seasonal gain so far in October, but preliminary data on the first half of the month for the New York area indicate that department store sales so far this month are making a somewhat more favorable comparison with a year ago than was the case in September.

The upward movement of commodity prices was resumed last week, the rapid rise in nonagricultural commodities offsetting by a considerable margin the further drop in agricultural prices.

CURB MARKET SLUMPS, DUE TO HEAVY SELLING

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The curb market slumped heavily last week in successive selling waves. Losses for the period ranged from 1 to 7 or more points in active shares. A late recovery, however, reduced declines moderately.

Activity increased sharply on the selling, and transfers for the period showed a substantial gain over the previous week, averaging well over 300,000 shares for each full five hour session.

Liquidation got under way late Monday following extreme dullness earlier in the day. Heavy losses were recorded in metals—Newmont Mining, New Jersey Zinc, and Bunker Hill and Sullivan. Among petroleum shares Gulf and Humble oils experienced bad setbacks.

Leading members of the utility group, including Electric Bond and Share and American Gas and Electric, offered fairly good resistance to selling, although moderate losses were incurred.

Alcohol shares were in substantial supply, excepting National Distillers new which more than held its own. Numerous specialties suffering sharp downward revisions included Aluminum company of America, Dow Chemical, Parker Rust Proof, and the recently buoyant Celluloid issues. Technicolor was an isolated firm spot.

CHICAGO RETAIL TRADE HOLDS UP, SURVEY REPORTS

Wholesale trade receded slightly, but retail business in Chicago held up last week, according to the survey of local trade conditions by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Although department store officials reported that retail business has not responded to seasonal influence as quickly as usual, the large number of visitors in Chicago sustained the buying. Wholesale trade fluctuated daily, but failed to hold the previous week's expansion over 1932.
